HAYS PUTS BUDGET AT $3,079,037.20; SAYS WETS AID COX

Tells Senators Republicans Seek $1,000,000 More for Their State Campaigns.

GIVES NEW JERSEY APPEAL

Presents Letter from Liquor Men Asking Money to Help Democratic Fight.

DENIES COX QUOTA SHEET

Hints Democrats Aimed at $10,000,000 Fund—$2,000,000 Enough, Cummings Says.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, testifying today before the Senatorial committee investigating the campaign funds, said that the committee's total budget was $3,079,037.20, in addition to which about $1,000,000 was being raised for the State committees. He charged that the liquor interests in New Jersey were soliciting money to aid the campaign of Governor Cox and hinted that the Democrats were attempting to raise a $10,000,000 fund.

Mr. Hays, who was the principal witness at the resumption of the committee's sessions, denied all knowledge of the Republican quota sheet calling for $8,145,000 cited by Governor Cox in his Pittsburgh speech and of an attempt to raise $15,000,000 as charged by the Democratic nominee. He was followed by Homer S. Cummings, ex-Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who said that $2,000,000 was enough for a national campaign fund. Mr. Cummings said, however, that the expenditure of $3,000,000 would not be proof of corruption.

Hays Tells of $3,079,037 Budget.

Mr. Hays read a long statement before the committee, reviewing the activities of the National Committee since May, 1919, when he said a budget was formed.

"It was our opinion," said Mr. Hays, "that the best way for providing money was by small contributions from the great membership of our party. We organized drives for funds exactly as the Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives were organized. We formed a budget with the following estimates and we are compelled to keep within them:

"Speakers' Bureau, $255,100; headquarters expense, $750,874.20; rents, $45,643; publicity, including all kinds, $1,346,500; general expenses, including all bureaus and incidentals not included in previous general headings, $680,320; which gives us a total of $3,079,037.20."

Senator Kenyon—"What is the 20 cents for?"

Mr. Hays—"That is all figured out in the budget. The budget is the amount that became the sum fixed for the Treasurer to reach. The Treasurer is driving to collect enough and no more than is necessary to meet the expenses outlined in this budget.

"During the time this budget was being made up and as early as August, 1919, the opposition was engaged in a similar activity, aiming for much larger amounts. I will call attention to the issue of a newspaper report of Sunday, Aug. 24, 1919, in which W. D. Jamieson of the Democratic National Committee is quoted as declaring that the Democrats must have $10,000,000 to elect a President. Here's the headline, 'Need $10,000,000 to elect.'"

Senator Reed interrupted. He opposed putting newspaper reports into the record.

"Just a minute," Mr. Reed said. "If this case is to be tried upon newspaper articles let's get the files of all the newspapers and discharge the stenographer and try the case with newspaper articles. I do not mean any reflection on the press. Newspaper articles brought some results at the last hearings, but the results should have been obtained without putting the articles in. We should go out and get the witnesses."

Opposes Summoning Cox.

Senator Edge—Do I infer from your remarks that you feel that it is the duty of this committee to summon Governor Cox here under oath to make the statements he has made in the newspapers?

Senator Reed—I would give any man who makes a charge the privilege of coming here or, if he does not know the facts himself, let him send us the names of the witnesses who will testify to the facts. I don't think it is in keeping with the situation as it stands at the moment to call Senator Harding or Governor Cox. But if Mr. Cox has these facts he ought to be able to give us the names of the witnesses.

After some discussion Senator Reed won his point on barring newspaper ar-

Hooker Says He Favors A $30,000,000 Fund

SOLON, Me., Aug. 30.—The hope that the Republican Party may have $30,000,000 to spend during the campaign was expressed by Elon H. Hooker of New York in an address here today.

Referring to the charge by Governor Cox that a Republican fund of half that amount was being raised, he said:

"I hope the Republicans may have $15,000,000 to spend during the campaign—I hope they have $30,000,000. For example, it costs $60,000 to send a single letter unsealed to the voters of New York State alone.

"I believe such an amount would be well spent if by so doing we could carry to every citizen in the United States a knowledge of the extravagance and mismanagement that this country has been suffering under for the past seven years."

COX DENIES HELP FROM WETS OR DRYS

Declares 'Absurd' Hays's Story of Liquor Men's Fund to Elect Him.

CHEERED BY NEW YORK TRIP

Governor Surprised at Interest in Campaign and League of Nations Issue.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 30.—"The wets have not contributed a dollar to our campaign fund, and they will not," was the reply made tonight by Governor Cox to the charges made by Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, before the Senate subcommittee investigating campaign contributions that the organized liquor interests had set out to elect Cox as President and were raising campaign funds for that purpose.

"I reply to the statement by Mr. Hays simply because silence might be misunderstood," added Governor Cox.

"In this State the wets have not been active in political movements in recent years. Less than $300 was raised by them in support of the referendum movement. Official reports show that within the last year or two the wets have not made large financial contributions even for the referendum campaign.

"I mention this only to show the absurdity of the charges made by Mr. Hays. If Mr. Hays would take the trouble to investigate the situation in Ohio he would find that the wets have not contributed a dollar to my campaign."

Governor Cox added that the professional drys had not contributed to his campaign either.

He intimated that the attempt by Hays to inject the charges he made into the campaign showed the lengths to which Hays and his followers had been driven by the exposures concerning their methods of financing the campaign of Senator Harding.

Governor Cox smiled at the denials made by Chairman Hays that the Republicans were raising a campaign fund of not less than $15,000,000, but refused to discuss the situation. He held to his assertion that the public would get all of the facts before the work of the Senate Committee was concluded, and that his charges were based on facts.

Found New Yorkers Interested.

Concerning his two days' trip to New York, Governor Cox expressed the greatest satisfaction.

"My notion had been," he said, "that ordinarily the voters of New York paid little attention to politics until after Labor Day. I was very much surprised to see the interest which was expressed at this time. It ran into many currents of thought.

"I was told by many that the issue of the League of Nations had wiped out party lines. There were the most favorable reports concerning the way the women will vote. One man, an old-time Republican, was quoted as saying: 'This man Cox has simply taken my family away. They are all going to vote the ticket that supports the League of Nations.' I knew that there had been a strong current among the voters of independent thought, but the volume of it was surprising.

"Rabbi Stephen S. Wise said the independent voters who are forming into a league wanted me to return to New York so that they could entertain me. These currents of independent thought were without respect to party organization. The League of Nations was one of the prominent factors in bringing about the situation, but the causes ran even deeper than just on the League issue."

Of Senator Harding's speech last Saturday in regard to international relations and the League of Nations issue, Governor Cox said:

"It represented the last plan to be presented."

He smiled as he intimated that Senator Harding and his managers would find it impossible to succeed before the

PRESIDENT ACCEPTS HARD COAL AWARD AND WARNS MINERS

Tells Workers They Are Bound in Honor and That He Cannot Set It Aside.

TAKES UP THEIR CHALLENGE

Asserts Country Can Find Fuel Until They Are Ready to Abide by Their Obligations.

THEY GET $85,000,000 MORE

Majority Report Grants Increases of from 17 to 20 Per Cent. and Recognizes Union.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—President Wilson approved today the majority report of the Anthracite Wage Commission, which awards from 17 to 20 per cent. over their present pay to men employed in the anthracite coal mines. Replying to the ultimatum sent to him yesterday by 300 delegates representing locals in District 1, United Mine Workers of America, demanding that he accept the minority report within three days under threat of a strike he informed them that he "can not and will not set aside the judgment of the commission," and that their challenge will be accepted.

The President calls the miners' attention to the fact that a convention representing the locals of the anthracite workers had agreed to accept the finding of the commission as final and adds that they would protest were he to set aside the award at the request of the operators. He points out that the minority report submitted by their representative, while setting forth his views on conditions assures the President that the majority report will be accepted by the officers of the United Mine Workers and the men as binding on them.

It is estimated that under the majority report there is now due the anthracite workers about $18,000,000 in back pay and that the increases in wages will aggregate at least $85,000,000 yearly.

The minority report submitted by Neal J. Ferry, the miner member of the commission, among other things recommends an increase of 31 per cent. on all contract wage rates, a flat increase of $1 a day to all adult male workers now receiving $5 or more per day and the establishment for all adult day workers now receiving less than $5 a day of a wage of $6 per day. Mr. Ferry also urged the same increases in pay as were granted the soft coal miners by the Bituminous Coal Commission and the standardization of rates of pay for the same work throughout the coal fields.

Wilson's Reply to Miners.

President Wilson's reply to the ultimatum of the miners follows:

The White House, Washington, Aug. 30, 1920.

Replying to your telegram of Aug. 29, your attention is particularly directed to the following language contained in the minority report of Mr. Ferry of the Anthracite Coal Commission:

"In conclusion, Mr. President, we wish to say, as we did in the beginning, that the majority report shall have the full practical acceptance of the officers of the United Mine Workers of America, and we shall devote ourselves to its application, as we obligated ourselves to do when we submitted our cause to this commission."

That was the manly and honest thing for Mr. Ferry to do. He courageously sets forth his views in the minority report and just as courageously declares he will abide by the decision of the majority, as the miners had obligated themselves to do.

It should be understood that there was no agreement between the operators and miners to have me decide the question at issue. With the many other important duties devolving upon me, I could not have devoted the time necessary to hear and digest all of the evidence presented. I therefore proposed the creation of a commission whose findings would be binding upon both parties. The representatives of the miners on the Scale Committee declined to accept the suggestion until it had been submitted to a convention of the United Mine Workers of Districts 1, 7 and 9, in that convention, by a vote of the men direct from the mines, a resolution was adopted accepting the proposition and solemnly obligating the mine workers to abide by the award.

By all the laws of honor upon which civilization rests that pledge should be fulfilled. Any intimation that the anthracite mine workers will refuse to work under the award because it does not grant them all that BELFAST, Aug. 30.—With a score of fires raging in the Shankill section of Belfast, a Catholic quarter, and practically every grocery shop and public house owned by Catholics wiped out, the rioting in this city was said by the authorities to have reached the stage of terrorism.

Tonight the death roll rose to eighteen and the number of seriously wounded to more than 200 since the outbreaks began five days ago.

More than 150 fires have occurred in that period.

The serious feature of today's riots is that they now have encroached upon the principal thoroughfares, which hitherto had been immune. Work is proceeding only on a limited scale at the shipyards, and save for solitary vessels unloading here and there the docks are deserted.

In Royal Avenue, the Broadway of Belfast, few shops are open and some of these are furtive in their trading. Mobs are rushing to and fro where Royal Avenue joins York Street, and at both ends of the latter thoroughfare two lines of sullen men are facing each other.

York Street, which had been quiet until this morning, has fanned the spirit of revenge into a fierce flame. Throngs of people on foot and on tramcars were traversing it early today, going to business and to the shipyards, when a mob came out of the side streets and attacked them with missiles. This quickly developed into a serious conflict, in which revolvers were used.

Five persons were killed and at least forty wounded and injured during the mêlée.

After this riot had been subdued and quiet reigned for a few hours, fighting again broke out and fresh casualties were treated this evening at the hospitals. Afterward there were collisions in North Street, Peter's Hill, Old Lodge Road and Shankill Road. A crowd carrying a Union Jack at its head was marching along when from the Nationalist quarters gunmen came out to meet it. Revolver firing ensued, but the excitement of the combatants in this case rendered the fusillade practically harmless.

An armored car and police arrived in force and the conflict was shifted to adjacent streets, where several men were unmercifully beaten.

Misdirected Heroism.

At North Street a policeman was shot through the neck by a gunman, who crawled around a corner. Another gunman was pluckily disarmed by a pedestrian with a stick. He had been sheltering in a doorway and pounced upon the man as he wriggled along.

Individual acts of courage, frequently misdirected, are constantly occurring. I witnessed a remarkable incident this afternoon. A body of men, many of who were well dressed, were congregated at the junction of Library Street with Royal Avenue. There were angry cries and I saw a mob trickling down Carrick Hill from the Nationalist headquarters. They hugged the houses, and as the Loyalists advanced to meet them they whipped out revolvers and fired indiscriminately. A stampede ensued, but a lad who could not have been more than 14 stood his ground and, indifferent to bullets flying about him, dug up stones from the roadway. Taking good aim he flung them at his assailants and rallied the men behind him by waving his disengaged arm.

An armored car then dashed into the road and an officer, stepping up, harangued the men. Soon a patrol of soldiers with fixed bayonets, and police, came from Carrick Hill, but by that time all the gunmen had vanished.

This episode is typical of conflicts in other parts of the city. This evening

STRIKE HEARING IS FUTILE

Receiver Tells Barrett That Judge Mayer Will Not Recede.

MEN FIRM FOR ARBITRATION

Mayor Hylan's Plea to Federal Judge to Yield Main Point Also Rejected.

NEW EFFORTS TO BE MADE

Commissioner Sees Hope in Proposal of Strikers' Counsel to Take a Fresh Start.

Acting Public Service Commissioner Alfred M. Barrett and Mayor Hylan made efforts yesterday to end the B. R. T. strike by conciliation, but made little apparent progress.

After a hearing before the Public Service Commission, which only resulted in showing how stubbornly both sides held their position, Mr. Barrett gained some hope when Louis Fridiger, counsel for the Amalgamated Association, to which the strikers belong, finally made an apparent concession.

"Let us wipe out all pending disputes, start all over again and arbitrate all questions."

Mr. Barrett planned to talk to the strike leaders again today and with B. R. T. representatives in the hope of finding some basis for a compromise without calling on either side to abandon any position which they deem vital.

Mayor Hylan's aid as a conciliator was welcomed by Federal Judge Mayer. The Mayor's proposal yesterday was that Judge Mayer should yield his objection to unlimited arbitration, but this was not accepted. The Mayor, it was reported, will have a new recommendation today for ending the strike and adjusting differences.

Barrett's Efforts Fail.

Receiver Lindley M. Garrison of the B. R. T. and Strike Leader Patrick J. Shea gave their views of the causes of the strike at the hearing called by Commissioner Barrett at the offices of the Public Service Commissioner. What was an effort to find some way of bringing the two sides together under a temporary agreement to end the strike while the dispute was being patched up, proved to be a dismal failure.

"You seem to be as far away as the poles," said Commissioner Barrett after hearing both the receiver and the strike leader.

"I think it is the narrowest issue I ever saw," said Louis Fridiger, counsel for the Amalgamated Association to which the strikers belong. "The only question is whether the company will agree to arbitrate. Let both sides put their cases in the hands of arbitrators and abide by the result. We will abide by it, even if we get only 1 cent."

"We will abide by it, if we get nothing," said Strike Leader Shea, who was still on the witness stand.

Commissioner Barrett urged the men to accept the proposal of Judge Mayer that they arbitrate the matter, allowing the reservation that the Judge might reduce the award to make it a financial possibility for the company to pay it.

Refuse to Discuss Earnings.

Terence Farley, lawyer for the commission, sought to discuss with Mr. Shea the statement of Mr. Garrison that the gross earnings of the B. R. T. were now $40,000,000 a year; that the company paid $25,000,000 a year in wages, and that the increases demanded by the men would eat up the other $15,000,000, leaving the company without a cent to purchase materials or meet other costs.

"I object to that question as immaterial," said Mr. Fridiger. "The men are entitled to a living wage. That is the sole issue. The financial condition of the company is immaterial."

Mr. Farley insisted that it was material and again asked the hypothetical question whether Judge Mayer should not have the power to reduce the award, assuming that the arbitrators gave the men all they demanded, with the result that every cent of gross income had to be paid in wages.

"That is what they ask, not what they expect to get," said Mr. Fridiger. "It is the same as the initial price that a man asks in a real estate transaction. You know that isn't what they expect. It is the first time I have ever heard them taken seriously by anybody."

"You mean these demands are not serious?"

"No, Mr. Attorney for the company, they are not."

"He is attorney for the Public Service Commission," put in Commissioner Barrett.

"Do you see any way in which this matter can be settled?" asked Commissioner Barrett.

"It is the easiest thing in the world," replied Mr. Shea. "Read Articles 3 and 4 and get them to abide by them."

"Do you propose not to let your men go back to work until after this matter is arbitrated?"

"Unless it is arbitrated, or unless we

The peak of the service rendered yesterday on the eleven subway and elevated lines of the B. R. T. system was sixty-one trains of two cars each. Ordinarily the company maintains a schedule of 215 trains, averaging seven cars each. Hourly figures showing the number of trains run, as obtained last night at the B. R. T. offices, disclosed:

At 8 o'clock last night the company announced that it would endeavor to operate forty-two trains throughout the night and make a substantial improvement for today's service.

There was no attempt to resume surface car service yesterday and there will be none today. This was the statement made last night by William S. Menden, general manager of the B. R. T.

SIX STRIKERS BEAT WORKER SENSELESS

Attack B. R. T. Inspector as He Leaves Bergen Street Barns Early Today.

4,500 POLICEMEN ON DUTY

Arrests in Strike Zone Total 18—Detectives and Men Battle.

With eighteen strikers under arrest on charges growing out of the B. R. T. strike, about 4,500 policemen were on active or reserve strike duty in the borough last night, and at Brooklyn Police Headquarters preparations had been made indicating that the police expected trouble.

The most serious of the disturbances during the second day and night of the strike happened early this morning when a B. R. T. inspector was set upon and beaten to insensibility by six men who leaped at him as he left the Bergen Street car barns, near Kingston Avenue. All six of the alleged assailants were captured, after a policeman had to use his nightstick to prevent a rescue.

James Veito, 180 Maujer Street, the inspector, stepped out of the Bergen barns and was passing toward Kingston Avenue when without warning the assailants rushed at him. Before Veito could offer resistance he had been beaten unconscious.

Policeman Frank Crossback of the Atlantic Avenue Station, on guard duty at the barns, saw the attack. He ran up and arrested Frank O'Rourke, 1,591 Sterling Place. Crossback declared that as he was endeavoring to subdue O'Rourke five other men rushed him and tried to pull his cap down over his eyes. The policeman's whistle brought other policemen and the five men were arrested.

At the Atlantic Avenue Station, where they were charged with felonious assault, the prisoners said they were Allen Temn of 381 Crescent Avenue; Frank Dowd, 162 Albany Avenue; Benjamin Mack, 139 Rochester Avenue, and Herbert Williams, 1,906 Pacific Street. All admitted, the police said, that they were strikers.

Veito was removed to the Swedish Hospital, where it was said that he had suffered a fractured jaw, a fractured nose and possibly internal injuries. His condition was described as serious.

Emergency Autos Ready.

Purely as a precautionary measure, ten big high-power automobiles were outside Brooklyn Headquarters last night, and inside the building were a picked detail of fifty plainclothes men ready to be rushed to the scene of any disorder that might develop. Inspector Thomas F. Murphy, who was superseded by Commissioner Lahey as the director of the police preparations, was in command of this "strike squad."

In addition to this detail strong details were on guard at every car barn at the B. R. T. and Long Island Railroad stations. They were having little to do, however, for the few strike pickets on duty were keeping within the prescribed limits.

Prepared for Violence.

"The District Attorney's office is established to suppress all violence or to bring about convictions where violence is being committed, and we will act accordingly," was the attitude of District Attorney Harry E. Lewis when he was asked last night to state his plans.

During the day disturbances occurred at Alabama and Jamaica Avenues, at the East New York barns, between strikebreakers and strikers and their sympathizers. As a result a crowd of hundreds of persons gathered. Seven alleged ringleaders were arrested by Patrolmen William Dawson and Edward Smith. The reserves were called to help

THOUSANDS HELD UP BY JAM IN TRAFFIC

Gigantic Crowds Mill and Fight for Vehicles — Confusion Reigns at Many Points.

250,000 IN ONE CROWD

Thousands Forced to Walk, Other Thousands Charged as High as $1.50 for a Ride.

City buses, hacks, taxis, autos, trucks, ferryboats, motorboats, bicycles—every form and every type of vehicle—were pressed into service yesterday to transport hundreds of thousands of Brooklyn residents stranded in various parts of the city by the strike on the B. R. T.

At every corner where transportation service of any sort was available crowds gathered. By hundreds, by thousands, and even by tens of thousands they came, pushing, shoving, swaying and perspiring—great human masses striving to fight a way to already overcrowded trains, or buses, or boats.

Brooklyn Bridge, Manhattan Bridge, the junction of the Long Island Railroad and the Interborough at Atlantic Avenue, Williamsburg Bridge Plaza, Grand Central Terminal, Pennsylvania Station and the ferry slips were storm centres in which the milling throngs struggled and swore and multiplied confusion upon confusion.

Morning, noon and night the seething masses congregated. They fought to get to work, and then, hungry and weary, they fought to get back to their homes. And as they fought they swore. They swore at the strikers, they swore at the B. R. T., and those of them who were fortunate enough to find this type of transport swore at the owners of vehicles, who charged them as high as $1.50 a passenger to give them a "lift" toward their homes.

250,000 in One Crowd.

At the Long Island Railroad-Interborough junction on Atlantic Avenue a quarter of a million would-be passengers were estimated to have gathered at 5 o'clock in the evening. Stretching out for five blocks in all directions, these Long Islanders and Brooklynites pushed and shoved and milled about in the worst traffic tangle of the day. The crowds had been great in the morning; they were multiplied now. And they grew and grew. Policemen had been stationed there to maintain lines and order. But they, with their lines and their order, were swallowed up and swept along like bobbing blue corks in a tumultuous sea of humanity.

It was hours before this traffic jam was broken up and peace restored to the excited neighborhood.

This held true at every station of the Interborough—the principal remaining channel through which the stream flowed to and from Manhattan. In every station jamming was terrific. Few had had the foresight to purchase tickets the night before, and as a result interminable lines formed before the ticket booths, adding to congestion and delay.

Hundreds and thousands and tens of thousands, worn out by standing in line or milling in the crowds, gave up the struggle to get transportation and walked to their homes.

One-Way Traffic on Bridges.

At the termini of the bridges in Manhattan the congestion was almost as great as at Atlantic Avenue. Captain Edward J. Toole, commanding the policemen patrolling all spans, declared last night that never before in the history of the East River bridges had the crowds been so dense.

Scores of extra men were assigned to bridge patrol duty. A one-way traffic system was installed. By this innovation all persons in Brooklyn were forced to come to Manhattan over Brooklyn Bridge, while all traffic from

CROWDS BLOCK THE STREETS

Nearly a Million Forced to Walk or Ride in Buses and Vans.

NO SURFACE CARS TODAY

HIRING NEW MEN RAPIDLY

Garrison Denies Charge of Power-House Lockout That Precipitated Strike.

A few thousand persons in Brooklyn were able to ride on the subway and elevated lines of the B. R. T. yesterday, the second day of the strike, while nearly a million were forced to walk long distances, to ride in vans, motor trucks, hay wagons and all types of horse and motor vehicles, and to be squeezed in mobs which extended for several blocks on the streets and sidewalks radiating from the Interborough subway stations.

No trolley cars were operated, and none will be operated today. Subway and elevated service increased yesterday from 3 per cent. of normal operation, which was the best achieved on Sunday, to slightly more than 7 per cent. of normal. General Manager William S. Menden of the B. R. T. said that he expected to increase subway and elevated transportation materially today. The betterment of service depends on the speed with which strikebreakers are recruited and trained.

There was no particular encouragement in yesterday's happenings for the hundreds of thousands who hope to see the strike settled swiftly and peacefully. The company continued to hire new men as fast as it could get them, and was apparently preparing to fight the strike to an end. The attitude of the strikers was equally far from disclosing weakness.

"Are you hiring strikebreakers fast enough to encourage you to believe that you can beat the strike?" was asked of Receiver Lindley M. Garrison.

Hiring Men as Fast as They Get Them.

"I would not call them strikebreakers. We are hiring and training men to operate the lines as fast as we can get them. I do not know how long it will take, but I can tell you that eventually we will run the whole system, from stem to stern, at normal activity."

When he was asked how much improvement could be expected in the next few days, Mr. Garrison replied:

"I don't want to answer that. I would rather have the people get more service than they expect than to expect more than they get."

Mr. Garrison denied the repeated report that there had been a power-house lockout before the strike itself. This report was the immediate cause of the strike, because it was spread at the union meeting early Sunday morning and stampeded it into a unanimous vote for striking.

"The only incident of the kind," he said, "was a case where a man reported for duty forty-five minutes late. His boss would not let him go to work, on account of his lateness in reporting, until the matter had been taken up with the chief man at the place. But before it could be taken up the man who was late left, and evidently went to the convention hall and spread the report that he had been locked out."

While there have been few arrests, little violence and efficient police action so far in the strike, the fear of trouble is the cause for the continued suspension of surface car operation. Virtually all of last year's violence was due to the war of the strikers on surface car operation.

Trolley cars can be manned with strikebreakers quicker than the more complex equipment of the subway and elevated roads, but the Amalgamated Association, the organization striking, is at its strongest on the surface lines. To send a few cars out, according to B. R. T. officials, would make them the storm centres of the strike, bringing hundreds of pickets after them on each run. Therefore, trolley car operation has been suspended until it can be resumed on a considerable scale.

Planning to Protect Trolleys.

Elaborate plans are being made to protect the trolley lines, when service is resumed, by stationing policemen on each car and keeping motor car squads of armed policemen dashing along the trolley routes, scattering mobs. An attempt may be made to resume trolley operation tomorrow.

Leaders of the strikers at their meetings in Brooklyn continued to advise against violence, asserting that public sympathy would win the strike for them if they maintained good order, but would turn against them if the strike was marked by violence. The strikers attended the meetings by thousands, enthusiastic over the results of the first two days. They were further cheered last night by reports from their officers that the employes of the New York Railways Company were agitating a sympathetic strike and that labor throughout New York City was becoming restive because the idea was being spread that the principle of arbitration in labor troubles was at stake.

Mayor Hylan and Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield renewed again yesterday the allegation that the B. R. T. officials were not averse to the strike. The Mayor offered a conversation with an anonymous man as proof that there had been a lockout and that the company had refused to attempt to operate cars even when they had men to man them. Commissioner Hirshfield intimated his belief that the B. R. T. was afraid to go to an open arbitration, because their books would disclose a better state of affairs than had been admitted.

The idea that the strike was favored by the company was characterized by Receiver Garrison as "the babyest nonsense I ever heard."

Hylan Appeals to Judge Mayer.

Mayor Hylan, who on Saturday told union leaders that he would have felt it his duty, in Judge Mayer's place, to act just as Judge Mayer had done, sent a letter to Judge Mayer urging the latter to abandon his position. Mayor Hylan asked him to grant unlimited arbitration, the one thing which the court has refused to concede.

The 10 per cent. increase which he offered to the men several weeks ago is the greatest possible increase which it is within the financial ability of the B. R. T. to make, according to the testimony of Receiver Garrison yesterday. Judge Mayer stood by his position that he must reserve the right to cut down any award of arbitrators, to bring it within the financial ability of the company. Accordingly, unless the receiver and court are at odds on the financial ability of the company, the 10 per cent. increase already granted would be the maximum which could be allowed even if there were an arbitration.

After Receiver Garrison had pointed out yesterday that the increases demanded would increase the payroll of the company from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 a year, which is the total gross earnings of the company, Louis Fridiger, counsel for the strikers, asserted that no one expected that anything like the demands would be granted. Asked point-blank if he meant that the demands were not serious, Mr. Fridiger said that they were not.

Both sides continued yesterday to charge each other with breach of contract, the strike leaders alleging that Judge Mayer and Receiver Garrison had broken a signed agreement to arbitrate all questions, while the strike leaders were accused of calling the strike without giving the thirty days' notice called for by the agreement.

Receiver Denies Charges.

Receiver Garrison held that the charge against him and Judge Mayer was false, because the agreement, which they were alleged to have violated was terminated. The strike leaders hold that they were guiltless, because in serving a new schedule of demands, exactly one month before they struck, they had served the month's notice by broad inference.

The investigation into past history and the attempt to straighten out the points in controversy resulted in wasted time at the hearing of the Public Service Commission yesterday, and Acting Commissioner Barrett finally adopted new tactics. Quitting the research and controversial phases, he began to hold private conferences with the strike leaders and representatives of the B. R. T. to see if some agreement could be drafted which would not force either side to sacrifice what they considered essential.

"I don't think we got anywhere today," said Strike Leader Shea last night, after the conference, "but Commissioner Barrett is going to try again today. Something may come of it."

get the prisoners in the motor prison van because of the threatening attitude of the crowd, which tried to prevent the arrests.

Those arrested, charged with disorderly conduct, were Roy Hetticker, 1,575 De Kalb Avenue, motorman; Isaac Strauss, 1,229 Halsey Street, conductor; Archie Harris, 9 Harrison Avenue, motorman; Wallace Androvette, 73 Williams Avenue, electrician; Solomon Goldstein, 566 Vermont Street, peddler; Joseph Weinblatt, 88 Lewis Avenue, confectioner, and Abraham Feurstein, 33 Delmonico Place, insurance agent.

Held on Felony Charge.

The next man to be arrested was Bernard Capadonna, 21 years old, of 639 President Street, a striking guard, who was arrested on a West End subway train on its way from Manhattan. He was charged with a felony. There was only one car on the train, and because the door could not be opened by the trainmen, the train, which was supposed to make all stops, did not stop from Pacific Street until it reached Thirty-sixth Street. The passengers became nervous when the train failed to halt.

Finally a plate was removed and it was found that slugs had been put in the box to prevent the door from being opened. Patrolman Edward Mynamee arrested Capadonna, who was on the train, and the police say they found seven similar slugs on him. He was held in $2,000 bail for hearing Thursday.

The next striker to come into the police custody was Samuel Haimowitz, a conductor, 306 Hopkinson Avenue, who went to the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum meeting in his automobile. The meeting was on at the time and there were several strikers outside who could not get into the hall. Haimowitz and several other strikers began talking from the automobile. A Police Sergeant ordered Haimowitz to move on. He started his car, but it was apparently not fast enough for the Sergeant, who told him to hustle up.

A war of words followed and Haimowitz was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. A crowd surged around the car and shouted epithets at the Sergeant. Five policemen on duty in front of the hall dispersed the crowd, and the Sergeant took his prisoner to the Vernon Avenue Station.

Detectives Fight Strikers.

Thirty men who had been employed at the trolley barn at Ninth Avenue and Twentieth Street putting wire netting about the front and rear platforms of cars to protect the crews were taken from their work at 5:30 yesterday afternoon and had proceeded two blocks when, according to the police, about forty strikers and sympathizers set upon them at Ninth Avenue and Eighteenth Street with iron pikes, bricks and blackjacks. A squad of detectives came up in an automobile and joined the fray, as did Detectives McGowan and Fitzgerald of the Fifth Avenue Station. The fight lasted ten minutes, the police said, but no one was hurt enough to need medical attention. The detectives arrested a striker and the son of another on charges of disorderly conduct.

Charles McDermott, a striking B. R. T. guard, of 418 West Forty-eighth Street, was arrested last night in one of the few B. R. T. trains that ran into the station at Sixtieth Street and Lexington Avenue. The arrest was made by Policeman Kelly of the East 104th Street Station, on strike duty in the station. McDermott was taken to the East Fifty-first Street Station, charged with disorderly conduct. According to the police, the striker was caught plugging up the keyhole of the motorman's booth with small pieces of wire.

Motor Cycle Policeman John Sadlo was showered with buns and rolls at midnight at Broadway and Lafayette Avenue by a group of fifty strikers when he attempted to serve a summons for reckless driving on Frederick Hamlin, chauffeur of a large motor truck carrying the strikers from the meeting at Labor Lyceum to the East New York car barns.

Sadlo blew his police whistle and the men scrambled off the truck and fled. Sadlo captured a man calling himself James Dougherty, 108 Manhattan Avenue, a striking elevated guard, and took him to the Vernon Avenue Police Station, where he was locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct and interfering with an officer. Hamlin will be arraigned this morning on the reckless driving complaint.

800,000 GET RIDES ON CITY'S 1,000 BUSES

Thousands of Privately Owned Cars Also Help Meet B. R. T. Strike Emergency.

MAN KILLED IN A CRASH

Crowds Travel Free to the Battery—Whalen Warns of Jitney "Pirates."

One thousand buses were turned loose by the city yesterday in Brooklyn and at the Manhattan ends of the bridges in an effort to relieve the B. R. T. strike traffic emergency. According to Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, director of the city's vehicle fleet, more than 800,000 persons patronized the buses during the day.

In addition to the city vehicles, thousands of privately operated motors were out to do their share and turn a profit for their owners. While some inconvenience resulted from overcrowding, those riding to work for the most part regarded the trip as a lark. Big corporations and banks, the Federal Reserve among the latter, provided their own transportation for their workers. There was one death and several accidents due to congested conditions.

Despite the heavy use of the buses, Commissioner Whalen declared that it was imperative that liberal patronage go to the municipal ferryboats operating between Whitehall Street, Manhattan and Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn. He declared the boats should be used to lighten the load of the motor transportation facilities. Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough, promised every facility his company could mobilize for the traffic today.

Late last night Commissioner Whalen, after gathering the reports of subordinates, and studying the situation himself, declared that the "1,000 buses now assigned to various lines are operating at capacity and proving their usefulness in good style." He paid official tribute to the work of the police, which he characterized as "everywhere admirable."

Warns of Illegal Charges.

Mr. Whalen said he had heard of various cases of excess charges by taxicab operators, and he urged that the public report all such cases to John F. Gilchrist, Commissioner of Licenses, 57 Centre Street. He said he had been informed that a favorite method of getting an exorbitant fare was for the taxi drivers to declare the "meter is out of order." Mr. Whalen said an additional force of inspectors and detectives had been placed at the disposal of Commissioner Gilchrist in the war on the taxi "pirates."

The Commissioner reiterated his request that the public familiarize itself with the routes of the twenty bus lines which the city placed in operation to and from stations of the Interborough subway and Long Island Railroad in Brooklyn. He predicted that the bus lines, which yesterday worked a trifle awkwardly, would be in smooth operation today.

"One thousand buses are now assigned to the various lines," said Mr. Whalen, "but, owing to the terrific traffic jam resulting from the strike, the service which is rendered on these lines is not as effective as it should be. However, when the people of Brooklyn realize the transportation facilities which the bus lines will afford them at 5 cents fare, many of them will refrain from using the private cars or hiring motor and other vehicles at exorbitant rates in order to reach Manhattan.

"Advantage should be taken of the water routes in operation between Coney Island and New York, Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn and New York, and Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn and New York. If the people will patronize the bus routes running into these piers from which the municipal boats leave they will be able to reach Manhattan very much quicker than using the subways or any other means of land transportation. I strongly urge upon the people of these sections to use the water facilities arranged to get back and forth to business and their homes.

"Boats will leave every fifteen minutes from Pier A, North River, Manhattan, tomorrow and until further notice, and the fifteen-minute time table, as announced this morning, will be continued from Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn.

Short Headway on Ferries.

"A ten-minute schedule from the Thirty-ninth Street Municipal Ferry, foot of Whitehall Street, went into effect beginning at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Coney Island service will leave from Battery landing tomorrow as it did today.

"Commercial and pleasure vehicles should patronize the Thirty-ninth Street Municipal Ferry, also Hamilton, South and Fulton Ferries, as much as possible in order to relieve the tremendous pressure which has been put upon the East River bridges.

"Beginning at 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Brooklyn Bridge become a westbound bridge and the Manhattan Bridge an eastbound for vehicles. This will reverse the order of this morning.

"From 4 o'clock until 8 the Williamsburg Bridge became an eastbound bridge only for vehicular traffic. The one-way system on Brooklyn and Manhattan Bridges was most effective for the handling of the great volume of traffic that desired to cross from Brooklyn to Manhattan. Until further notice the above regulation will be in effect on the three bridges mentioned.

"There will undoubtedly be a great many motor vehicles carrying passengers for hire at a fare in excess of 5 cents, but all such cases that come under the observation of the Police Department or the Inspectors of the Department of License and the Department of Plant and Structures will be reported to the Secretary of State, in order that their licenses may be revoked.

"It is the desire of the officials in charge of the emergency bus service to regulate in so far as it is possible the fare to be charged on all vehicles carrying passengers for hire.

"In order that the buses operating over the emergency lines will be given every possible facility, the forces of Borough President Riegelmann of Brooklyn will patrol the routes."

Ferry Passengers Ride Free.

In order to give further publicity to the city's operation of the ferry service from Whitehall Street, placards announcing the boats and their schedules were affixed to every possible vantage point between Bowling Green and the Whitehall Street pier. The placards announced that the fare would be 5 cents, but after the first trip to the Battery had ended yesterday morning there was no attempt to collect the fares. The passengers, used to the ways of these days of high-living costs, were stunned.

"But you can't suit everybody," as Inspector James Hallock, Chief of the Police Department's Marine Division, explained last night, "for several of the passengers came around to my cabin to complain that we didn't have a newsstand on board, where they could get their morning newspapers."

The Inspector commandeered hundreds of benches from Battery Park and placed them on his boats, the John F. Hylan and the Correction. He said he expected there would be a committee representing the park loungers on hand this morning to register a protest against the stealing of their siesta seats, but the passengers of the police boats vote the benches a great help.

Crowds Are Orderly.

At the Thirty-ninth Street Ferry in Brooklyn two extra boats were put on during the rush hours and there was a big rush for these vessels, the only means of transportation to that part of Brooklyn from Manhattan. Captain Oscar P. Himmel, of the Old Slip Station, put on an extra force of policemen, but they had little to do, as the crowds were orderly and the boats, being on short headway, quickly cleared the waiting rooms. The Union Ferry Company also operated their boats on ten-minute schedules, with the largest crowds going to Hamilton street, Brooklyn, where the single surface car line running in Brooklyn, and which gets 3 cents for the trip to Erie Basin, was in full blast. This line served hundreds who live in the crosstown district and there were dozens of automobile trucks, with improvised seats, waiting at Hamilton street to supplement the line's facilities.

"The ladies first" came into the code of operation of the intinerant jitneys, trucks and buses, running without city backing, when the Royal Efficiency Trucking Company of 5 North Moore Street suspended its regular business and turned its eight big trucks over for the emergency, a big sign across each of the trucks announcing that it would run from lower Broadway to Brownsville, and that women would be carried free. Throughout the day Paul O'Brien, President of the company, personally supervised the operation of the trucks from the Brownsville section, from which the company maintains a regular trucking service. Last night the buses left from Canal Street and Broadway, and every one of them had a bumper cargo of stenographers or girl clerks.

Telephone Company Carries Employes.

The New York Telephone Company put six passenger buses, each with a capacity of forty, into operation early. The company, it was said, had 3,000 employes living in Brooklyn, of which 2,500 were employed in the lower Manhattan exchanges and offices. The bus service, it was announced, would be continued during the strike.

Six buses were in the service of the American Telegraph and Telephone Company to carry its 400 employes who reside in Brooklyn. It was reported that the company had only four absentees, while the New York company reported twenty-five operators not at their posts as a result of the strike.

Some Ride in Luxury.

Many large business and financial concerns provided their employes with comfortable auto buses, having fixed seats, free of crowding, in which the fortunate ones rolled homeward like sight-seeing tourists.

The Federal Reserve Bank at 15 Nassau Street and 120 Broadway used large sight-seeing buses to speed all of its Brooklyn employes to their homes. Five of these big cars rolled up Broadway with the men and women employes keenly enjoying the change from hot subways on a hot day and the congestion of elevated and surface car terminals. These Brooklynites would be willing to keep off the B. R. T. until snow comes.

In thousands of other cases the crowding of vehicles by thrifty owners and the use of many trucks that were unfit for passenger service, caused extreme discomfort, but the victims of this form of service were content to find some means of getting home, and they often joined in the laughter of bystanders who sympathized with them in their plight. A group of girls in a West Washington market wagon, crossing Broadway at Canal Street, got a road of applause from persons on Broadway cars, halted to let traffic pass. Spectators pressed forward to learn the cause of it and read on the side of the vehicle: "Dealers in live ducks and chickens."

There were trucks with wire screens on sides and ends to prevent passengers from falling off, but which resembled coops like those marketmen use to transport fowls from market to butcher shops. Other trucks, roofed, with frames of slats on sides reaching to the roof, including a slatted end gate to match, were packed to suffocation with boys and men, who peeped through the bars or waved their hands to those on sidewalks.

Some of the truck loads of perspiring humanity resembled loads of lambs and calves passing across the city from cattle cars to wholesale butchers. Passengers in one crowded truck at Broadway and Prince street recalled this mode of cattle delivery, evidently, as they amused themselves and passersby with their cries of "Baa! baa!" and "Moo! moo!"

One Killed—Several Hurt.

One man was killed and six persons injured in automobile accidents last evening in Brooklyn. All were traceable indirectly to the strike, and were due to the congestion on the streets. Isadore Sternberg, 27, 1,469 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, was killed when an automobile he was operating crashed head-on with one driven by Joseph Bella, 4,618 Eleventh Avenue, Brooklyn, at Fiftieth Street and Eighteenth Avenue, Brooklyn. Bella took Sternberg to the Kings County Hospital, where Dr. Hankler pronounced him dead. Ella Bella, a daughter of Joseph, was attended for lacerations of the scalp.

Michael Prescio, 7, 170 Twenty-first Street, Brooklyn, was struck at Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street by an automobile operated by Tony Esposito, 153 West 100th Street, Manhattan, who picked up the boy and took him to the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, where it was found he had a fractured skull.

Max Kriscusson, 7, of 113 Cook Street, Brooklyn, was run down at Bushwick and Flushing Avenues by an automobile driven by Adolph Dagarino and sustained a fractured skull. He was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital.

Albert G. Welg, 7, of 56 South Ninth Street, jumped off a motor truck at South Ninth and Berry Streets, directly in the path of an automobile driven by Harry Boweski, 470 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn. His right arm was broken. He was taken to the Williamsburg Hospital.

Joseph Callegeri, 15, of 438 Pacific Street, was hit by an automobile at Franklin and Willoughby Avenues. His left leg was broken. The car was driven by William Sussman of 294 West Thirty-first Street, Manhattan. The boy was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital.

Bernard Frank, 8, of 161 Kosciusko Street, suffered a fractured right leg and contusions of the head when run down near his home by an automobile driven by William D. Raitaino, 230 Nostrand Avenue. He was taken to St. John's Hospital.

A private bus with twenty passengers aboard crashed into an automobile containing William J. Woll, his wife and Woll's father, Jacob Woll, the latter 63 years old, at Stockholm Street and Irving Avenue, Brooklyn. Jacob Woll was removed to the Wyckoff Heights Hospital with cuts on the head and body. Woll and his wife escaped unhurt. Their car was wrecked. The driver of the bus, William Heln, 71 Jefferson Street, Brooklyn, was not held.

HYLAN FAVORS ARBITRATION.

Issues Statement Citing Men's Demand for Same Course as Last Year.

Mayor Hylan issued the following statement to the public yesterday:

"So that the public may be conversant with the strike trouble that exists between the employes of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system and its officials and receiver: Under the agreement between Receiver Garrison and the committee of employes, dated Dec. 16, 1919, both sides agreed that:

"If either or any party shall desire to make changes in this agreement on or after July 28, 1920, during the continuance hereof, it is understood that the party desiring such changes shall, on or after that date, give thirty days' previous written notice to the other party or parties, specifying the changes desired.

"The employes made requests which had for their purpose a change in the agreement. The receiver refused to meet them, but finally Transit Construction Commissioner Delaney arranged for a conference after the men had agreed to eliminate some of their radical requests.

"The men contended that their grievances and requests were to be submitted to arbitration. This was refused, as Judge Mayer approved only of a limited arbitration, reserving the right to himself to approve or disapprove of the award. The employes contend that last year every question was left to arbitration without either side reserving the right to approve or disapprove of the award. This year they are willing to leave all their questions again to arbitration and do not see why their new proposals cannot be arbitrated. If it were possible for Judge Mayer to leave all questions to arbitration as he did last year, I believe that the difficulties could easily adjusted."

DENIES HE WILL ASK FOR FEDERAL TROOPS

Wild rumors were spread yesterday that Federal Judge Mayer was thinking of asking for Federal troops to police Brooklyn during the strike.

"There is not the slightest possibility of such a thing," Judge Mayer said. "The suggestion is absurd. So far as I am informed, the police are doing their full duty in preserving order and protecting life and property."

Manhattan was routed over Manhattan Bridge. Once the plan became understood it served to relieve the congestion.

The normal rush at the Williamsburg Bridge plaza is about 200,000 every morning. There were double that number there yesterday for, under the city bus system, the quotas of other territories were landed there. Hundreds of motor vehicles did their share in transporting the workers over the bridge, but there were thousands who were forced to walk. Two hundred policemen from widely scattered precincts were on duty early at this point. They had all that they could do to handle the mob.

In the Flatbush section thousands were deposited at the Nostrand Avenue and Flatbush Avenue Interborough stations, and at 8:30 o'clock the platforms were filled to capacity, the stairs leading out could hold no more, and on the streets the would-be riders were waiting ten abreast. Just before 9 o'clock the Interborough managed to get a big force of special policemen and subway guards to the stations and they eventually marshaled the crowd into lines.

Hundreds Get Free Ride.

Similar conditions obtained during the morning at the Atlantic Avenue point, and before the force of specials and guards got on the job there nearly 1,000 persons, the cargo of a Long Island passenger train, rushed past the ticket choppers for a free ride. The Long Islanders were caught in the jam and waited a while. Then apparently they got tired doing that and just pushed ahead a bit. The ticket choppers were brushed aside and amid a chorus of laughs and gibes the crowd went through.

Long Island City also was hard hit by the strike. According to the estimates of the railway officials nearly 25,000 men and women used the Steinway tunnel extension of the subway between Fourth and Jackson Avenues, Long Island City, and the Grand Central Terminal in getting to their work in Manhattan. About 45,000 were transported home that way last night. These people were conveyed to Long Island City station points by buses from the Williamsburg and Greenpoint sections. The total carried was double that of a normal day's traffic at Jackson Avenue station.

The buses and motor vehicles of all descriptions which were pressed into service for travel over the narrow span on the Vernon Avenue viaduct over Newtown Creek, between Greenpoint and Long Island City, created serious congestion, and an extra squad of traffic police, under Inspector Thomas F. Ryan, had to be called into action.

Factories Use Motor Trucks.

All of the big factories in the Long Island City territory put into service their motor trucks, fitting them up as carryalls. The employing managers in numerous plants were designated as "traffic managers" for the day, and they worked out routes for the trucks to operate over. Today many of the workers will assemble at chosen points for conveyance to work by these trucks.

On the B. R. T., the Cypress Hills, Lexington Avenue and Culver lines on the bridges managed to operate three-car trains on a twenty-minute headway, but they carried few passengers. This was explained by the police as being due either to sympathy for the strikers or fear of being hit by missiles thrown by men who had walked out. Strikebreakers manned most of the bridge trains, and unionists in other trades among the homegoing throngs jeered the men.

During the day the fleet of ancient and modern vehicles at the bridge entrances displayed signs reading "25 Cents to Coney Island and Points in Brooklyn." When, however, the business buildings began to disgorge their thousands of workers, these signs were replaced by others boosting the price to 40 cents and 50 cents.

There appeared to be little grumbling about the price, however. Passengers swarmed aboard the trucks and carts. All they wanted was to get home before dinner cooled.

Three-Cent Line Reaps Harvest.

On the Williamsburg Bridge the three-cent car line reaped a great harvest. Every car was packed to the steps. These trolleys run to Fulton Street and Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, and carried thousands to within walking distance of their homes. The Third Avenue surface line, operating between the bridge and the Post Office at Mall Street and Broadway, was the principal feeder for this route to Brooklyn.

Trains over the Queensboro Bridge via the Fourth Avenue line were scheduled on a thirty to forty-five minute headway. A sign at the Queens subway station at Lexington Avenue and Sixtieth Street informed the public that trains were being run over the bridge for shunting through the Montague Street tunnel.

Packed ferryboats were the rule last night at the foot of Whitehall Street, where the municipal ferries, placed in operation by Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, were operating to Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn. This service was designed for the convenience of persons living in the Coney Island, Bay Ridge and South Brooklyn sections. It was estimated that 5,000 persons used the boats.

can reach some satisfactory adjustment, replied Mr. Shea.

"You mean that you don't want the strike to continue any more than the public does?"

"You bet I don't."

Want All Points Arbitrated.

Commissioner Barrett suggested that the strikers should consent to an arbitration of the meaning of the article in the first agreement of last year, which provided that all questions "hereafter" arising be arbitrated, and that both parties accept the award. Receiver Garrison and Judge Mayer have held that this article provided the method for arbitrating all outstanding questions at the period of last year's strike, but that it was a provisional agreement which was automatically terminated when final agreement was reached. The final agreement contained no provision for arbitration or for the settlement of questions on which the receiver and the employes of the system could not agree.

Mr. Fridiger refused to consider the arbitration of this individual point, but again asserted that the strikers were prepared to enter into an all-inclusive arbitration, embracing every point at issue.

Receiver Garrison in his direct testimony started with the strike of last year, telling what had led up to it and of the agreement finally reached. He not only asserted that the original arbitration contract terminated when it had served is purpose of producing an agreement on wages and working conditions, but that no one had ever suggested that it was still alive and operative, until the present situation had become acute.

"Then you consider that as terminated," said Commissioner Barrett.

"Certainly. So did Mr. Shea. At the beginning of the negotiations this year, he wanted to know if we would not bind ourselves to arbitrate this year, as we did last year. It is absurd to think that at that time last year we were binding ourselves for all time. No one attributed such a meaning to it, until this trouble arose and some legitimate reason had to be given for the strike."

Says Situation Is Different.

Mr. Garrison admitted that the agreement of last year had called for unlimited and binding arbitration, but said that the situation was different this year, and that the court was not prepared to do today what was done a year ago. He quoted Judge Mayer as having said:

"We did things that we are not going to do again. I am not going to enter into any arbitration that may make us engage to do something that we simply cannot do."

Quoting Judge Mayer's objection to unlimited arbitration on the ground of "legal inability" to engage in it, Mr. Fridiger asked Receiver Garrison if he knew of any law that really did prevent unlimited arbitration. Receiver Garrison refused to discuss the law involved. He said that he himself had never made the statement that unlimited arbitration was prevented by "legal inability."

"If you want to debate that question you must debate it with Judge Mayer."

Mr. Garrison refused to enter into an argument on the question whether Judge Mayer was consistent in consenting to arbitration in 1919, but finding a legal obstacle in the way of it in 1920. Mr. Garrison said that he had entered very reluctantly into the agreement to unlimited arbitration, but that it had not occurred to him that there was any illegality in the proceeding.

In his recital of facts Mr. Garrison said that the final agreement of last year provided that either party should give thirty days' notice of intention to terminate the agreement. This notice had never been given, he said, and the agreement was still legally in full force. He stated, however, that he had read during the last month statements of union leaders that the agreement ended on Aug. 28, and that he had thereupon started to hire men to work on the system in case of a strike. On Aug. 22, he said, he had offered to stop hiring strikebreakers if Mr. Shea would promise that a week or ten days' notice would be given before any strike. Mr. Shea, he said, promised to refer this to the union members, but never made a reply on it.

Mr. Fridiger called attention to the fact that the Executive Committee of the union had served on the company on July 28 the new schedule of demands. He insisted that, being served exactly a month in advance, the new demand schedule constituted a month's notice of intention to terminate the agreement. Mr. Garrison held that it was quite plain that no notice at all of intention to quit the agreement had been served.

After the testimony of Mr. Garrison, Edward W. MacMahon and a committee from the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce appeared before the committee and submitted as part of the record of the hearing a brief statement by the Executive Committee of the Chamber, scoring the strike as "a deliberate breach of contract." Mr. Fridiger objected to its going into the record. He insisted that Mr. MacMahon take the stand, but the latter refused.

"I wanted to question him on the manner in which they obtained their information," he said. "This is a most contemptible proceeding. These people have taken the statements of the B. R. T. officials, and I would not be surprised if a B. R. T. lawyer prepared it for them. They have not asked us for our side of the case. It is as much an ex parte statement as if it came from Judge Garrison himself."

Offered a Hearing to Strikers.

Commissioner Barrett said that he would permit a similar statement on behalf of the strikers in the record, and overruled the objection. Mr. MacMahon took the floor again, and said that the Chamber was anxious to get all the facts, and would afford the strikers every courtesy and facility, if they would appear before the Chamber.

"What!" said Fridiger, "You issue a statement condemning us and then ask us to appear before you? You first render a verdict against us and then suggest that we come over and present our case."

Patrick J. Shea denied that the theory that the arbitration clause in the first agreement was perpetual was a new theory, improvised for the purpose of the strike, and insisted that it had been understood by all parties last year to establish a permanent method of settling all future grievances. He quoted Judge Mayer as having said at the time:

"We not only want to end this strike, but we don't want any repetitions of it and we want to establish a method of preventing them hereafter."

Mr. Shea said that he had opposed the strike with all his ability at the meeting on Saturday night, because he thought the proposal of Mayor Hylan for further conciliatory efforts might bear fruit. He admitted threatening to brand it as an "outlaw" strike if it were declared on the basis of the standing or hand-raising votes at the first meeting. He said that the custom was to decide strike questions by secret ballots, but that this was not always observed. The objection to the vote at the first meeting, he said, was that it was taken in the midst of much turmoil that a fair count was impossible.

"At the second meeting," he said, "they got a report that they were locking out men at the power houses and they insisted unanimously that they go on strike immediately."

"From whom did they get the report?"

"I don't know who made it. It was made at the meeting."

"Did they make any effort to investigate it?"

"I think they did."

"Do you know if it was true?"

"No. I think it was."

"Don't you think the least you could do was to investigate it?"

"Well, you couldn't do much at that time of the morning."

"Was there much turmoil at that meeting?"

"Not as much as at the first."

"Would you say it was a legal vote or an illegal vote?"

"Legal."

"On what ground?"

"It was unanimous."

Mr. Shea could not recall the constitution and by-laws of the organization on voting in any detail but insisted that unanimity legalized any decision of the kind. Counsel for the commission asked him if it was legal for the minority vote of the second meeting to overrule the majority vote of the first meeting. Mr. Shea replied that the first meeting had also voted to strike, but the count had not been allowed.

"Didn't they vote to give the Mayor a week to try to settle it?"

Mr. Shea said that he thought they had voted down the Mayor's proposal, and James M. Sheridan, who had presided at the meeting, said:

"The men said they wouldn't give him a minute."

The hearing was adjourned until today at 2:30, when another effort will be made to find a method of adjusting the strike.

QUOTES "LOCKED OUT MAN."

Mayor Gives Out Conversation with B. R. T. Employe.

Mayor Hylan, who intimated in a statement on Sunday that the B. R. T. officials were glad to have the strike, because they regarded it as an additional ground for demanding a higher fare, gave out a conversation between himself and an unnamed man who said that he was a B. R. T. employe and had been locked out with many others.

Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield came to the support of the Mayor on this point, alleging that the B. R. T. officials really were responsible for the strike. When he was asked about rumors of this kind yesterday, Receiver Garrison said:

"That idea is the babyest nonsense I ever heard."

In the colloquy of the Mayor with the man who said he was locked out, verbatim copies of which were issued at City Hall, the man said that he had been employed by the B. R. T. for seventeen years, and that on Sunday morning he and others who had reported for duty at the Greenwood car barns were told that their services were not wanted. Questions and answers, from this point, as made public yesterday, were as follows:

Mayor—You saw Borough President Edward Riegelmann and he called up and thought you had better come over and see me?

Employe—Yes. We went to the meeting the other night when you were there and voted to abide by your suggestion, so the old men went home and to bed, happy in the expectation that it was to be left in your hands to straighten out. Then when we got up at 5 o'clock yesterday morning and found out that the power house men had been locked out we decided to stand by the Mayor's decision and reported at the barns, where we were told by a starter that the strike had been called and we would not be allowed to take a car out. About 300 of us men reported at the Greenwood car barn Sunday morning to go to work. We then went to our lockers, and found our controllers and air-brake handles had been taken away by some one.

Mayor—What branch of the service are you in?

Employe—I represent the surface branch—the motormen. I think if the company will let us, 75 per cent. of us old men will go to work at any time they say. I am speaking for the motormen and the surface line men. I had a talk last night with our bunch. We have our families to support, and in my opinion it seems as if they just want us out.

Mayor—I did not send for you, did I?

Employe—No, Sir; I never met you before.

Mayor—It is very interesting. When you say "they," what do you mean?

Employe—I mean the B. R. T. They seem to want us out.

Mayor—What do you think is the motive?

Employe—I was told by an official that the B. R. T. was running at a loss at the present time, and in the last of August, when our contract ran out, if they had to make a new arrangement with the men they would have to discontinue some of the lines unless they got an increase in fare. I understood you were going to have a conference today. I took it up with some of the men, and they said the Mayor is going into it and why not let him have this material from us men.

Commissioner Hirshfield said that an unofficial investigation had convinced him that the B. R. T. desired the strike in order that it might abrogate its contracts with the workers, withdraw the partial recognition previously accorded to the union and resume operations at a lower wage scale. He said also that the company was afraid of an open arbitration because that would mean opening the books of the company. He intimated that opening the books might make public information conflicting with the assertions that the limit of increased wages which could be met by the company was 10 per cent.

MAYER TELLS HYLAN HE WILL NOT SEE MEN

Judge Welcomes Mayor's Efforts, but Declines to Meet Those Responsible for Strike.

Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer, who has jurisdiction over the bankrupt B. R. T. system, in a letter replying to Mayor Hylan yesterday, welcomed the Mayor's efforts to settle the controversy, but added:

"I decline to see the men responsible for a shocking breach of contract and whose misconduct has visited so sudden and great a hardship upon the public."

The Mayor's letter was as follows:

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor, Aug. 30, 1920.

Hon. Julius M. Mayer,
Justice, United States District Court,
New York City.

Dear Sir—On Saturday evening, about 10 o'clock, I was present at a meeting of the employes of the B. R. T. (who work during the day) at Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn, and addressed them, requesting that they remain at work until such time as I had an opportunity to take the matter up with you and see if it was not possible to adjust the differences which exist between the Receiver and the employes. From later reports I understand it was the sense of the men at this meeting that they would defer the calling of the strike and give me an opportunity to endeavor to adjust the differences.

At 2 o'clock Sunday morning there was another meeting of the night men, at which I was not present, and I understand a story was circulated that the power-house men were locked out. This irritated the men and they decided to strike at 5 o'clock that morning.

I regret very much this drastic action. I feel it my duty, however, to again endeavor to bring about an adjustment of the differences. The men claim that all questions should be submitted to arbitration and that they are willing to submit to the award made by the arbitrators.

I understand you favor a limited arbitration and contend that you cannot submit these matters to arbitration as you did last year, and must reserve the right to approve or disapprove of any award made by the arbitrators.

Would it be possible for you to modify your decision in this matter? If you are willing I will be pleased to take the matter up with you.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

Judge Mayer made the following reply:

New York City, Aug. 30.

The Hon. John F. Hylan, Mayor of the City of New York.

Dear Sir: I have just received your letter of Aug. 30, 1920. I am inclosing a copy of my letter dated Aug. 25 to Receiver Garrison. A copy of this letter was handed to the committee last Wednesday, and they have been familiar with its contents since then. The letter in its present form was written after a long conference, at which the committee, Receiver Garrison, Commissioner Delaney, Mr. Menden and I were present.

Since then there seem to have been attempts to misrepresent the contents of this letter.

I understand that, with full knowledge of the contents of this letter, you stated at the City Hall last Saturday, and later at the meeting Saturday night, that I was right, and in effect that you would take the same position if you were charged with my duties. I was very much gratified with this expression upon your part, and I was as much surprised as you must have been at the extraordinary and unjustifiable conduct of those who struck early Sunday morning.

I stand upon the following provision and will not modify it, except that I decline further to deal with this committee: "However, if after negotiations you and the committee fail to agree, then I am willing that there shall be a submission to a board of arbitrators of the financial questions involved in the requested increases and that the fullest opportunity be afforded to such board to ascertain the financial condition for the receivership. It must be understood that any and every award must be within the financial ability of the particular receivership to meet, and for this purpose the court must retain the right to restrict any and every award within such limits."

The situation, it seems to me, is one which calls for the fullest cooperation with the court from the public officials. I shall not relinquish my duties nor escape my obligations, as the court has a trust in its charge.

In response to your inquiry as to whether I will be willing to have you take the matter up with me I may say that I shall, of course, be willing to see the Mayor of the City of New York. I decline to see the men responsible for a shocking breach of contract and whose misconduct has visited so sudden and great hardship upon the public. Very truly yours,
JULIUS M. MAYER.

As showing that the arbitration agreement of last year was not perpetual, but was limited to the controversy then pending, attention was called to the preamble of the agreement, which read:

"Whereas, At a conference with the Honorable Julius M. Mayer, Judge of the United States District Court, on Aug. 9, 1919, it was agreed that the then pending strike of employes on the B. R. T. be called off and the men return at once upon the following condition, viz."

THREATENS STRIKE ON MANHATTAN CARS

Sheridan Hopes to "Tie Up New York as Tightly as Brooklyn" in a Few Days.

SURFACE MEN SEE SHEA

Counsel Fridiger Tells Workers That Judge Mayer Is a "Contract Breaker."

"I hope that within a few days New York will be as tightly tied up as Brooklyn. The men of the New York Street Railways Company are with us and tonight they are in conference at the Hotel Continental with Shea and Fridiger."

This statement, with its threat of an attempt to spread the Brooklyn strike paralysis to Manhattan was made last night by James M. Sheridan, Chairman of the Brooklyn strikers, at a mass meeting in the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum, Myrtle and Willoughby Avenues. It was greeted with noisy approval and there were shouts of, "We'll tie up the town," and "Get 'em all out."

The meeting in the comparatively small hall drew about 3,000 of the B. R. T. strikers, a few hundred more than had jammed their way into an earlier gathering in the afternoon. About 2,500 other strikers listened to encouraging speeches by leaders at a third meeting in the Brownsville Labor Lyceum, Sackman Street and Liberty Avenue.

Chairman Sheridan took the chair. At his appearance there was an outburst. Most of those at the meetings were the younger men of the strikers. Reporters were barred from all gatherings.

Outlines Causes of Strike.

Sheridan began his speech with an outline of the causes which the union says brought about the walkout. He then submitted reports form local officers showing the extent of the strike, its progress and the financial condition of the locals. He said that after the hearing conducted by the Public Service Commission in the afternoon at its headquarters in 49 Lafayette Street, a committee of fifteen men, representing employes of the New York Street Railways Company, operators of the green cars, had sought Patrick J. Shea, First Vice President of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, and Louis Fridiger, counsel to the association. According to Sheridan, the committee was escorted to union headquarters in the Hotel Continental, Broadway and Forty-first Street. He then made his statement about his hopes for Manhattan transit conditions.

When told of Sheridan's speech in Brooklyn, Shea said last night:

"Yes, the Committee of Fifteen of the employes of the New York Railways Company has been here and has gone. There is no statement to make."

"Is it true that the outlook is that the city, including Manhattan, will be tied up within three or four days—or tied up at all?"

Wouldn't Predict Tie-Up Here.

"I wouldn't say that; I certainly wouldn't say that."

"Do you know what action the Committee of Fifteen intends to take, or what action it has under advisement?"

"I do not," was the reply. "The committee came to see us of its own accord to discuss the general situation. If its members wish to see us at any time again we are at their disposal."

Mr. Shea said that to reveal the name of any one of the fifteen would "mean instant dismissal." He said he had not heard of any intended action by Interborough employes or by the employes of any other transportation company of the city. He said the committee was at the hotel "an hour or an hour and a half."

Shea denied there had been any conference between himself and representatives of the Interborough's employes. He said, in reverting to the visit of the surface car employes' committee, that the committeemen had left with the understanding that if they arrived at a decision they were to resume their conference with him at once. Up to a late hour Shea had not heard from the committee, it was said.

Shea and Fridiger were among the speakers at the afternoon meeting in the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum. Shea said the B. R. T. had "forced this strike" and that "it is a case of Garrison and Mayer to a finish." He urged the strikers to continue to refrain from violence and pictured the strike as entirely successful from all angles. Fridiger, in his exhortation to the men to "stay out until it hurts," said at one point:

"It is with full realization of my position as an officer of the court I say to you that Shea and I in all our lives never began to be the contract breaker that Judge Mayer is. We fought a bloody war because an autocrat called an agreement a 'scrap of paper.' He was no worse than those in charge of the railroad. They were bound by our agreement only as long as it gained something for them. The closed-shop charge is a slick way of obtaining public sentiment. It is designed merely to cover their own contemptible contract breaking."

I. R. T. SERVICE AT MAXIMUM.

Hedley Praises Police and Employes in Handling of Brooklyn Traffic.

Responding to Commissioner Whalen's request for additional service by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company during the period of the strike emergency, Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough, yesterday issued this statement:

"The Interborough is running its maximum train service to Brooklyn from both the Broadway-Seventh Avenue and the Fourth-Lexington Avenue Manhattan subways. We are not turning any trains at South Ferry at all; everything is being sent through to Brooklyn. We have also made temporary arrangements to take care of the sale and cancellation of tickets in Brooklyn equal to the maximum carrying capacity of the lines.

"The Police Department very efficiently handled the unusual crowds thrown to the Interborough train service, especially when it is considered that many people were thrown to the Interborough stations in Brooklyn, such as Atlantic Avenue, for the purpose of getting to New York who were entire strangers to that locality. It is only fair to say that the Police Department's creditable handling of this matter was such as to permit the Interborough to handle this vastly increased number of passengers thrown to it this morning without accident.

"The management appreciates the spirit in which all of the employes of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company performed their duty this morning, notwithstanding the fact that many of them during the emergency have been requested and are willingly working extra time."

RIDICULES 'WIGGLE-WABBLE'

Democratic Speakers' Bureau Head Calls It Secret G. O. P. Slogan.

Senator Pat Harrison, Chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the Democratic National Committee, said yesterday that he had discovered the secret of the seven-word Republican campaign slogan, the selection of which was announced by Republican leaders in Marion, Ohio, several weeks ago, but which has never been made public. The slogan is "Let's Have Done with Wiggl eand Wabble," according to Senator Harrison, who said a sketch of a Republican campaign poster with this motto came to Democratic headquarters.

"It was learned that thousands of these had been sent to distributing centres," said Senator Harrison. "At first it wa sthought some one was trying to play a joke on us. It was regarded as incredible that the astute Republican managers would accentuate the wabbliness of their own candidate by calling on the country to be done with wiggle and wabble. Senator Harding and Chairman Hays, however, removed all doubt on Saturday when they used the language of the poster in speech and statement."

Senator Harrison said the Democratic campaign organization accepted the slogan and urged their opponents to give it the widest publicity. "Let's be done with wiggle and wabble, we echo with emphasis," Senator Harrison continued. "Governor Cox expressed amazement yesterday when he learned of the slogan and remarked that it could not be possible that the Republicans intended to get rid of their own candidate."

Krock Joins Democratic Staff.

Arthur Krock, editor of The Louisville Times, has been appointed assistant to Congressman J. Campbell Cantrill, Chairman of the Committee on Organization of the Democratic Committee, it was announced yesterday, and will have charge of publicity work of Mr. Cantrill's committee in co-operation with William J. Cochran, Director of Publicity of the National Committee. Before becoming editor of The Louisville Times, Mr. Krock was Washington correspondent of The Louisville Courier-Journal. He was among the newspaper correspondents who "covered" the Peace Conference at Paris.

HARDING, FORGIVEN, WINS PINCHOT'S AID

Former Progressive Visits Senator and "Wipes Slate Clean" to Support Him.

FEARS 'SOUTHERN CONTROL'

Nominee Will Address State Governors Today on Conservation and Reclamation.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 30.—One of the last of the former progressives to smoke the pipe of peace with Senator Harding is Gifford Pinchot, who saw the Republican Presidential candidate today and accompanied him to Mansfield for a round of golf this afternoon.

They may have forgiven, although they have not forgotten what they said about each other in 1912. Mr. Pinchot made that clear in a statement after his interview with the Senator.

Like other former opponents visiting Marion, Mr. Pinchot hastened to express his satisfaction with his conference with Senator Harding and his impression of the candidate's "sincerity and determination." He read and approved tomorrow's front porch speech on conservation and reclamation to be delivered to several Governors and Republican candidates for Governor who will be the Senator's guests for the day.

"Senator Harding and I have been on opposite sides of many questions," said Mr. Pinchot. "In order to get together there was much for each of us to overlook. One of us likes as little as the other some of the things that each of us has said.

"But these things are past. They have nothing to do with the great task of the moment, which is to put out of office the men who have debauched and despoiled the people and the Government of the United States. Whatever stands in the way of that we have wiped out. We are together for that. The slate is clean, and I am for him.

"What Senator Harding has said about forestry and the shortage of lumber and paper is admirable. What he has told me of his views on conservation is equally admirable. I am greatly pleased with both.

Wants to Drop Southern Reactionaries.

"I want to help get this country out of the control of the Southern reactionaries by whom we have been ruled for nearly eight years. If Governor Cox should be elected, which he must not be, we would be ruled for the next four years by a combination of the old Southern Democracy and the most vicious political machines in the country—the Democratic machines of New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. And what we have suffered already in reckless waste would be merely a curtain-raiser to what would follow. That is a situation the country must look square in the face and deal with in November.

"I wish more of the public men with whom I have worked and stood could talk with Senator Harding as I have done and get the intimate impression of his sincerity and determination to be the President of all the American people, including the Roosevelt men like myself, and to administer this country in the best interests of all real Americans."

Among the Governors expected to call on Senator Harding tomorrow are Frank O. Lowden, Illinois; E. L. Phillip, Wisconsin; Peter Norbeck, South Dakota; Samuel McKelvie, Nebraska; Robert D. Carey, Wyoming; William D. Stephens, California; R. Livingston Beeckman, Rhode Island; Thomas E. Campbell, Arizona, and William C. Sproul, Pennsylvania.

Governor Campbell, George D. Stephan, Republican candidate for Governor of Colorado, and former Governor William Spry of Utah, arrived this afternoon and were dinner guests of Senator and Mrs. Harding.

More Congratulations.

Among the messages congratulating Senator Harding on his foreign relations speech of last Saturday were the following received today:

Governor Markus H. Holcomb of Connecticut—"I cannot be present at Marion to greet Senator Harding on Governors' day, but I intend to greet him in Washington next March as President of the United States. Connecticut will contribute its share in November to banish the gloom which has enveloped this country."

Governor F. H. Parkhurst of Maine—"Deeply regret cannot attend Governors' day at Marion. Our election comes in two weeks and my duty is in Maine. The Republicans of Maine join me in pledging indorsement of your candidacy on Sept. 13 with the largest Republican vote ever cast in Maine."

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts—"Congratulations. Absolutely with you. Your address is a logical development of the national convention declaration and the speech of acceptance."

Representative C. Bascom Slemp of Virginia—"Congratulations. Your speech received great approval here."

Mrs. Raymond Robins, Chicago—"I have read with greatest interest your statement on League of Nations and your plans for the further development of The Hague tribunal. Permit me to congratulate you on your courageous stand and to express to you my deep appreciation."

Judge James C. Jenkins, New York—"Your masterly speech Saturday assures your overwhelming election. Thank God for Washington, Lincoln, McKinley, Roosevelt and Harding!"

REPUBLICANS WON WAR, SAYS COL. ROOSEVELT

Says No Democratic Administration Representative Was Within Enemy Gun's Range.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 30.—An appeal to Americans to meet present critical conditions "with clear eyes, with honesty and a steady hand," was made by Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt in a speech here today. He said that what this country wanted most was "common sense, common decency and common honesty."

"We must meet the future determined that we are going forward, always forward to better things, and that we will not let unreasoning fear force us into senseless reaction," said Colonel Roosevelt. "Equally, however, we must not let our country be governed by indolent discontent and the impractical theories of the doctrinaire.

"This country has been conceived and moved forward to its dominating greatness on one theory of government, and that is representative governmeent. The Democratic Party during its tenure of office has contravened this and endeavored to set up a dictatorship of the Executive. What the Republican Party proposes to do is to establish again the powers and functions of Congress and the Senate.

"In Mr. Cox the Democrats have chosen a man whose shifty hypocrisy thoroughly entitles him to be the leader of the party whose administration has darkened the pages of our history during the last eight years. He inveighs against the Republican Party. He says that its platform does not acclaim the fine part played by America in the war.

"Does he not know that it is not considered customary or in good taste to praise your own achievements, and it was the Republican Party that fought the war? There was not a male representative of the close official family of the national Democratic Administration who to the best of my knowledge was during the war within the range of a gun fired by the enemy. We can at least give them this credit. They did not use their influence to be sent where the danger was sorest.

"Does Mr. Cox pretend to forget that when this country's affairs were at their gravest the head of the Democratic Party appealed to the country to return a Democratic Congress? Can Mr. Cox call this nonpartisan politics? It is partisan politics of the lowest and basest form.

"Under Harding and Coolidge and the Republican Party we are moving forward to victory under a banner reading, 'America First!'"

G. O. P. TO NAME ELECTORS.

Glynn Calls Meeting of State Committee for Sept. 7.

A meeting of the Republican State Committee at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, Sept. 7, at the Republican Club was called yesterday by George A. Glynn, Chairman. The meeting will be for the purpose of completing the selection of candidates for Presidential electors, which legally have to be nominated by the State Committee but for which recommendations were called from the different Congressional districts by the unofficial State convention at Saratoga. Ten Congressional districts in New York City and the Thirty-fourth and Thirty-sixth Districts up-State have not yet made their recommendations. In the Thirty-fourth District, J. Bennet Turner was named, but had to withdraw because, as a director of a national bank, he was ineligible under the law prohibiting the nomination of Federal officers.

COX DENIES HELP FROM WETS OR DRYS

American people with the mixture of proposals concerning the League and international relations which had been suggested at various times.

Will Avoid Local Contests.

Governor Cox was asked about the fight for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator in New York State in which Mayor Lunn of Schenectady and Lieutenant Governor Walker are engaged. He reiterated his statements that he would not take part in this or any other local political contest, and that such would be his policy in regard not only to New York State but in all other local situations.

Governor Cox got back here late this afternoon from New York. He did not show any signs of fatigue as a result of his week of campaigning. He said he was anxious to get started on his tour of the West, which he will begin Thursday night.

The statements the Governor made in regard to the charges that the wets had contributed heavily to his campaign were received here with little interest. The Governor would not discuss the matter further, stating that his position in regard to all questions at issue was clearly before the people.

Governor Cox will deliver an address at the Ohio State Fair tomorrow. Senator Harding had been invited to speak also on this occasion, but after tentatively accepting withdrew when he was informed that the Ohio Governor would speak on the same day and discuss political issues. Aaron M. Watkins of Germantown, Ohio, the Prohibition nominee, will speak.

Governor Cox will remain in Columbus until Thursday night.

IRISH PIER STRIKE SPREADS.

Grain Elevator Men Join Longshoremen at Chelsea Piers.

There was a new phase yesterday in the longshoremen's strike sympathizing with Archbishop Mannix and Terence MacSweney, the Irish hunger striker, when the grain elevator men failed to go to work on the Chelsea piers to load steamships belonging to the International Mercantile Marine Company. The grain lay alongside all day in barges, and officials expect the men will return to work this morning.

When the American liner Philadelphia was moored alongside the American Line pier, 62, North River, yesterday at 10 A. M. the longshoremen started work on her, as she was flying the Stars and Stripes, and another gang unloaded baggage from the Red Star liner Zeeland, although she was under the British flag. Two gangs worked on the Cunarders Mauretania and Calabria. All the coal gangs were at work yesterday. The office staff of the International Mercantile Marine Company, 9 Broadway, will lend a hand to get the baggage on board if the longshoremen remain idle today.

Two women pickets came at noon with banners to the French Line pier, at the foot of West Fifteenth Street, where the Savoie was moored. One of the placards read, "Up Mannix and Down with the Pirates of Penzance."

MISS MARBURY HONORED.

Democratic Women Give Luncheon for National Committee Member.

A luncheon for Miss Elizabeth Marbury, woman member of the Democratic National Committee from New York, was given at the Hotel Astor yesterday by a number of Democratic women. Miss Charl Ormond Williams of Memphis, Tenn., Vice Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who was in charge of the Suffrage Steering Committee in Tennessee, said the final action for the enfranchisement of women by a State of the South would bring thousands of women to the Democratic Party.

Among those present were Mrs. George Bass, head of the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee; Miss Harriet May Mills, Democratic candidate for Secretary of State; Magistrate Jean H. Norris, Mrs. William Good, Miss Portia Willis, Miss Laura Cauble, Mrs. John Marshall Gallagher, Mrs. Mary A. Morse, Mrs. John M. Phillips and Mrs. George H. Childs.

HAYS PUTS BUDGET AT $3,079,037.20

tticles and summoning in their stead the witnesses mentioned in them. Chairman Kenyon ordered Mr. Jamieson subpoenaed and stated that George White and Wilbur W. Marsh of the Democratic National Committee and Clarence Miller, Secretary of the Republican National Committee, had already been called.

Mr. Hays resumed reading his statement and charged that Government functions had been misused by the sending out of great quantities of Government propaganda under the guise of reports and other documents.

Senator Reed—Where did you get your information on that?

Mr. Hays—From the reports of Senator Smoot of Utah. Is that sufficient? We were advised also—

Senator Reed—Let's have Smoot here.

Senator Kenyon—He will be called.

Charges Treasury Appealed for League.

Mr. Hays then submitted in evidence a circular sent out by the Controller of the Treasury, which was said to be an appeal on behalf of the League of Nations.

"Aside from the disturbed and alarming state of the old world," Mr. Hays read from the circular, "I am convinced this country's refusal to ratify the Peace Treaty is responsible." Mr. Hays added: "That is the preamble to a campaign argument at the taxpayers' expense."

Senator Kenyon—Was that sent to the banks of the country?

Mr. Hays—Yes. I got it from Senator McCormick, who received it.

Senator Kenyon—If there is any argument there for the League of Nations, better put it into the record.

Senator Reed—It might encumber the record. It might be characterized as political propaganda by some people. Others might consider it an effort to save the world.

Mr. Hays then called attention to a rumor that the Democratic National Committee had drawn drafts on banks which held Government funds on deposit.

Senator Reed—Who gave you this information?

Mr. Hays—I heard it from George W. Bean. He is a member of the Republican National Committee from Florida.

Senator Reed—Let's get Bean here.

Arrangements to find Mr. Bean were made.

Gives New Jersey Liquor Appeal.

Mr. Hays then charged that the liquor interests of New Jersey were collecting funds outside of the Democratic National Committee to aid the campaign of Governor Cox. He presented a letter signed by George T. Carroll, President of the New Jersey Federation of Liquor Interests. It was admitted in the record and a subpoena was issued for Mr. Carroll.

The letter, addressed from 849 Broad Street, Newark, N. J., was dated July 22, 1920, and bore the slogan, "Help Elect Men Who Will Kill Prohibition." It was addressed to Fabian Brothers. Part of it reads:

Dear Sir and Brother—The organized liquor trade of New Jersey has set out to do its part toward the election of James M. Cox as the next President of the United States, and it becomes my duty to call upon you to help. More than that, we are going to fight as we never fought before to keep the hirelings of the Anti-Saloon League out of office; to elect Congressmen in the twelve Congressional districts of the State who will vote to amend the Volstead act so as to permit the sale of light wines and beer; to elect Assemblymen and State Senators who will keep New Jersey from ratifying the Eighteenth Amendment and prevent the passage of any law concurring in the Volstead act in its present form.

The nomination of Governor Cox for the Presidency by the Democrats is a big victory for our interests, and it can be attributed to a great degree to the activity of our trade organizations here in New Jersey and throughout the nation. Governor Cox is a pronounced wet, and he can be relied upon to approve an amendment to the Volstead act as suggested above.

It is now up to our organization to stand unitedly behind the ticket of Cox and Roosevelt and roll up such a majority as will snow conclusively that the public will is in our favor.

At the bottom of the letter, which condemns the Anti-Saloon League at length and makes a plea for "personal liberty," is this:

"We must have money at once to carry on the work that we have planned. Jump in and help us fight. Give as much as you can afford."

A receipt from the same organization acknowledging a $25 donation was read into the record. The receipt was signed by I. N. Heller, Treasurer of the organization. A subpoena for Mr. Heller was issued.

Denies Quotas in Cox List.

Mr. Hays resumed his statement describing at length the machinery for raising funds for the Republican National Committee. A reference to Governor Cox's speech at Pittsburgh brought an interruption from Senator Kenyon.

"In that speech," Senator Kenyon said, "Mr. Cox challenges you to deny his charges as to the sums of $8,140,000 for different cities. What do you say to that?"

Mr. Hays—It is not true. The figures I have given include every penny in the contemplated fund of the National Committee.

Senator Kenyon—You gave us some leads on certain expenditures. Can you give us any more?

Mr. Hays—Yes. I have the original letter signed by L. W. Drennan, Secretary of the Iowa Democratic Club, addressed to Miss Clara Ehle of Norway, Iowa. Indicated on the letterhead are the names and addresses of the officers and directors of the Iowa Democratic Club.

Senator Kenyon—Is that the letter referred to in the interview with Congressman Good in the newspapers this morning?

Mr. Hays—It is.

The letter went into the record.

Mr. Hays then analyzed his plan of collecting funds by counties and cities under the questioning of the committee. He explained that each State was allotted a quota to which it added was necessary, reporting the total to the national committee and turning in all the money, to receive back its allotment later. Mr. Hays said that the National Committee controlled all the money gathering machinery and that the money raised by all departments and branches would not exceed the amount he gave.

Before leaving the stand, Mr. Hays suggested that Homer S. Cummings, who was present, "might cast some light on these charges," and Mr. Cummings was called.

Cummings Approves Propaganda Fund.

Mr. Cummings, in his testimony, reviewed the Democratic campaign of 1916, discussed the cost of speakers' bureaus, advertising and office help. He told of "rumors of vast expenditures by organizations not directly connected with the political party they assumed to help."

Senator Reed demanded that Mr. Cummings name the organizations. Mr. Cummings said he could not do so.

"Then you cannot point out," said Senator Reed, "where any of these organizations, such as the Protective Tariff League, or the Anti-Saloon League, has done any particular harm?"

"When you use the word 'harm' it depends on what political party you belong to," Mr. Cummings replied.

Senator Reed—I am speaking about the use of money for improper purposes.

Mr. Cummings—That is not what I was thinking about. I was speaking about the use of money for political propaganda. It is perfectly proper to use it for political propaganda if the public knows who is furnishing it, and how it is to be disbursed. I don't know how you can check that, or whether you ought to check it. Of course, corruption and the use of money for corrupt purposes is a matter for the criminal authorities in practically every State in the Union.

Senator Reed—Do you know of any effort being made to buy the Presidency—to corrupt the electorate?

Mr. Cummings—Only such impression as you would gather from the collection and disbursement of manifestly excessive sums.

Senator Reed—Do you know of any manifestly excessive sums that have been collected?

Mr. Cummings—I don't know of any.

Senator Reed—Do you know, of your own knowledge, of any moneys that have been contracted or arranged for in excess of those that have been testified here today?

Mr. Cummings—No, Sir.

Sees No Proof of Corruption.

Senator Reed then called Mr. Cummings's attention to the testimony of Will H. Hays earlier in the day that the Republicans had planned to raise $3,079,037.20 for the National Committee's campaign budget and that possibly another million might be necessary in the State campaigns.

"Now, Mr. Cummings," said Senator Reed, "would you say that the raising of $3,000,000 by any national committee would indicate any corrupt purposes?"

Mr. Cummings—Certainly not.

Senator Reed—Suppose one million more were to be raised to be used in the State campaigns and expended by State committees?

Mr. Cummings—Well, you are getting beyond the limits I would fix myself.

Senator Reed—Your committee—our committee, the Democratic Committee—spent two and one-half millions, I believe you said, in the last campaign?

Mr. Cummings—About $2,300,000, I think.

Senator Reed—That was by the National Committee. State Committees raised other funds to be used in their own States, did they not?

Mr. Cummings—Oh, absolutely.

Senator Reed—Then you seem to agree with Mr. Hays that his fund does not indicate any corruption?

"Wild" in Local Collections.

Mr. Cummings, after some discussion, said he could find no evidence of corruption in the Republican plan for raising campaign funds, adding that his own organization was attempting to raise funds by the same method used by the Republicans. He complained that the Republican local organizations "ran wild" in collecting "all the money they could gather."

Senator Edge commented that "neither party has a monopoly on that, has it?"

Mr. Cummings replied: "No, but the Republicans are more successful at it."

Senator Edge—Then your response has not been as great as you anticipated, despite your large organization, which employed 300 persons and occupied three whole floors of a Washington office building?

Mr. Cummings—No, our hopes were not realized.

Further examination of Mr. Cummings by Senator Edge brought a declaration of ignorance of the charges made by Mr. Hays.

Senator Kenyon questioned Mr. Cummings as to donations by Federal employes.

"How many donations did you receive in all?" Senator Kenyon asked.

"About 200,000 individuals contributed," Mr. Cummings said:

Senator Kenyon: "How many Postmasters contributed?"

Mr. Cummings: "I do not know. Not many."

Senator Kenyon then questioned Mr. Cummings on the operation of the Democratic money raising machinery, the charge that Federal employes were present at the San Francisco Convention at Government expense and methods alleged to have been employed to get contributions from Federal officeholders.

Mr. Cummings professed ignorance on these points and was excused.

Hays Denies Cox Charges.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30 (Associated Press).—Chairman Hays, in his testimony before the Senatorial Committee, denied ever having seen or heard of the Republican quota sheet quoted by Governor Cox, denied ever having been at a meeting where it was distributed or discussed and declared that inquiry by him had failed to show any Republican Party leader who had heard of it.

This $15,000,000 "corruption fund that Governor Cox speaks of; do you know how it was to be used to corrupt the public?" Senator Kenyon asked.

"That statement is as false as it is libelous," Mr. Hays said.

"Have any men of large means been consulted regarding a plan for underwriting the Republican campaign?" Mr. Reed was asked.

"No. We have borrowed some money, but nothing else has been done."

"Have you heard of any promises or agreements with any one whereby they will receive any favors in the event of Republican victory?" Mr. Reed continued.

"No."

Not to Use the Barnes Book.

In connection with a denial by Mr. Hays that Republican expenses had been underwritten by "big money interests," Senator Reed introduced photographic copies of documents signed by Eastern capitalists and heads of several large corporations pledging "moral and financial support" to a publication by William Barnes of The Albany (N. Y.) Journal. The document's heading read that "The undersigned appreciate the necessity of restoring to power the Republican Party and approve the widespread distribution of militant Republican propaganda under the direction of the Honorable William Barnes."

Among the signers, as read by Senator Reed, were John D. Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; the American Tobacco Company, by Percival S. Hill, President; the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, by Charles H. Sabin, President; the Berwyn-White Coal Company, the Hudson Coal Company, the General Electric Company, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, Julius Fleischmann and the William Wrigley, Jr., Company.

"The publication has no connection with the Republican National Committee, either directly or indirectly," said Mr. Hays. "We have no way of stopping Mr. Barnes or any other newspaper publisher from putting out a campaign year book, and do not intend to use this one at all."

Senator Reed questioned Mr. Hays about the Inter-Racial Council, the American Defense Service, The National Republican, a Washington newspaper, and the Republican Publicity Association, of which former Senator Jonathan Bourne is head, and in which Senator Harding, prior to his nomination, was a Director. Mr. Hays said Senator Harding had resigned about the time of the convention. In answer to questions he said the Republican National Committee had been financing the publicity association for the last few months.

An ineffectual attempt to show that the Republican National Committee had placed orders for a large amount of propaganda in foreign language newspapers was made by Senator Reed. Mr. Hays denied that any such contracts had been made.

28 Gifts More Than $1,000.

Mr. Hays was rather positive that the Republican plan to limit individual gifts to $1,000 was being carried out successfully. He knew of thirty-eight exceptions to the rule, the largest being for $5,000, two for $5,000 each and the other thirty-five for lesser amounts.

The committee heard Representative H. D. Flood of Virginia, Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, and former Representative Joseph L. Rhinock of Kentucky, Treasurer of the Committee.

Representative Flood estimated that $220,000 would be required by his committee to conduct its efforts properly, but presented figures to show that he had received only $8,700 in subscriptions. He turned the money over to the Democratic National Committee, he said, and expected that committee to finance his Congressional campaigns.

Questioning of Representative Flood brought out that he had printed by the Public Printer at Washington 1,000,000 copies of speeches by Democratic Congressmen. He had pledged his committee to pay $5,008.16 for the printing, he said. The speeches were being sent out under Congressional frank.

Fred W. Upham, Republican National Treasurer, will be the first witness tomorrow, Senator Kenyon announced when the committee adjourned. He will be followed by Wilbur W. Marsh, the Democratic Treasurer.

DECLARES HARDING CHILLED THE WEST

Roosevelt Says Republican Candidate's Statements Have Damaged His Campaign.

SAYS PEOPLE WANT LEADER

Vice Presidential Nominee Plans to Confer Today with Cox in Columbus.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 30.—Senator Harding's statements as to how he would conduct the Presidency have thrown a chill into the Republican campaign in the West, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, declared in an address here tonight.

"Visions of the Senate cabal, of an insidious power behind the chief magistrate, will not down," he said. "The Penroses and Watsons and Smoots and Lodges are at least no more popular than in the past. The people want a leader, not a syndicate Presidency."

Mr. Roosevelt's address was preceded by a parade and a public reception. He spoke in the afternoon at both Delphi and Monticello.

Giving his entire address over to his findings in the West, the candidate declared that part of the country was asking why the Republican candidates were not going to visit it.

"There are vivid memories of Mr. Hughes's disastrous campaign to the Pacific Coast in 1916," he said, adding: "That failure was a failure because Mr. Hughes's one great argument was that everything any Democrat had ever done was a horrible catastrophe. He was ungenerous. He was a knocker and not a booster.

"Today the feeling is very much the same. The West is rapidly getting the idea that the present managers of the Republican campaign are pursuing the same tactics but that they are afraid to let their candidates go west of the Mississippi. It is argued that their fear is a repetition of 1916.

"There will be a repetition of 1916, only on a bigger scale. In every place in every State I visited the trend is visible to a school child.

"Republican Mayors of cities, Republican delegates to State Conventions, are out in the open wearing Cox buttons. They, too, have been thinking, and their ranks are growing daily."

Mr. Roosevelt said the West wanted to know "just how Senator Harding proposes to tinker with prosperity, just how he proposes to change existing laws, which have, without doubt, been of great good to the nation." Especially were the voters anxious not to change back to methods now thoroughly discredited, he said, adding:

"They remember the days of financial panics and the calling of farm mortgages. They are now prosperous, taking it by and large, and they want men and measures to round out that prosperity along national lines, not to repeal the basis for it for political reasons."

Mr. Roosevelt planned to go to Columbus, Ohio, immediately following his address here and confer tomorrow with Governor Cox.

EINSTEIN ESTATE $1,215,536

Goes to Family of Former Owner of New York Press.

The estate of Henry L. Einstein, who sold the New York Press to Frank A. Munsey and who died Feb. 28, 1918, was appraised yesterday at $1,215,536. The bulk of the estate is in mortgages and personal property aggregating $001,968. He had realty worth $270,109 and securities appraised at $331,131. Before his death he assigned life insurance policies amounting to $284,000 to his son-in-law, Myron S. Falk.

Mr. Einstein gave to his wife, Celicia Einstein, $10,000 in cash, personal effects worth $3,500, a life interest in his residence at 44 West Fifty-third Street, worth $65,000, and a life interest in half the residuary estate, $441,063. The principal goes at her death, with the other half of the residue, which is left to them for life, to Myron S. Falk, grandson, and Eleanor and Mildred Falk, granddaughters. Mr. Einstein gave his son-in-law $25,000 in cash and left an equal amount to Mount Sinai Hospital and to his sister, Augusta E. Wendt. George W. Bramhall, a friend, got $10,000.

24 SPEEDERS GO TO JAIL.

Fines Totaling $2,430 Also Are Assessed in Traffic Court.

Jail sentences instead of ordinary fines for chauffeurs convicted of violations of the traffic laws were imposed by Magistrate John E. McGeehan in the Traffic Court yesterday, in accordance with the determination by all the Magistrates recently to make penalties severe enough to curb reckless drivers. The longest sentence—fifteen days—went to George Danglo, 331 East 119th Street, who the court characterized as "a menace to public safety." Motor Cycle Policeman Geiderman told the Magistrate that he had tried to stop Danglo on Fourth Avenue, but he put on more speed and raced the officer to Twenty-first Street and Broadway.

Eleven chauffeurs, driving at more than thirty miles, were sent to jail for from two to five days. Twelve others were sentenced to from two to ten days for failure to pay fines. Among the 250 cases disposed of were some first offenders, who were released on suspended sentence. Fines aggregating $2,430 were collected.

INDIANA FOR COX, TAGGART DECLARES

Republicans There Weakened by Rifts Due to Presidential Primary Fights.

SEES VICTORY BY 30,000

Democrats Strengthened by Support of Women and Labor on League Issue, He Says.

Thomas Taggart, former Democratic National Committeeman from Indiana and candidate for United States Senator, who was a caller at Democratic National Headquarters yesterday, predicted that Governor James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for President, would carry that State. He said that the Republicans were weakened by factional differences and that the Democrats were not only united but had been greatly strengthened by accessions from members of organized labor and from women, 70 per cent. of whom, he said, would vote for the Democratic nominee on the League of Nations issue.

"The situtionin Indiana is ost encouraging from the Democratic viewpoint," said Mr. Taggart. "The Republicans are divided. There has been considerable opposition among Republicans to the State administration and dissatisfaction with tax legislation. Then, too, the fight at the Republican primaries between the supporters of Senator Warren G. Harding, Senator Hiram W. Johnson, General Leonard Wood and Governor Frank O. Lowden for delegates to the Republican National Convention has left many sores. The supporters of General Wood in particular feel that they have a grievance. Although General Wood has announced that he will support Senator Harding, many of his supporters in Indiana have so far failed to follow his example.

"Organized labor is practically solid for Governor Cox on the record he has made as Governor of Ohio. The Democratic candidate will also gain greatly in the votes of the women. I believe it is a safe estimate to say that 70 per cent. of the women in Indiana are for the League of Nations.

"If the election were to be held today we would carry the State for Cox by 30,000. If we can keep up the pace and don't get leg weary we will give him the fifteen electoral votes of Indiana on election day."

Mr. Taggart was asked how his own candidacy for the United States Senate was progressing.

"Oh, I am just jogging along with the rest of the ticket," he replied.

Mr. Taggart added that he thought his own campaign was progressing favorably. Mr. Taggart left last night for Hyannisport, Mass., where his family has been spending the Summer. He said he would return to Indiana at the end of the week and would get down to the hard work of the campaign.

Republican Campaign Textbook Out

The Republican National Campaign Textbook, published by the Republican National Comittee, has come from the press and is ready for distribution. It was announced here yesterday. Life histories of the Republican Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates, with their speeches of acceptance and the party platform, constitute the first part of the volume. The Democratic platform is printed in parallel columns with the Republican platform to facilitate comparison. The rest of the book is devoted to the reprint of speeches defining the party's attitude on national issues.

HOLCOMB ASKED TO BE FIRM

E. P. Wheeler Opposes Special Session to Ratify Suffrage Amendment.

Everett P. Wheeler, Chairman of the American Constitutional League, with offices at 15 William Street, wrote Marcus B. Holcomb, Governor of Connecticut, yesterday, opposing a special session of the Connecticut Legislature to ratify the Nineteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution. The woman suffrage amendment, he asserted, had not been properly ratified, and laws governing voting were still the function of each State. Governor Holcomb, who has been an anti-suffragist, had refused to call a special session of the Legislature to act on ratification, and Mr. Wheeler urged him to be equally firm now.

Mr. Wheeler said the league would press an appeal to the United States Supreme Court to have ratification declared illegal. "We maintain that no Federal amendment can change the local government of a State without the consent of the State," he said. "That right is guaranteed by the Ninth and Tenth Amendments to the Constitution. They were adopted in order to limit permanently the powers of the Federal Government. 'An indestructible union of indestructible States' is what the Supreme Court called it.

"This suffrage amendment undertakes to change the Constitutions of twenty-five States of the Union in a manner forbidden by them. It has been carried thus far in opposition to the popular vote in nine States. It is the deadly enemy of the American system. We urge you to continue the manly and patriotic course which you have thus far pursued."

COCKRAN TO SPEAK FOR COX

Announcement Indicates Irish Disaffection Has Been Successfully Met

Bourke Cockran, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Sixteenth District, will take the stump for Cox and Roosevelt, Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the Democratic National Committee, announced yesterday.

Mr. Cockran has been classed as unfriendly to the League of Nations and his willingness to campaign for Governor Cox was taken to indicate that at least a part of the Irish disaffection in the Democratic Party had been met successfully.

"I don't think there is a man in the country who is more enthusiastically behind Governor Cox than is Mr. Cockran," said Senator Harrison.

JACKSON CONSENTS TO RUN.

Will Seek Bay State Republican Nomination for Treasurer.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—The movement among Republicans to displace State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell as the party candidate for that office resulted today in the announcement by James Jackson, New England Chairman of the Red Cross, that he would oppose Burrell in the primaries of Sept. 7. As nominations have closed with the Treasurer unopposed on the printed ballot for renomination, it will be necessary for Jackson to run on stickers.

In consenting to be a candidate Mr. Jackson replied as follows to a request sent to him by a committee of the Associated Republican Clubs of Massachusetts:

"This letter appears to be a request from the people of Massachusetts for me to run on the Republican ticket, although I have never been in politics. Three years ago I gave up my banking connection to devote my time and energy to the public through the Red Cross, with which I am still connected.

"I shall immediately resign from that connection if the people feel that I can be of any public service through this new channel that has been proposed to me."

Mrs. J. T. Pratt Goes to Marion.

Mrs. John T. Pratt, Vice-Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Republican National Committee, left last night for Marion, Ohio, and will have breakfast there this morning with Senator and Mrs. Warren G. Harding. Mrs. Pratt will continue to Chicago where she will be joined by Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, a member of the Republican National Executive Committee. Both will attend the conference of Vice-Chairmen and bureau heads of the Republican national organization to be held there Wednesday.

Miller to See Party Workers Here.

Nathan L. Miller of Syracuse, organization candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, will visit New York today for the first time since his selection by the unofficial Republican State Convention at Saratoga and will confer with the Joint Primary Committee, in charge of the campaigns of the regular candidates for State offices, at the Republican Club. Mr. Miller was expected yesterday, but sent word that he would not be able to reach here until today.

$60,000 MYTH SENDS TWO MEN TO PRISON

Young Strangers Talk Business with Elderly Man Supposed to Have a Big Roll.

DETECTIVE TRAILS TRIO

Companions Arrested as Confidence Men, "Victim" Reveals He Has Only 60 Cents.

When Detective William Drum of Inspector Cray's staff noticed two well-dressed young men talking earnestly to an elderly man in the Pennsylvania Station he remembered that he had seen the young men before, and his impression was that they had come to the attention of the Police Department for activities in "confidence games." The trio boarded a Fifth Avenue bus, and the detective followed and took a seat near them.

As they were riding up Fifth Avenue one of the young men passed a big roll of bills to the other. From snatches of the conversation Drum heard the words "Eight thousand dollars," "New York is a wicked place—" "give it to you for safe keeping." The detective followed the men back to the Pennsylvania Station, and there he saw the elderly man pull out something that looked like a pocketbook. Then Drum placed the two young men under arrest and took possession of the supposed pocketbook, which turned out to be a spectacle case.

When Drum told the elderly stranger that the young men were "confidence" men, the elderly man said: "Why, they can't get anything from me. I only carry $1 with me at a time, and I have only 60 cents in my pockets now." Investigation disclosed that the stranger, who said he was Frank Martin, 60 years old, of 737 Knickerbocker Avenue, Brooklyn, was believed to be carrying $60,000 with him, the profits on a mining deal, and that the two young men were negotiating with him on that assumption.

The prisoners, who said they were George Ferrara, 25, of 352 East 149th Street, and James Marrow, 26, of 217 Franklin Street, were sentenced to thirty days each in the Workhouse by Magistrate Max S. Levine, in the West Side Court, yesterday. The roll which they had passed proved to be a bundle of newspaper with fifteen one-dollar bills on the outside.

UNITED CIGAR WINS ACTION.

Candy Co. Temporarily Restrained from Using Similar Trademarks.

Attorneys for the United Cigar Stores Company of America were notified yesterday that Vice Chancellor Stevenson at Jersey City had agreed to sign a preliminary injunction restraining the United Confectioners, a candy corporation of Newark, from using the word "united," and from displaying an advertising device in the form of a shield.

The application held that the word "united" and the shield device are restricted to use by the cigar company, and that an attempt to use them constituted unfair competition.

ESSEX MOTOR CARS

In 4 Trips Across America Essex 4 Times Breaks Record

Carrying U. S. Mail Between San Francisco and New York It Sets a Mark for Consistency of Performance and Reliability Never Equalled by any Traveling Machine

The first test of an automobile carrying U. S. Mail across the American continent was made with the light weight, moderate priced Essex. And it resulted in establishing the Essex as holder of the transcontinental record both ways.

The performance—while of momentous importance in the world of speed and automobile sportsmanship—is of greater value to the motorist. For it removes all doubt about the reliability of light weight in the most difficult and hardest road service.

Records Prove What Owners Know

Ocean to ocean automobile travel has not become so common as not to be of interest to all motorists, regardless of the time required in making the trip.

Hundreds of cars have sought to set new time records between San Francisco and New York. But it has not been an easy accomplishment. The records broken by Essex had stood for four years.

Your demands can not equal those made in the transcontinenta trip. But you require equal reliance of your car, whatever the service imposed.

Light weight has meant economy of operation in fuel and oil. It has not particularly meant reliability, economy of maintenance, performance or comfort.

Doesn't It Prove What You Want?

But Essex reveals how those costly car qualities are a part also of its advantages.

You have the praise of close to 45,000 owners to guide you to the Essex.

You have official records of its 50 hours top speed performance as to its reliability. You have its record of 1061 miles in 24 hours on Iowa country roads.

And now you have this most coveted of all performances—the transcontinental record — made by four different cars. Can you hesitate in deciding for Essex?

First Essex
San Francisco to New York —4 days, 14 hrs., 43 min.
Lowers Record 12 hrs., 48 min.

Second Essex
New York to San Francisco —4 days, 19 hrs., 17 min.
Lowers Record 22 hrs., 13 min.

Third Essex
San Francisco to New York —4 days, 21 hrs., 56 min.
Delayed by storms and Sunday road congestion entering New York.

Fourth Essex
New York to San Francisco —5 days, 6 hrs., 13 min.
This car took a longer route and also ran into storms. Yet it broke the former record by 11 hours, 19 minutes.

The average time for each of the four Essex cars over 3347 miles Ocean to Ocean route was 4 days, 21 hours, 32 minutes.

Office Space Now Rents at $5.00 to $8.00 per Sq. Ft.

But

Offices Can Be Acquired for $1.68 to $2.24 Per Sq. Ft.

Under the Park-Madison Ownership Plan

A Statement by J. L. Robertson

HAVING given a great deal of time and thought to the Park-Madison Co-Operatively Owned Building, to occupy the blocks between 46th and 47th Streets, Park and Madison Avenues, I am glad to place myself on record as believing in it fully, from every angle.

This mortgage-free building is an opportunity never before offered to the business man who requires office space in small or large units, of 2,000 to 60,000 sq. ft., to reduce his rental overhead to the lowest possible figure,—to a price, in fact, that is absurdly low in comparison to the rents, ($5 to $8 per sq. ft.,) being paid now in other "Terminal Zone" Office buildings.

On the basis of the present schedule, under the Park-Madison Ownership Plan, a purchaser can reduce the cost of the space he acquires to $1.68 and $2.24 per sq. ft., by charging 6% on his investment and 2% to be applied to amortizing the invested capital in 24 years,—thereafter rent free.

In addition, however,—and this is of the utmost importance,—he secures part ownership in a building in which the majority of business men could scarcely ever hope to obtain an interest, and which is fully as sound a business proposition as the best privately owned buildings in New York City.

If necessary, the banks should help business concerns to purchase the space they require, because of the great benefits to be derived from the investment, and the immense advantage of having no rent at all to pay, eventually.

I do not believe such a co-operative ownership opportunity will ever again be presented to the business men of New York.

An occasionally exciting and almost continuously amusing play by Porter Emerson Browne arrived in town last evening, to be greeted at the Comedy Theatre by an audience that enjoyed it heartily and can scarcely be said to have concealed the fact. There were such ostentatious salvos of applause and sharp Continental cries of "Bravo! Bravo!" as are usually reserved for really great occasions in the theatre.

They were all for Holbrook Blinn, who was having the time of his life in the rôle of an affable Mexican bandit, and for Mr. Browne, who, after several false starts, has at last written a thoroughly entertaining piece for the stage. It is called "The Bad Man." Most of us would describe it as a good, fair-trigger melodrama through which runs a vein of jovial humor and a thin trickle of social criticism. On the strength of this the program says: "Behold a satiricial comedy."

What Mr. Browne has done is to stage in an adobe ranch house just across the Mexican border the familiar complications of a traditional gooseflesh melodrama and there to work them out in a novel way. A young American, home from the wars, finds his cattle all stolen and the mortgage on the ranch about to be foreclosed by a hardhearted old profiteer. Bidding also for the property is a knavish oil seeking fellow from Wall Street, whose terrified wife loves our young hero with all her heart, while the bonds of a loveless marriage hold her from him and him from her. Just when you can see no way out except for him to cover the villainous husband with his revolver, back toward the door, invite his love to his arms and bid her go out with him "toward the sunset, out in the wild free world beyond the mesa, where a woman can be a woman and a man can be a man"—just at this point the novelty begins.

It enters in the person of Pancho Lopez, a fine picaresque bandit, who savors a little of all the high-minded and philosophic thieves from Robin Hood to Raffles. In his simple way, uncomplicated by legal considerations and other drawbacks of civilization, he knows just what to do. He robs the richest man present wherewith to pay the mortgage, pays it, then robs the recipient and turns all the proceeds of this paper work over to the deserving young rancher. As for the black-hearted Wall Street man, who blocks the path of the lovers and for whom no one seems to have any earthly use any way, he knows just how to solve him. It is very simple. He kills him and goes on his way rejoicing that he has done his good deed for the day.

It is this Pancho Lopez, as imagined and as played, who makes "The Bad Man" so entertaining and who, as you may guess, is not the party referred to in the title. Pancho Lopez has chosen to kill his way up to a Generalship as rather the less ignoble and troublesome method of getting promotion in the army and, having dwelt in both Chihuahua and New York, he does not regard our country as the land of the free. He is able to go his way unharmed by the simple device of dressing up a dummy to be chased, at the necessary intervals, by the Texas Rangers whenever there is any excitement. He did not learn this from the Hohenzollerns, but from the dare-devil movie actors.

The part is played to the hilt, for all the humor and color and vitality there is in it. It is one of the most satisfying achievements in the uneven career of Holbrook Blinn, whose work for the last twelve years has been a varyingly successful attempt to live up to the reputation he made in "Salvation Nell." He is aided now by a company that is up to the requirements throughout, though there should be a special word for Fred L. Tiden as the hateful millionaire and for M. James A. Devine as a miserable, old exile from Bangor, Me., who chips in irritably from his wheel chair and gets very enthusiastic about Lopez before he is through.

It should be said of "The Bad Man" that it was not brought to town until it had been handsomely mounted, thoughtfully cast and rehearsed to perfect smoothness, which is more than can be said of many of the pieces that have come stumbling on to Broadway this season. It must also be reported that those playgoers who close their eyes tight and stuff up their ears from the moment a revolver is brandished until it is fired will spend a large part of an evening at "The Bad Man" quite oblivious to its many good points as entertainment.

GREENWICH FOLLIES FINE.

Artistic, Colorful Revue, with Striking Dances and No Little Melody.

GREENWICH VILLAGE FOLLIES OF 1920, a revue in two acts; book and lyrics by John Murray Anderson, Thomas J. Gray and Arthur Swanstrom; music by A. Baldwin Sloane. At the Greenwich Village Theatre.

Principals—Savoy and Brennan, James Clemons, Margaret Severn, Ivan Bankoff and Mlle. Phebe, Sylvia Clark, Venita Gould, Mona Celeste, Mary Lewis, Alice Hamilton, Collins and Hart, Mazette and Lewis, Meyers and Hanford, Howard Marsh, Hap Hadley, Margaret Davies, Janet Stone, Aiden Gay and Helen Lee Worthing.

In the mood and the mode of 1920 is the second edition of "The Greenwich Village Follies." The "Follies" of a season ago, breaking with great aplomb into the charmed circle of the revues that are worth while, gave promise of much smart and exquisite entertainment to follow; the "Follies" which was offered at the Greenwich Village Theatre last night, before a wilted but welcoming audience, does something more than fulfill the promise.

It is a shimmering thing of silks and satins, of gold cloths and silver cloths, of soft drapes and splashing color effects, of costumes surely as stunning as any which ever have graced the revue stage—and more so than 99 per cent. of them—of lithesome young girls and light-footed dancers, of no little melody and a modicum of humor. It is, in so far as its effect upon the eye is concerned, the revue of 1921.

The credit for it would appear to go in large part to John Murray Anderson, who "devised and staged the entire production." Mr. Anderson, it may be recalled, is the young Englishman who came out of the cabarets a year ago to put forth his ideas of stagecraft in the first of the Greenwich "Follies," and who carried them a bit further, a few months ago, in the tasteful though ill-fated "What's in a Name?" After Mr. Anderson a salute must be accorded Robert E. Locher, who designed most of the scenery and the costumes, and another to James Reynolds, who designed part of them, including the costume for a striking Russian number.

It is somewhat difficult to select the artistic high spots. The aforesaid Russian number, with fourteenth century costumes, set against the background of a colorful Greenwich café, is unquestionably entitled to high honors, but so is a Persian number which came a bit later in the evening, and so are several less pretentious settings which made excellent use of a few drapes, a bit of silver cloth, or merely two simple pillars.

In the matter of the performers, however, it is somewhat easier to reach a decision. The lion of the evening was unquestionably Ivan Bankoff—the same Ivan Bankoff who has been in vaudeville all these seasons—who, with his partner, Mlle. Phebe, fairly brought the entertainment to a halt by their dancing during the Russian number. Margaret Severn was another whose dancing created a stir—particularly in a series of dances in masks, the latter the work of W. J. Benda, the artist. James Clemons, contributing dancing of an eccentric kind, was also spurred on to achievement.

From a comedy standpoint, the honors belong first to a pair of serious-faced performers named Myers and Hanford, whose Arkansas recitative was highly amusing, and who improved greatly upon the now familiar trick of extracting music from a saw. Also popular were the two pairs of old comic friends—Collins and Hart, acrobats of the invisible wire, and the hilarious, if broad, Savoy and Brennan. This latter pair fitted into a Greenwich Village show much more neatly than one who is acquainted with their drolleries might imagine. They were quite as comic as usual last night—particularly in the account of the man who had the big funeral "the biggest thing since 'Ben Hur.'"

Necessarily there are some jarring notes. Sylvia Clark was obviously not quite so funny as she was supposed to be, and no woman who does an imitation of Eva Tanguay should be permitted within one hundred feet of an ultra-modern revue upon pain of instant death. It was one Venita Gould, from vaudeville, who thus ventured—and got away with it. Frank Crumit, as a sort of master of ceremonies, was mixed in merit.

But it is on a decorative side that the production makes its chief claim to distinction. Due respect having been paid to scenery and costumes, it remains to mention Mona Celete, Frances Mann and Olga Ziceva and practically all of the others as distinct decorative assets to any entertainment. A. Baldwin Sloane's melodies are tuneful if not remarkable.

The production moves with zest and is full of life. The first performance, it should be noted, was smoothness itself and the curtain was down shortly after 11.

MISCHA ELMAN DECORATED.

King of Belgians Honors Russian Violinist at Vieuxtemps Centenary.

Mischa Elman, the violinist, has been decorated by the King of the Belgians, according to a cable dispatch received in this city yesterday from Eugene Ysaye, who conducted a musical festival in honor of the Vieuxtemps centenary at Verviers, Belgium, where Elman appeared. Ysaye and Elman have for some seasons given joint concerts in America. The young Russian artist is now starting a European tour, while the veteran Belgian virtuoso will soon be again in New York.

M. Ysaye's late countryman, Henri Vieuxtemps, in whose memory the festival at Verviers was held, was born in that city in 1820, and was founder, with De Beriot, of the so-called modern French group among the world's great violinists. Vieuxtemps visited America first in 1844, returning with the pianist Thalberg in 1857, and making a third tour here in 1870-71. He died in 1881 in Algiers.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Capitol's current musical bill ranges from the opera "Mignon" to "Merry Widow," while Sudworth Frasier has a tenor song from "The Persian Garden" and Bertram Peacock the Lord Chancellor's air from "Iolanthe."

At the Strand this week Katharine Stang appears as violin soloist in Schubert's "The Bee" and Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois."

DR. EDGAR ABBOTT KILLED.

Unitarian Clergyman of Boston Is Victim of Motor Crash.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 30.—Dr. Edgar C. Abbott, Ph. D., of 1,010 Boylston Street, Boston, a lecturer and Unitarian clergyman, is dead as the result of the overturning of his big touring car at Four-Mile Hill, East Lyme, ten miles west of here, at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

Riding with him at the time was Mrs. Sarah L. Pearce of Raymond, Cal., who escaped death, but received a severe nervous shock. She was conscious when taken from under the car and was removed to the Lawrence and Memorial Associated Hospital in this city.

When the automobile, which was traveling at a high rate of speed, overturned it slid along the road a considerable distance. Dr. Abbott was catapulted against a trolley rail and his skull crushed. The accident is reported to have been caused by a tire bursting. Dr. Abbott and Mrs. Pearce were en route from New York to Newport, R. I., when the accident happened.

PRESIDENT ACCEPTS HARD COAL AWARD

they expected is a reflection upon the sincerity of the men who constitute the backbone of the community in which they live. Collective bargaining would soon cease to exist in industrial affairs if contracts solemnly entered into can be set aside by either party whenever it wills to do so. I am sure that the miners themselves would vigorously protest against the injustice of the act if the President attempted to set aside the award of the commission because the operators had protested against it.

Interested in Workers' Welfare.

May I add that I am personally and officially interested in promoting the welfare of every man who has to work for a living. Every influence my Administration has been able to exert has been exercised to improve the standards of living of the nation's working men and women without doing any injustice to other portions of our people.

A large part of the domestic fuel supply of the Eastern States is dependent upon the continued operation of the anthracite coal mines. Any prolonged stoppage of production will mean hardship and suffering to many people, including millions of wage workers and their families.

Yet if your communication, declaring your intention to refrain from working unless I set aside the award of the Anthracite Coal Commission on or before Sept. 1, 1920, is intended as a threat you can rest assured that your challenge will be accepted and that the people of the United States will find some substitute fuel to tide them over until the real sentiment of the anthracite mine workers can find expression and they are ready to abide by the obligations they have entered into.

You are therefore advised that I cannot and will not set aside the judgment of the Commission, and I shall expect the anthracite mine workers to accept the award and carry it into effect in good faith.

WOODROW WILSON.

Wilson's Letter to Commissioners.

On approval of the majority report President Wilson addressed the following letter to the members of the Commission:

The White House,
Washington, Aug. 30, 1920.

Gentlemen: I am in receipt of the report, findings, and award of the United States Anthracite Coal Commission and the minority report thereon and take this opportunity of thanking each of you for your painstaking and intelligent application to the just solution of the difficult and delicate problems you had to deal with and the conscientious manner in which you have arrived at your conclusions.

While the adjudication of any dispute necessarily results in some disappointments, I am sure that the spirit with which you have acted will receive the commendation of the great bulk of the American people, and accept the conclusions of the majority, within the limits of its jurisdiction under the terms of the submission, as being the award of the commission.

Protest has been entered on behalf of the miners by Mr. Thomas Kennedy, Chairman of the Scale Committee of the miners, against that portion of the award which provides for the payment of back money due in several districts. That raises the question of whether or not the decision on that point exceeds the terms of the submission. In a communication to the operators and miners of the Anthracite Wage Scale Committee under date of May 21, 1920, I said:

"I shall insist that the matters in dispute be submitted to the determination of a commission to be appointed by me, the award of the commission to be retroactive to the first of April, in accordance with the arrangement you have already entered into."

That was one of the bases of submission and excludes from the jurisdiction of the commission the entire question of back pay and its manner of payment. For this reason the last paragraph of Section G of the award on Demand 2 should be stricken out and the balance of the award accepted, printed and put into effect.

Opposes Publication of Documents.

In the minority report Mr. Ferry states that he is submitting certain documents and making them an integral part of his report. If it is the intent to have these documents printed as an integral part of the minority report it would seem to me to be manifestly beyond the purview of the work of the commission. These documents represent in part the miners' side of the controversy. So far as I am aware there is only one reason for the publication of them and that is to inform the public of the evidence that has guided the minority in making its report.

I am sure that the minority member of the commission does not desire to give to the public the impression that he had arrived at his conclusions solely upon the evidence presented by the United Mine Workers and without giving consideration to the evidence presented by the other side. The publication of the documents referred to without at the same time publishing the balance of the evidence and arguments would undoubtedly create that impression. If any of the arguments and evidence is to be printed at public expense it should all be printed. That would require several thousand pages of solid printed matter and a great number of pages of tabulations. The cost of printing would be many thousands of dollars for which no appropriation is available. No one ever thinks of asking a court to print the evidence and argument on which it arrives at its conclusions, but each side is at liberty to print any or all of the evidence and argument that it believes to be to its interest to publish.

I can see no reason why that course should not be pursued in the case of a wage commission which is a judicial body. If either side desires the publication by the Government of the matter presented to the commission it should appeal to Congress for an appropriation for that purpose.

In directing these changes, which, after all, are but minor matters, I want to be understood as having a high appreciation of the great task you have performed and the splendid services you have rendered to the country. Sincerely yours,

WOODROW WILSON.

To Messrs. W. O. Thompson, Chairman; W. L. Connell, Neal J. Ferry.

Moves to Draw Up Contract.

Simultaneously with the approval of the majority report by the President, Secretary of Labor Wilson addressed telegrams to John L. Lewis, President, and other officials of the United Mine Workers of America in which the Secretary instructed the Scale Committee of the United Mine Workers to meet the Scale Committee of the anthracite mine operators at Scranton, Pa., at 10 o'clock next Thursday morning "for the purpose of writing the award into contractual relations between Districts 1, 7 and 9 of the United Mine Workers of America and the anthracite mine operators."

In announcing its award the majority states that it has sought to be conservative while at the same time making a substantial improvement in the situation of the anthracite miner.

"The award is made," it declares, "with the primary purpose of making the position of the men performing common ordinary labor more tolerable and of preserving the differentials between the several classes of labor. The commission declines to commit itself to an award which could justly be considered as an encouragement to the so-called 'vicious spiral' in prices.

"This award, while providing improved conditions for the employes, offers no justification for any advance in the retail prices of coal, but, on the other hand, is consistent with a decline in prices. The award has not passed a great burden along to the consumer of coal. Any sharp advance in the retail prices of coal could not be charged to the operators, the miners or the award.

"In order that the possibilities of this award may be realized it is important that there be the heartiest spirit of cooperation by all parties. It assumes that the operators will use every effort to keep the mines in active operation and thus afford the miners opportunity for regularity of employment. Much emphasis in the hearing was given to the statement that the anthracite industry had become substantially a continuous industry. It is important that this statement be realized in experience, as it affects both the annual earnings and the annual production. In no. of these the miner is vitally concerned and in the other the public is profoundly interested."

Summary of the Award.

The award of the commission as approved by President Wilson is summarized as follows:

The commission continues the award of the anthracite coal strike commission, the subsequent agreements and the rulings of the board of conciliation, except as changed by the present award.

The commission directs that the back pay of all such employes who may have died since April 1, 1920, be paid to the legal representative of such employe.

Upon the demand for a contract not exceeding a period of two years the commission sustains the demand and directs a two-year contract.

Upon the demand that the making of individual contracts and agreements in the mining of coal be prohibited, the commission holds that the right of contract cannot be denied. The commission recognizes, however, that abuses of the contract system are possible. The commission directs that upon complaint of any employe affected by the contract system the board of conciliation shall review such individual contracts so as to protect and conserve the rights of all employes in the colliery affected.

Upon the demand for increase in wages the commission makes the following awards:

The rates of the contract miners are increased 65 per cent. above the rates of 1916. This is an increase of 20 per cent. over present rates.

The rates of company men are increased 17 per cent. above present rates, with a minimum rate of 52½ cents per hour. This makes an increase to the low-paid men of a little over 22 per cent.

The rates paid consideration miners are increased 17 per cent. over present rates.

Monthly Men Get 17 Per Cent. Rise.

Monthly men are increased 17 per cent. above present wages.

The demand for the establishment of a uniform wage scale for various occupations of like character is referred to the board of conciliation to act as a commission to make a study of and report to the next joint conference, or sooner if practicable, the matter of uniformity in day rates.

The demand that shovel crews operating for coal companies shall be paid not less than the rates paid by contractors to shovel men is denied.

The demand that the eight-hour day be extended to all classes of inside and outside day labor and monthly men is referred to the Board of Conciliation to work out a basis of eight-hour shifts and rates for inside pump men and engineers working on a twelve-hour cross shift. When the basis is worked out the men in question are to be paid for the time worked by them in excess of eight hours during the period the board is working out this basis.

The demand for time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays is denied.

The demand for recognition of the United Mine Workers of America as a party to the contract is granted. The demand for a "closed shop" and "check-off" is denied.

The demands that all dead work shall be paid for on a consideration basis and where more than one miner is employed they shall receive the same rates, are denied.

The demand for payment for all sheet iron, props, timber, forepolling, and cribbing is denied.

The demand where miners are prevented from working on account of lack of supplies they shall be accorded the opportunity of making a shift at some other work was withdrawn by Commissioner Ferry.

The demand that in the settlement of grievances the aggrieved parties shall have the right to demand settlement upon the basis of equity is denied.

The demand for the payment of a uniform rate of 17 cents per inch for refuse of all kinds in mining up to ten feet wide is denied.

The demands for payment on a consideration basis and the elimination of dockage are denied.

The demands that on all reel motors one motorman and two brakemen be employed and that when motormen as engineers are repairing motors or engines their assistants be employed to help in the work, are denied.

Demand on Tools Granted.

The demand for all tools lost as a result of squeezes, water or fire is granted.

The demand where contract miners are employed doing company work the company shall furnish them with the necessary tools and failing to do so shall compensate the miner for the use of tools, is denied.

The demand that the company furnish all tools to company men is denied.

The demand that checkweight men and check docking bosses be permitted to serve as members of mine committees is denied.

Upon the demand that where contract miners encounter abnormal conditions in their working places they shall have the privilege of going on consideration basis the commission rules as follows:

"Wherever deficient or abnormal conditions are encountered the miner shall make such fact known to the foreman for adjustment. If no adjustment is made the miner has the right to take the matter up with the grievance committee to be dealt with in the manner provided for other grievances."

In concluding the minority report, Commissioner Ferry assures the President that the "majority report shall have the full practical acceptance of the officers of the United Mine Workers of America," who, he adds, will devote themselves to its application, "as we obligated ourselves to do when we submitted our cause to this commission."

MEN MEET TOMORROW TO TAKE VOTE ON STRIKE

Insurgents Assail the Award, but Officers Are for Acceptance, with New Demands.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 30.—Three hundred delegates from the locals of District 1, United Mine Workers of America, have been called to meet here on Wednesday to take action on the refusal of President Wilson to heed their ultimatum that he approve the minority report of the Anthracite Wage Commission, which would give the miners 31 per cent. The President approved the majority report giving the miners about 20 per cent.

Rinaldo Cappelini, organizer of the present strike of 10,000 miners of the Pennsylvania Coal Company against the contractor system and one of the signers of the ultimatum to the President, said this afternoon that the ultimatum meant a strike if the President failed to sign the minority report.

Coal operators and administration leaders of the United Mine Workers are making determined efforts to prevent a vote for a strike at the meeting on Wednesday. Administration leaders will urge President Wilson to reopen negotiations.

The operators will address a statement to the public through their sub-committee and John T. Dempsey, President of District 1, has already spoken against the insurgents, declaring their action in sending an ultimatum to be unofficial.

Enoch Williams, leader of the insurgents, was one of the advocates of a Wage Commission. The vote to accept a commission and abide by its decision was unanimous. For these reasons there are many men in the region who do not care about striking, but there are thousands of others, not members of the union, who feel that they are not bound by the agreements made by the United Mine Workers.

The officials of the three anthracite districts are much dissatisfied with the commission's award and their first action now will be to make protest to the President and request a reopening of the case.

More dynamiting has occurred in the Pittston section and strikers of the Pennsylvania Coal Company are blamed. Strike leaders make denial. One thousand employes of the Jermyn Coal Company and Pennsylvania Coal Company at Old Forge have gone on strike in sympathy with the Pennsylvania Coal Company walkout against the contractor system.

DISTRICT HEAD DISPLEASED.

Thomas Kennedy Asks Commission to Modify Its Proposals.

HAZLETON, Pa., Aug. 30.—Thomas Kennedy, President of the United Mine Workers of the Hazleton District, commenting today on the approval of the majority report of the Anthracite Wage Commission by President Wilson, said: "It is very much less than we expected and does not do justice to the anthracite workers."

He made public two telegrams sent to President Wilson and Secretary Wilson protesting against accepting the findings. He calls the majority report "an economic crime" and declares that instead of "making for peace and harmony in the anthracite region it will have a tendency to do the opposite."

One telegram asked that the commission be reconvened to reconsider its proposals.

POT AND KETTLE AT CHICAGO.

This Presidential campaign has thus far been, by universal agreement, "apathetic." The effort appears to be making to rouse people from their lethargy by starting up a great row over party funds for the election. But this may have the effect of turning apathy into disgust. The pot will call the kettle black. The Republicans are going to prove that the Democrats are as bad as they are. This is expected to raise the campaign to a high moral plane. Chairman HAYS is bursting with indignation at the "insults" to his own contributors, and is preparing to give Governor Cox some insults as good as he sent. Apparently the chief attempt before the Senate Committee at Chicago will be to demonstrate, not that one party is good, but that the other is worse.

In that contest of comparative demerits the public will take little interest. The main facts are well understood. The expenses of a campaign for the Presidency are necessarily high. To do the needed and legitimate work costs a great deal of money. Both parties have to get it and neither of them has been, in the past, too scrupulous as to where or how it was got. No one will seriously contend that there is in that respect any great difference between Democrats and Republicans this year. They are alike in needing a large fund; they are alike in having to operate under the corrupt practices laws and in having to make public the amount and source of the contributions they receive. The Republicans might readily admit that it is easier for them than for the Democratic Party to fill their war chest, since they number many more members of large means. The bigger resources to tap would naturally mean a bigger supply. But that fact does not constitute a moral difference between the parties, provided the money is not illegally collected or corruptly spent. There is no virtue in pleading poverty, though the Democrats are pleased—for the present—to plead it. When they are in funds they will be still better pleased.

The force and political effect of Governor Cox's speech on the Republican campaign fund lay in the disclosure that Chairman HAYS had set some cheerful idiots to raising money. The Democrats may have no better motives. But they can hardly be detected in such incredibly silly methods, such imbecilities of phrasing, as were used by the Republican agents. The Sun has enough political sense to see the point perfectly. It bids the Democrats lay on to their hearts' content, in condemnation and ridicule of the Republican "official bulletins" which Governor Cox produced, saying that nothing can be too "severe" against those young masters of "salesmanship" who wrote the amazing appeals for money. And The Sun is frank enough to add:

> What a stroke of consummate intelligence it was to cram the "official bulletins" of the drive bureau with such expressions as "Digging up the money" and "Boys, get the money!" and "Get money quick!" and "Step on it!" and "Get the right man to see the right people!" and "Our readers are requested not to make this publication public" and a dozen other gems of the advertising agent's "pep" or of the publicity promoter's bromides of persuasion or of the canned lingo of organized solicitation on an extensive scale!
> Had the Republican authority responsible for this damfoolishness no memory of historical politics, no sense of the quotable value to a political adversary of such verbal ammunition, however innocent in its real significance?

That element of "quotable value" is a tremendous asset in politics. The Democrats, owing to the fearful indiscretions of the Republican National Committee, start off with it on their side. They also have the timely warning not to permit any such crass folly on the part of any of their own collectors with a mania for words with a "punch" in them. Chairman HAYS would doubtless, if he had known about it in time, sooner have cut off his right hand than let that insensate and incriminating stuff go out from his headquarters. Chairman WHITE will redouble his vigilance against similar idiocy in Democratic headquarters. But let no one suppose that anything can stop the great moral show which is now on for a run at Chicago, and which consists in trying to convince the audience that, if you are a villain, the other fellow is a much darker one.

OLD FRIENDS ARE BEST.

Every tender heart must sympathize with Mr. HARDING, whose opinions have to be adjusted every week. He ought to have a revolving porch. What a strain it must be to have to adapt himself to each new distinguished visitor, to the League Republicans, to the moderate reservationists, to the irreconcilable Johnsonians. If he boldly projects a thought one day, he has to qualify it the next. Why should he be blamed for threatening totally to reverse Mr. WILSON'S foreign policy when he is continually compelled to modify, shift and reverse his own?

Somewhere there must be comfort, hope, certainty for this distracted soul. Not long ago Mr. HARDING uttered the spell that will dissolve his perplexities, relieve his nerves, rescue him from his labyrinthine uncertainties, plant his feet on the breathless heights of the true old Republican faith: "Mark my words, the tariff will be the issue. People can smile now, but you will hear a lot of shouting about the tariff before the campaign is over." It is more than time for the shouting to begin. Clinging rapturously to the heaven-born tariff, Mr. HARDING will feel happy again, and for the first time since his campaign began know where he is at.

NOT WAR, BUT MURDER.

Cardinal LOGUE of Ireland has spoken a timely and authoritative word about the continued assassinations of Irish policemen. Sinn Fein has been putting about the excuse that "war" exists between the Irish Republic and England; that the constabulary is really a part of the armed forces of the "enemy," and therefore that its members are liable to be shot on sight. But Cardinal LOGUE sternly repudiates this in the name of the Catholic Church. He solemnly warns all Irishmen that the shooting down of inoffensive men who are but doing their duty is not only a wanton and ghastly crime, but an act for which the perpetrators will be held "guilty before GOD."

This is a most needed and wholesome pronouncement. At first the Catholic Church in Ireland was strongly opposed to the Sinn Fein movement. Afterward, the majority of the priests and prelates joined with the mass of their countrymen in the South of Ireland in supporting it. But the line is drawn by Cardinal LOGUE at the cowardly murders which have been committed on the thin pretense of making war.

ANTI-WILSONISM IN TEXAS.

Mr. JOSEPH WELDON BAILEY, an eminent resident of Washington and sometime a Senator in Congress, wanted the Democratic nomination for Governor of Texas. In the jaundiced words of an opponent, his "followers" claim, and he seems to claim himself, that he has the strength of "SAMSON, the intellect of THOMAS "JEFFERSON, the literary excellence of "SHAKESPEARE, the oratorical ability "of DEMOSTHENES and the statesman"ship qualities of GLADSTONE." He is a good lawyer and orator, but perhaps his chief distinction is his genius for universal kicking. He is opposed to pretty nearly everything and everybody, and especially to Mr. WILSON. He tried in vain to get an anti-Wilson delegation from Texas to the San Francisco Convention.

In the Democratic primary election of July 24 there were, besides BAILEY, three Democratic candidates, all Wilson men. Mr. BAILEY got 152,173 votes. Mr. PATRICK M. NEFF got 150,821; the third candidate got 99,063, and the fourth 48,973. The majority of the Wilson men was nearly 146,184. Mr. BAILEY had 33.78 per cent. of the total Democratic vote; the Wilsonites, 66.22 per cent. Many Republicans are said to have voted for Mr. BAILEY. Republican newspapers were enthusiastic for him. Some Republican papers outside of Texas were rash enough to regard the result of the first primary as a defeat for Mr. WILSON. Since no candidate had a majority, a second primary was held on Aug. 28. The Wilson Democrats united on Mr. NEFF, a Waco lawyer, accused by the Baileyites of the atrocious crime of being a Baptist minister. Preachers seem to be among the innumerable objects of Mr. BAILEY'S aversion.

The vote has been counted in all but a few unimportant districts, and Mr. NEFF is some 73,000 votes ahead. The result was certain, so that the vote was not as large as at the previous primary, and in Mr. BAILEY'S motley collection of supporters it is impossible to give the respective numerical values of anti-suffragists, anti-prohibitionists, pro-Germans, miscellaneous "antis" and straight anti-Wilsonians. What is clear is that the Texas Democratic opposition to the President is negligible and impotent. Mississippi, South Carolina, Missouri, Oklahoma should have taught Mr. BAILEY the folly of putting even his majestic and once togated person against the Democratic Administration and Democratic popular opinion.

AN APPLE A DAY.

A new kind of thrift drive is proposed by the New York Federation of Agriculture. In the present crop there is an apple a day throughout the season for every man, woman and child in the State; and, in addition to "keeping the doctor away," the prescription should contribute to the prosperity of both farmer and city folk. In the recent thrift movement as to wearing apparel, the tinkling symbol of which was the overalls parade, there was an element of vindictiveness against profiteers. That was natural and human enough; but success involved a shutting down of mills and unemployment. By taking advantage of the bumper apple crop consumers may sensibly reduce their expenses, even add to their luxuries, and at the same time encourage the farmer.

The eating quality of the Eastern apple has been too little recognized. It is easily tested. Cut it in half with a table knife and the juice will run down the blade. In a very few minutes the exposed surfaces will take on a cider brown. Do the same with many Western apples, even those that are most beautiful to the eye, and no juice will appear, no color. This means a lack of juice and an excess of cellulose, which renders some Western apples not only tasteless but highly indigestible. It is true that Eastern apples give less of the appearance of luscious ripeness and more easily lose what good looks they have. Our moister climate, which makes them tender and juicy, also favors the fungi that injure their skins and warp their shape, while the effect of even a slight bruise is soon apparent. But these are only the defects of an excellent quality.

For barreled apples from the farm most housekeepers have little use, though hotels and restaurants that buy in quantity and for immediate consumption find their account in them. The individual will do better to buy by the bushel, and only fruit from established orchards that have an interest in safeguarding their reputations. Last week Duchess apples from Western New York sold, according to their size, for from 75 cents to $1.35 a bushel, including the container. The two-and-a-half-inch apples average 185 to the bushel and sold wholesale in New York City for $1.35 a bushel—less than a cent apiece. These apples came from orchards that had been carefully sprayed; they had been hand-picked and carefully culled and graded by size. The two-and-a-quarter-inch apples run about 240 to the bushel and are equally good for cooking, yet brought less than a dollar. A fair price must of course be allowed to the retailer, but even with that it is open season for the apple lover.

For breakfast there is the apple baked and swimming in its carameled pungency. For dinner there is pie—for those who prefer it, pie deep-dished and succulent; for the native gourmand the true and only product of the pie belt, bulging with slices thick and juicy and encased in a crust that remains dry beneath and is oven-tanned on top to a flaky crisp. There is also the apple that is munched between meals by children or at bedtime by the old folk. And together with the wealth of Pomona the cost of living goes down red lane.

THE BROOKLYN STRIKE.

LOUIS FRIDIGER, the counsel for the Brooklyn traction strikers, and Judge MAYER accuse each other of being contract breakers. But the contradiction is only one of those which make it difficult to pass judgment on the merits of the strike without ability to read minds and judge hidden motives. Mayor HYLAN, for example, reverses himself. His first position was that Judge MAYER was right. His revised position is that the B. R. T. took a course which caused the strike as a means of strengthening the higher fare argument. The public is impatient with such futilities and wants to get at the heart and truth of the matter.

Judge MAYER and Mr. FRIDIGER disagree regarding the obligation of the court to accept the award of an arbitration, whatever the award might be. But Judge MAYER would be recreant to his trust if he put himself in a position where he would be bound to compulsory approval of a proposition adapted, if not designed, to forestall his judicial action. It is begging the question to say either that the award would be so slight that it could not prejudice the B. R. T., or that it would be so great as to offend the court's conscience. Nothing can be said about it except that the Judge is right in reserving liberty of action in a matter which must be decided judicially.

It is said by the strikers, or for them, that the Judge can bind himself to accept an award now as he did in 1919. Each arbitration stands by itself. The earlier arbitration has been entirely executed and resulted in a contract which has been broken. It is because of what the strikers won in the earlier arbitration that their employers are by so much less able to endure another award. Also because of that award there is a weakening of the presumption in the strikers' favor now. Somewhere there must be an end to high and higher wages or the traction companies will follow the railways into embarrassment. Whoever seeks equity must do equity. The strikers who have broken their promise to give a month's notice are in no position to demand another arbitration as a right. The fundamental question is whether the interests of all or the interests of a comparatively few should have priority. To be specific, is it more essential that Brooklyn's two millions should have that prime necessity of life, transportation, or that the strikers, ten thousand, more or less, should enforce their views regarding the conditions of their employment? If the strikers are wrong in their views there can be no argument. Assuming that the strikers are right, there may be an argument, but it can lead to no other conclusion than that the welfare of all should prevail, whatever the hardships to the comparatively few. That position should be supported by whatever means may be necessary, beginning with fair words and sound reason.

WHY GREAT MEN LEAVE HOME.

General VON LUETTWITZ, whose attempt to upset the German Government last March came to such an early and disastrous end, has written indignantly from the obscurity of parts unknown to a Berlin paper, denying that he fled when it became apparent that his revolution was a failure. He did leave, fly or escape, he admits, but not till eight days after the collapse; and his reasons for leaving then are of some interest, particularly to New Yorkers:

> I saw I would be imprisoned for a long time before I was tried, and knowing that this would pull down my health so that I would make a poor showing at the trial, I left.

It will be observed that this explanation is virtually identical with that which Mr. NICKY ARNSTEIN gave for his protracted absence from his home town. From this point on history fails to repeat itself; NICKY came back and got bail; LUETTWITZ is still at large, so much at large that apparently he has not learned that the Ebert Government has decreed amnesty for all the conspirators who took part in the March revolt. However, since it is unlikely that LUETTWITZ reads the New York papers or gets his allbis from the day's police news, it is an interesting example of the tendency of master minds to run in the same channel.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

America's Cup Conditions.

It is a long time before there will be another international yacht race, and a good many things more important than any such contest are going to happen in the interval. Already, however, there is enough discussion of the subject to show that what seemed this Summer to be a waning of public interest in efforts to capture and to retain the America's Cup probably was due to widespread dissatisfaction with the conditions governing the races and with the quality of the boats which those conditions have produced, not to weariness of this form of sport.

This probability, there is reason to think, has been recognized by the Canadians who purpose or hope to challenge for the cup. For one thing, they are going to abandon the long-maintained position that the races are entirely the affairs of the yacht clubs—that the public are merely tolerated as spectators if they somehow can get within sight of the boats, but have no right either to criticise or to complain about any arrangements the clubs choose to make and agree upon. This view, though technically correct, will have to be modified, at least so far as the Canadians are concerned, if, as proposed, the cost of their boat is to be defrayed by public subscriptions in small sums.

Moreover, A. C. Ross, who is leading in the effort to enter a Canadian challenger, not only has suggested that either Sir THOMAS LIPTON refrain from challenging again or that he agree to have the race one of three boats instead of two. Mr. Ross, too, shares the widespread opinion that it is time to stop racing with "freak" boats and to use instead boats that, as he somewhat harshly puts it, will not "funk" a breeze that would have no terrors for the humble "cats" sailed all Summer by 15-year-old boys.

That, unquestionably, is a change that would meet approval everywhere outside of an inner yachting circle—a circle so small that the great majority of yachtsmen are outside of it and content to remain there.

How Critics Might Be Silenced.

Further suggestions for making the America's Cup races less open to criticism—and ridicule—have been made by this paper and in other quarters. They have to do with so changing the stipulations laid down in the deed of gift that, first, boats of sensible models and permanent value can be entered, and, second, handicapping will be made unnecessary and the two-minute starting interval would be done away with.

Certainly, though a handicap for size and sail area is perfectly fair—as is anything on which both of two contestants agree—and though it is also quite fair to win on time allowance, there always is something decidedly unpleasant for both victor and vanquished when the boat that comes in second is declared the winner. Such a race confers a rather pale glory on the one side, and on the other it leaves a sense of unreal or undeserved defeat. To the spectators the race thus decided is utterly spoiled—a matter of no consequence, of course, if the opinions of the spectators are ignored on the theory that only the clubs are concerned, but of considerable importance from the point of view that it is public interest and attention that alone make these particular races the culminating event in the yachting calendar.

Our Rivers Are Used Too Little.

Only when something as seriously troublesome as is the present strike on the B. R. T. lines has to be met does New York remember that it is bordered by one big river and divided by a channel that is called a river and looks like one, though it is really something else. And when the city does recall to mind these very obvious facts its people begin again to wonder why it is that they make so little use of these waterways—so little use, that is, for the purposes of urban transportation.

Of river boats in the sense known to London, Paris and dozens of other European cities, we have practically none, unless the appellation be given to our ferryboats, and they really do not deserve it. Besides, the ferryboats, always absurdly few in proportion to the number of New York's inhabitants, have been growing fewer rapidly of late years, and are a perishing species, evidently doomed to extinction. Then the city, so far as concerns its own transportation needs, as a place of residence might as well be in the middle of a prairie State.

Even in ordinary times properly managed river boats should attract a good many passengers, though they would run in competition with subways and their manifest superiority for people in a hurry. Not all of us are in a hurry—not always, anyhow—and a daily short journey in the open air and on the water has charms which tunnels lack.

By putting some of the municipal boats to the undesigned use of carrying passengers the Mayor has recognized the possibilities of handling urban traffic in this way. But it is an emergency measure, and it will be of little help, especially to folk living in the wild parts of Further Brooklyn.

A MONOPOLY OF PATRIOTISM

A Massachusetts Comment on Senator Lodge.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In his opening address for the Republican campaign Mr. Lodge has gratuitously and grossly insulted hundreds and thousands of his fellow-citizens.

I have no quarrel with any man standing firm for his own party, but I most decidedly and emphatically object to any man who, with a lack of intelligence truly astonishing—almost unbelievable—announces that "no man or woman who cares anything for America (can he by any chance mean the United States?) can go anywhere but into the Republican Party"! And this in his own home town, in close proximity with that of a sister city honored by the residence of such men as Dr. Charles Eliot and others of his ilk. There have always been grand, noble, highly conscientious men in the Democratic Party, probably a larger number now than ever before, and of these Mr. Lodge presumes to say that they "care nothing for America"! It does not remind one of the fine old "Friend" at Nantucket, who once remarked: "Though we raise some honesty and truthfulness on Nantucket, we don't want to set up a monopoly of any of God's good gifts." Rather does it recall an ancient creed, still in use in the Church of England, which consigns the larger portion of the population of the globe to perdition when it affirms, in its closing clause, that "Unless you this believe ye shall without doubt everlastingly perish."

One might be amused by the lack of a sense of true humor, both in the old creed and in Mr. Lodge's careless utterance, were it not for the fact that "A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands" in either party for the good of the country and the world at large, for one party or the other must win, and it is a sorry outlook to know that the guiding influence in one of them is a man who with his own hand, or rather by his own voice, has destroyed the last vestige of respect in the minds of many quite worthy men and women who venture to hold other opinions—even some who have decided that their love for their own country and for the good of the world at large was best and most convincingly shown by, for the time being at least, leaving the old standard and throwing in their lot with another, for the sake of a principle involved. Strange and unbelievable as it appears to Mr. Lodge, there are both men and women who are about to affiliate themselves with the Democratic Party—many for the first time—for that very reason, for an ideal and a principle.

Mr. Lodge has every right to his own opinions, but it is the part of neither a statesman nor a scholar, and one need hardly add of a gentleman, to impugn the loyalty and patriotism of those who possibly have a better understanding of the meaning of those words than he himself possesses.

Lest it be said, "This from a Democrat," I may add that from its organization, in 1854, my family has been Republican, with the exception of the campaign when that party nominated James G. Blaine, and again when the McKinley tariff—which had beaten the country "with whips"—was "revised" by Quigley to "beat it with scorpions."

The Late J. M. Waterbury.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a friend of the late J. M. Waterbury, Jr., I should like to express through your paper the great sorrow with which his many friends in England and America will learn of his sudden death yesterday at French Lick, Ind.

"Monte" Waterbury, as he was called, was best known to his friends and the public as a world-renowned polo player, possessing the sweetest and most charming personality. I have always thought of him as one of the handsomest young men I have ever known.

He learned to play polo on a bicycle when quite a boy, which assists in promoting a perfectly natural seat on a pony, free movement of the body, swing of the mallet, accurate hitting, all working in unison with the eye, and by using his head he became, as I am sure all will agree, one of the most brilliant players of his time.

"Monte" Waterbury played on the Polo Association team captained by Harry Payne Whitney at the Hurlingham Club, London, in 1909, at which time the American team won decisively all of the games in which it played, bringing the International Cup to America; and no one in England or America will question the fact that our greatly admired friend did his share, which is confirmed by the very fact that he played on the team.

These general remarks also apply to the games played at the Meadow Brook Club, when the Polo Association American team successfully defended the cup until 1914, when Lord Wimborne's team recovered it for England in gallant fashion by its superior play.

All who have played polo with "Monte" Waterbury will remember him as one of the fairest of players under all conditions, which fact doubtless contributed much to his success.

His friends will always remember him as a real friend with the greatest charm.

EUROPE'S NEED OF HELP.

New Reasons for Our Joining the League of Nations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note the report of Dr. Plotz of Mount Sinai Hospital on typhus in Poland: "The people of other countries must recognize the fact that the epidemic can only be stamped out at its source. Other nations must join together in cleaning up the plague spots of Central Europe. If we don't join, we will have the plague here."

I also read of the tortures inflicted by the Bolsheviki reported by Mr. Arctowski, just returned from Poland. He shows photographs of the victims, some with nails driven into their heads, some with eyes torn out and others who had "received a pair of gloves," the amiable Bolsheviki having "cut a circle around the wrists with a sharp knife and then drawn the skin down over the hands."

Yes, there are plague spots in Europe!

Yet some of us seem to be adopting the plan of the young girl who let her automobile run away with her. "What did you do?" I asked. "Oh, I just shut my eyes."

There is a lot to be done. The League of Nations without our aid is trying to meet the typhus situation. Little Poland, which through John Sobieski nearly three hundred years ago saved Vienna from the Turkish horde, is now holding back the Red tide for herself and for civilization.

And yet what do I hear people say in this, my own town? A beautiful young matron remarked to me the other day with great serenity, "Oh, I don't believe in sending any more help to Europe; it is only pouring money into a rathole."

And a lovely young mother said, holding her baby to her cheek, "No, I don't want this precious baby to go over there and fight the Bolsheviki. We don't believe in any League of Nations, do we, baby?"

If we fold our hands serenely then, if we shut our eyes, we are safe! These fears about the League of Nations seem so strange! We have our Constitution, and only Congress can declare war. Yet people think that to vote for the League is voting that their beloved children shall be slain! A leading lawyer of the State remarked, "I don't want to go over and fight for the oppressed Armenians, I don't want my son to fight for them, and I will not vote for other men's sons to go and fight for them."

As a refreshing contrast to these remarks, I will quote two that to my mind range true. The head of a large military school to whom I was expressing my fears for brave little Armenia, and my regret that our own country was so tied up she could not help her, replied: "But we are to have the League of Nations, and all that will be changed."

I don't think he meant we would have to fight, but that the Turks would behave when they had all the world arrayed against them.

But best of all was what a leading professional gentleman said to me yesterday. He does not think any more than I that joining the League of Nations would mean war. He thinks it is the right thing, the only thing to do.

"But," I asked him, "if it did mean a few American lives given, would you be willing to send your son?" And I told him of a little refugee lately landed with his mother. The little fellow was stolen by the Turks when only 5 years old. His mother finally got him back, his little body covered with sores, and the child so subdued by terror that for six months they tried in vain to make him smile. His face grew grave, and he said, "If it came to that, Mrs. Harrison, I do not think my son could die in a better cause."

And then the whole day grew warm and bright.

There are noble hearts, then, in Staunton, men who would rather die righteously than live ignobly and selfishly.

GRACE M. HARRISON.

A Correction by Mr. Hughes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to correct an inaccurate statement in your report of my address before the American Bar Association on justice and the poor. Referring to the important improvement in procedure in the New York Municipal Courts I mentioned the speedy disposition of wage claims. I did not, however, make the statement with which I am credited in your report that wage cases "received such precedence that their disposal was accomplished on the day of action." Of course, however speedy the procedure, there must be a fair opportunity for the defendant to be heard. What I did say on this point was as follows:

"Wage cases are preferred on the day calendar and a preference is also given to small claims; that is, for an amount not exceeding $50. Disposition is made of such cases ordinarily without adjournment on the day on which they are first placed on the calendar, which is within five days, and not more than eight days after the defendant had appeared if the case is contested; in this way they are usually determined within an hour or two after the call of the calendar on that day."

THE DIFFERENCE.

I hear so many stories of When Mother
Was a Girl!
She always stood so very still to have her hair in curl;
She brushed her teeth three times a day, and kept her nails so clean,
And never once forgot that little girls should just be seen.

Now, I'm a very diff'rent child. I'd be a nervous wreck
If I couldn't fidget all I want, and talk a teenty speck;
If I don't forget I brush my teeth—if I can find the time—
And I clean my nails, but they mostly show a horrid edge of grime.

My Mother kept her stockings darned,
when she was oh, so small!
For roller skates and loop-the-loops she didn't care at all;
And playing baseball with the boys—
"My dear! It wasn't done!"
The tomboy things her daughter loves were not considered fun.

My Mother always sat up straight and kept her elbows down,
Said "If you please," and "Thank you,
ma'am," and never wore a frown;
She always used her napkin, and never tipped her dish;
She didn't whistle in her soup, nor mess up with her fish!

But I'm a very trying child! My manners don't exist,
Big Sister says, and tries to head me off when I insist
On picking out the kind I like of candy when there's guests,
And paying no attention to her hints and kind requests.

If I wait till the guests choose theirs, my kind will all be gone!
I know this by experience, because I've tried it on.
Of course, my Mother never would have been a Greedy Pig,
But if she wasn't 'shamed of me, I wouldn't care a fig.

Because I'm sure, away down deep (I'll never say it, though),
What good times meant, in Mother's day, they simply didn't know!

CHILE'S NAVAL PROGRAM

Unchanged Since 1910—Ships Now Received Delayed by War.

The following telegram from the Chilean Minister of Foreign Affairs, Señor Aldunate, has been received by the Chilean Consulate here:

"Telegrams from New York bring the information that news dispatches have been printed there with the color of propaganda in the interest of Peru, in connection with the acquisition by Chile of a dreadnought and four cruisers. Allusion is made to destroying the balance of military power in South America.

"As a matter of fact, the acquisition is in accord with the giving up of ships under construction to the English Government during the war, and which were in such a state of completion that they took part in the war. The Chilean naval program was settled in 1910, and included the building of two dreadnoughts, six sea-going destroyers and some submarines. Only two destroyers were received, and now there has been secured the return of one dreadnought and the remaining destroyers. We still lack, therefore, to complete the building ordered in 1910, one dreadnought."

BRITAIN ANSWERS OIL QUERY

Note Too Garbled by Cable for State Department to Comment on It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—It was made known at the State Department this afternoon that the United States Government has received a reply from Great Britain to the inquiries made some weeks ago regarding the Anglo-French oil agreement with particular reference to the distribution of oil produced in mandate countries.

The British reply was cabled through the American Embassy at London. Certain parts of it, however, were badly garbled in transmission and were illegible to the State Department, which, while studying the portions of the note which were not garbled, is awaiting the receipt of the mailed confirmation of the text before making official comment upon its contents.

It was pointed out today that the American communication was not in the form of a protest, but a request for information, especially as regards the principles upon which provisions in agreement between France and England for the distribution of oil produced in mandate countries is based. The American point of view in this respect is that a mandatory is not privileged to exploit the raw materials produced in mandate territory for its own benefit and that all nations should enjoy equal commercial opportunities in such territories.

UTAH LEADS IN GROWTH.

Increases 76,095, or 20.4 Per Cent., in Population.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Utah, forty-first State in population ten years ago, and the 1920 population of which was announced today by the Census Bureau as 449,446, has shown the largest percentage of growth of any State thus far announced in the fourteenth census. Its rate of growth, 20.4 per cent., was almost as large as that for the decade ending with 1910, but its numerical increase was exceeded in that decade.

In the last ten years its increase was 76,095, the second largest in its history, while ten years ago it showed an increase of 96,602. The State now has almost forty times the population it had when organized as a Territory in 1850, and its increase in the last ten years is more than six times the population at that time.

Other population figures announced today by the Census Bureau were:

Pueblo, Col., 42,908; a decrease of 1,487, or 3.3 per cent.

Helena, Mon., 12,037; a decrease of 478, or 3.8 per cent.

Hancock, Mich., 7,527; a decrease of 1,454, or 16.2 per cent.

Los Angeles, Cal. (revised), 576,673; previously announced as 575,480.

Pasadena, Cal. (revised), 45,354; previously announced as 45,334.

Alton, Ill. (revised), 24,682; previously announced as 24,714.

Populations of the States of Maryland, Massachusetts and Connecticut and of the City of Muskogee, Okla., will be announced tomorrow.

RUSSIAN CHILDREN SEE CITY

Trip Arranged for 780 Guests of Red Cross—Mayor to Meet Them.

Seven hundred and eighty Russian children who are completing the circuit of the world, which the Red Cross planned for them when Bolshevist disorders drove them eastward, were taken on an extensive sight-seeing trip about New York yesterday. Mayor Hylan will meet them before they sail for France.

According to officials, all Russians who have visited Fort Wadsworth, where the children are encamped, are "good natured," and interested chiefly in talking to the little ones. Nearly all of the visitors sent verbal messages back to Russia, but the authorities have forbidden written communications. Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, Soviet representative in the United States, yesterday protested to the Red Cross against the proposed trip to France of the children. He said he was willing to arrange for their return to Russia.

PAPAL ORDER FOR FLAHERTY

Head of the Knights of Columbus to be Commander of St. Gregory.

ROME, Aug. 30.—Robert Underwood Johnson, the American Ambassador, returned to Rome today from Camaldoli, where he was spending the Summer, in order to meet the visiting Knights of Columbus. Tomorrow the Ambassador will give a luncheon in honor of Supreme Knight Flaherty and other leading Knights.

Pope Benedict has instructed Mgr. Cerretti, Papal Under-Secretary of State, to deliver in the Pontiff's name to Mr. Flaherty the insignia of Commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great. The presentation will be made at a dinner which the Knights of Columbus will give tonight in honor of Mgr. Cerretti.

SUGAR DROPS TO 15 CENTS.

"Tablets" Featured by One Store—Granulated 17 to 21 Cents.

Sugar was offered yesterday at 15 cents a pound by one of the chain stores. It was not granulated but "tablet" sugar. This is the lowest price at which sugar of any kind has been offered in many months. Granulated sugar continues to sell from 17 to 21 cents in most of the stores, 19 cents perhaps being the most common price.

John B. Floyd, sugar statistician of the Flying Squadron of the Department of Justice, is expected to return today from Washington, where he has been for the last few days conferring with officials there, presumably in regard to the sugar situation, it was said at the squadron office yesterday.

8C BEST BID FOR RAW SUGAR

But Cuban Holders Stood for 11, While Peru Sold for 9 7/8.

Poor demand for refined sugar led to absence of interest in the New York sugar market yesterday.

Cuban holders offered raw sugar at 11 cents a pound cost and freight, while the best bid in the market was 8 cents. A small sale of Peru sugar at 9 7-8 cents c. i. f., was the equivalent of 10¼ cents for Cuban.

A small export inquiry in the market was not of sufficient volume to affect prices.

HARRIETTE MELISSA MILLS

GIANTS PUNISHED TWICE BY PIRATES

McGrawmen Muff Chance to Advance by Dropping Two Games, 4 to 2 and 2 to 1.

MAKE 13 HITS IN OPENER

But Carlson Tightens in Pinches—Ponder Holds New Yorkers Safely in Second Contest.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30.—The Pirates handed the Giants a brace of unexpected jolts at Forbes Field this afternoon, and shattered as rosy a dream as the McGrawmen have indulged in this season. Coming close on the heels of the clean-up at Cincinnati, the five-game series which opened here this afternoon was regarded by many of the fast-stepping New Yorkers as safely packed away in the victory column. The Pirates took an opposite view and grabbed both ends of the double header, 4 to 2 and 2 to 1.

Owing to the fact that the Robins were taking similar treatment from the Cardinals, the double reverse was not as costly to the Giants as it might have been. But the Reds were not losing, and as a result the Cincinnati team, virtually on even terms with the Giants this morning, went into first place, and now leads the tribe of McGraw by the margin of one and one-half games. The Robins still hold a one-game margin over the Giants.

The Giants got so many hits in the first game that they didn't know what to do with them, and chance after chance to do some scoring went glimmering. The McGrawmen straightened out the slants of Harold Carlson for thirteen safe hits while the Pirates were getting only eight, but the flock of hits meant little after the first inning when the New Yorkers pushed two runs over the plate. When runs threatened in the later innings Carlson put on more pressure and base runners wilted on the sacks. Thirteen runners left on bases for the Giants, as against three for the Pirates, tells the story of wasted opportunity on one side and efficiency on the other.

In the second game the Giants were all but helpless with the stick, and the result was the same as in the opener. Elmer Ponder gave one of his best exhibitions of mound work, and the McGrawmen were never really dangerous except in the fourth inning. In this frame they bunched two hits for their only run. The other New York hit arrived in the eighth frame. Fred Toney pitched the kind of ball that would win ordinarily, but not against the sort of flinging which Ponder displayed. Toney scattered the Pittsburgh hits for seven innings, and then retired for a pinch hitter.

Perritt Gets Two Chances.

Pol Perritt, who rejoined the Giants a few days ago, had two opportunities to show his skill this afternoon and he came through each time with hitless pitching. In the first game Phil Douglas was taken out for a pinch-hitter in the sixth inning and Perritt took up the burden the home half of the same inning. He pitched two frames and then went out for another pinch-hitter. Only six Pirates faced Perritt during his term on the mound. He walked one, but the gift was nullified when the runner attempted to steal second. In the second game Toney was taken out in the first half of the eighth inning to let Earl Smith do some hitting. Perritt again went into the box and he set the side down in order.

The hitting of Young and Frisch and brilliant catches by Burns, Bigbee and Southworth were outstanding features of the twin bill. Young got five hits in as many times at bat in the opening game, but he failed to do any hitting against Ponder in the second. Frisch got three hits in the opener and his triple in the second kept the Giants from being shut out. Frisch tried to make the circuit on his drive, which had chased Bancroft over with a run, but he was out at the plate. Catches by Bigbee and Southworth prevented the Giants from winning the opening game, since each cut off an extra base hit with two runners on the sacks. In the first inning of the second game Burns ran to the foul line and while going at top speed reached down to make a bare-hand catch of a drive by Carey.

The Giants rushed their attack on Carlson in the first inning of the opening game and gave the impression that Hal's stay on the mound would be a brief one. Three hits sent over two runs. In the third, fifth, sixth and seventh innings the McGrawmen bunched hits against the home hurler but could not get runners over the dish. The eighth and ninth also produced hits, but the end of the game found Carlson on the mound a winner, while tighter pitching by three New York hurlers had been wasted.

Start Well, Then Subside.

After Burns had gone out in the first inning Bancroft doubled to left and took third on Young's infield hit. Frisch's single over second sent Bancroft home and Young to third. Kelly hit hard off Carlson's glove and Young beat the throw to the plate. A wild pitch put Frisch on third and Kelly on second. After Spencer had been retired a pass to Doyle filled the corners and Earl Smith filled to Bigbee.

Carey's double over Spencer's head and Southworth's single to centre put over a run for Pittsburgh in the first inning. In the second inning the Pirates came on even terms as a result of Schmidt's single to left centre, Barbare's sacrifice and a single by Carlson. Cutshaw singled in the third and stole second, finishing the jaunt on Whitted's smash to right centre for three bases. Whitted was left on third. In the fifth Carey singled and advanced on Southworth's pass. Cutshaw's long fly to Burns sent Carey along to third and a double steal was worked by Carey and Southworth, the former scoring.

The Giants missed a fine opportunity in the third inning when Young and Frisch opened with singles. After two had been retired Southworth made a great running one-hand catch of Doyle's drive near the right field bleachers. In the sixth inning Doyle and Smith got hits with one out and Grimes went in to bat for Douglas. The rookie met the ball for a drive to the left field corner where Bigbee made a sensational catch. Bancroft and Young opened the seventh with singles, but again the Giants fell down in the pinch.

Toney gave Ponder a great battle in the second game, though the Pirate was much more of a puzzle than the New Yorker. Bancroft scored New York's only run in the fourth. He singled, stole second and reached third on an out. Frisch's triple to centre sent the run across, but Frisch died at the plate trying to make it a home run. A single by Snyder in the eighth was the only other hit made by the Giants off Ponder.

Carey's double to left and Southworth's single to the same section tied up the game in the fourth. In the sixth Carey singled to left, Southworth's double sent Max to third and Cutshaw's single produced the winning run.

REDS REGAIN LOST GROUND.

Break Losing Streak by Taking First Game of Boston Series, 8 to 2.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 30.—The champions broke their losing streak by winning the first game of the Boston series today, 8 to 2. The Reds bunched all of their eight hits in the two innings in which they scored, and were favored by the wildness of Scott and Oeschger, who gave nine bases on balls. Napier won his second game in the National League. He was hit freely, but kept the safeties well scattered until late in the game.

ROBINS DETHRONED BY DOUBLE DEFEAT

Cadore's Homer Is Their Only Run of Both Games—Cards Win 6-0 and 7-1.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30.—The Cardinals stung the Brooklyn Dodgers twice in the same place at Sportsman's Park today, toppling the Robins out of first place.

Bill Doak blanked the Robins in the first game, 6 to 0, giving but five hits, well sprinkled, while his mates hit Rube Marquard in two innings. In the afterpiece the Cards pounded Leon Cadore in the seventh and knocked him off the slab in the eighth, while Ferdie Schupp gave only six hits, three in the third inning, one of these being Cadore's home run. The score was 7 to 1.

Doak was so good in the curtain raiser today that in only three innings, the second, third and fourth, did the Robins get a man to second base. Only one of these men—Myers, on a double and an outfield fly—reached third. This was in the second. Double killings nipped the other two attempts for runs.

Doak in Rare Form.

It was the Cardinals' day for two-ply murders. They turned three in the first game and a couple in the second. Doak's hurling sparkled throughout. His defense was brilliant. In seven innings Blonde Bill turned the visitors back in order. He only fanned two men, as compared to the five struck out by Marquard, but with his mates supporting him in such sterling fashion it was not necessary to pitch them past the batters.

Jack Fournier rolled up the first victory when he singled with the bases filled in the fifth inning, scoring two runners. Marquard had passed Janvrin purposely after Lavan and Clemons had singled. An attack which consisted of a pass, three singles and two sacrifices, to which was appended Olson's fumble after juggling the ball from one hand to the other, gave the locals four more runs in the eighth to clinch the argument. Outside of those two frames, the Cards got but two hits, so effective were the southpaw shoots of Marquard. In fact, the Rickey clan could get but one man to second in those six rounds.

Ferdie Schupp and Leon Cadore battled in the second game to the seventh inning with the score knotted at 1-1. Then Cadore broke under the strain. Not so with Schupp, who got better as the game progressed.

Cadore Poles Out a Homer.

Schupp was in bad in only one inning, the third, when Cadore put the ball into the right field bleachers for Brooklyn's only tally. Johnston and Neis then singled, but there's no telling what would have resulted had Austin McHenry failed to make one of the greatest catches of the season with two on and two down.

Myers was the loser. He clouted the ball on a line to the left field fence. McHenry, after a long run, leaped sideways into the air, shot up his left gloved mitt and crashed into the fence with the ball securely held.

Outside of that round, the Robins made only three hits and got but one man to second, Cadore turning the trick in the fifth, when, with the last half of a double in the making, Fournier hit the pitcher in the back with the ball. In the last five rounds Schupp piled up seven strikeouts.

Cadore himself was pitching beautifully, but half the time out of holes. His support was ragged, except in several instances, one in particular, when Hi Myers rivaled McHenry by racing into deep centrefield to pull in with his gloved hand Fournier's great line drive, which was headed for a home run inside the park.

Sherry Smith Relieves Cadore.

When the Cards put over their offensive in the seventh and eighth, Brooklyn, nervous all afternoon, became flabbergasted. After three straight hits in the eighth, Cadore walked off the hill, Sherrod Smith relieving him.

Janvrin once again was the Cardinal second baseman, Hornsby not having recovered his health. He combined excellently with Johnny Lavan on the double demise, the pair with Fournier turning four during the three hours of play.

Uncle Wilbert shifted his Brooklyn lineup for the final game and McCabe, who went to short, paved the road to the Cardinals' initial tally. His throw past Koney on Janvrin's grounder sent the runner to second. Fournier sacrificed. Stock, who has had trouble all year in holding on to his bat, had the good fortune to loosen his grip once again, his bat accidentally striking the ball and sending it looping to centre, Janvrin scoring.

FRENCH, SHORTSTOP, JOINS YANKS TODAY

Other Budding Bushers Are Signed to Report Next Month.

The Yankee scouts have unearthed a new shortstop in Ray French, from the Des Moines (Iowa) Club. French is heralded as a comer, and he will report for duty today at the Polo Grounds when the Yanks will resume hostilities with the St. Louis Browns.

Several other new players have been discovered by the scouts, and when the minor league seasons end a whole flock of promising youngsters will get a try-out at the Polo Grounds.

Among the new outfielders who have been purchased by the Yanks for next season are Walter Christensen and Nelson Hanks, both of the Calgary Club of the Western Canadian League. Tom Connelly, another outfielder, comes from the Tulsa Club of the Western League.

Jess Doyle is a pitcher from the Greenville Club of the South Atlantic League, and another outfielder is Joe Munson, from the Raleigh Club of the Piedmont League. The Yanks will also try out an infielder named N. A. McMullin, from the Greenville Club of the South Atlantic League.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—Detroit won a free-hitting game from Philadelphia today, 9 to 5. Leonard retired because of the heat at the end of the sixth inning. CANER BEATS HAYES IN NATIONAL TENNIS

Furnishes Upset in Opening of Forest Hills Tourney by Victory in Four Sets.

FIRST ROUND COMPLETED

Williams Has Hard Time Defeating Hunter, and Pell Extends Willis Davis to Five-Set Limit.

Perfect tennis weather and the flawless attention to detail that has become traditional at Forest Hills, L. I., marked the opening of the thirty-ninth annual tournament for the individual championship of the United States on the turf courts of the West Side Club yesterday afternoon. All the sixty-four matches of the first round were disposed of in machine-like style, with les sthan half a dozen defaults registered in the entire entry list of 128 stars.

While the most important of the favorites came through logically enough, there were surprises in some of the close scores, with one result that could legitimately be considered an upset, G. Colket Caner, the Massachusetts State champion, defeating Walter Hayes of Chicago, ranked ninth in the country at present, by scores of 4—6, 6—2, 6—2, 6—3. Richard Norris Williams, 2d, of the Davis Cup team won over Francis T. Hunter only after a terrific struggle, which went to four sets, scored 8—6, 3—6, 6—3, 10—8, with the loser a number of times within a point of capturing both the first and the last session. Willis E. Davis of California required five sets to eliminate Theodore Roosevelt Pell of New York, the match going at 4—6, 6—0, 4—6, 6—1, 6—1.

Lawrence E. Rice of Boston made William T. Tilden, 2d, the world's champion, show his most brilliant strokes to win in straight sets, while young Carl Fischer of Philadelphia carried the national titleholder, William M. Johnston, to a score of 10—8, in the final set of their match. The other winners of the day included Vincent Richards, who dropped a set to Harry S. Parker; Watson M. Washburn, Harold Throckmorton, also hard pressed by Robert Leroy; Dean Mathey, C. J. Griffin, Charles S. Garland, Wallace F. Johnson, Roland Roberts, S. Howard Voshell, Richard Harte, and Samuel Hardy.

Large Gallery Attends.

It was a typical Forest Hills opening day, but with a larger gallery in attendance than on any similar occasion of the past. The two grandstands flanking the clubhouse were well filled most of the afternoon, with an overflow in the special stand at the opposite end of the enclosure, and a constant pilgrimage of the connoisseurs through the labyrinth of paths surrounding the outside courts, where particular favorites, engaged, perhaps in thoroughly one-sided struggles, could easily be found. On the clubhouse porch the officials of the tournament, George T. Adee, Julian S. Myrick, Edward C. Conlin and others, were busy working out the details of a system which ran right through from start to finish without a hitch of any kind, sending the players out to the courts in three big shifts, each represented by at least one good battle inside the "three-ring circus," and all supplied with competent officials.

Caner's unexpected victory over Hayes was due partly to a greater familiarity with turf and partly to better physical condition, the veteran tiring rapidly after winning the opener at 6—4. He dropped two decisive sessions at 6—2 each, and failed in a desperate effort to save the fourth, which finally went against him at 6—4.

It was the Williams-Hunter match that most completely engrossed the attention of the spectators, and on the whole it presented the most thrilling tennis of the day. The New Rochelle star has never been in better form than yesterday, and, with Williams inclined to be a little more erratic than usual, it was practically an even struggle from the start. Hunter used his tremendous forehand drive with absolute confidence, hitting everything that the former champion sent across with equal severity, and scoring more often than he missed. Only on the crucial points, when the winning of a rally would have meant the winning of a set, did his system fail.

Hesitates and Loses.

When victory was actually in sight, Hunter seemed to hesitate to let out at full speed, hoping for another of the errors that had been so plentiful in the earlier stages. But on these occasions Williams invariably tightened up, and it was Hunter who made the errors. Six times the North Side title holder let the point slip away from him that would have meant the opening set, and three times in the final session he lost similar chances, which in this case meant the squaring of the match. Only in the second set did he carry out his winning streak to its ultimate goal, and here his victory was decisive.

Williams made many spectacular shots, but on the whole his game was not impressive. Hunter did not seem to fear his forehand and fed him on this side, but with drives of such terrific velocity that they frequently beat the Bostonian completely. On the volley, also, Williams found it difficult to handle his opponent's powerful shots, and he could never be quite sure that a point was actually his, for Hunter covered ground with amazing activity and sent back many an apparent placement with a desperate sweep of his racquet that carried the ball safely through the opposing court. The gallery found much to applaud in the loser's play.

Hunter secured the first break for a lead of 4—3 when Williams made two bad volleys in succession. He went to 5—3 with a heavily topped lob drive of the kind generally known as "Kumagaeo," which dropped on the base line and bounced completely over his rival's head. Williams picked up a game on errors, but was up against the set point when he sent a back hand half volley out for a count of 30—40. Hunter dropped his racquet in making a great get in the next rally, and the point went to Williams in spite of his sportsmanlike return within his opponent's reach. But Hunter wasted no less than five more opportunities of the same kind, generally by making errors, and Williams finally won the point which tied up the set at 5—all.

Loses Chance Through Errors.

The Cornellian had Williams in the hole 15—40 on his next service with three clean drives that could not be touched, but again threw away his advantage with errors, and a splendid volley pulled out the game for the server, 6—5. More good driving tied the score again for Hunter, but after Williams had taken the odd once more on service he broke through for the set, 8—6, finishing with a soft undercut shot, following a hard drive to the corner.

Apparently put on his mettle by the unfortunate loss of this set, Hunter went out after the second with all his strength, and his great forehand wallops proved irresistible, two breaks through service giving him a winning advantage, which eventually tied up the match at 6—3.

The third set saw Williams at his best, and he again forged ahead by a count of 6—2. In the fourth, however, it looked as though Hunter would still send the struggle to the limit, with perhaps even a chance of winning. Dividing service up to 7—6, he once more had three opportunities to administer the finishing touch, but failed each time, although one came as a free gift through a double fault. Williams, having saved this crucial game, had the match in sight at 8—7, but flubbed an easy smash, and Hunter pulled it out in turn. At 9—8 the match point came up for the second time, but again Hunter saved it with a crashing drive. Williams, however, accepted his next chance, and ended the argument with a volley, the finality of which could not be questioned.

Davis Shows Fine Form.

Davis started in whirlwind style against Pell, breaking through his first service and leading at 2—0. But the steadiness of the New Yorker soon slowed him up, and a counterbreak, followed by a winning delivery, made it 2 all. Pell then upset the service of the Californian again for a lead of 3—2, and kept this advantage to the end of the set, which he won 6—4. The second was all Davis. He took six games in a row by tremendous hitting, and seemed about to overwhelm his opponent.

But Pell was not yet through. He settled down for a fresh start, and by once more playing patiently for his rival's errors gradually built up a lead of 4—0, with two breaks in service to his credit. Here Davis braced and took two games in a row, but thereafter Pell won regularly on his own delivery and took the lead by two sets to one with another 6—4 session in his favor. This was his limit, however, for superior physical condition told after intermission, and Davis pounded his way by sheer strength and endurance to two successive sets scored at 6—1, pulling out a hard won victory.

Lawrence Rice, a former member of the Yale tennis team, and this year's runnerup at Longwood, had Tilden working hard from the outset, and their very first game was a long-drawn deuce affair, eventually won by Rice. The Bostonian showed a splendid service, which frequently brought him clean aces, and he was not afraid to exchange drives with the world's champion from deep court, or to go in close when the opportunity seemed at hand. Tilden, however, was yesterday close to unbeatable form when he chose to let out with everything he had, and the best efforts of the loser only served to force him to greater heights of brilliancy. He won his first two service games at love, and later, when in the hole on his own delivery, he repeatedly called on his railroad serve with flat racquet, scoring successive aces when they were most needed.

Backhand Drives a Feature.

The most impressive feature of his game was his backhand driving, and he constantly turned what seemed to be defensive shots into winning placements by swinging freely and following through for diagonal shots right through the court from one corner to the other.

Tilden won the opening set by a single break through service, finishing at 6—4 with a game that contained two clean aces of his own. He took the second a little more easily, breaking through on the seventh and ninth games for a score of 6—3, and making the winning point with a backhand shot straight down the line that was a marvel of accuracy. In the final set Tilden led at 5—1, but lost his own service for the only time during the match and had to be content with a 6—2 score, Rice losing the final point by serving a double fault.

The national champion, William M. Johnston, looked strong in the first two sets of his match against young Carl Fischer, but weakened in the third, while the Philadelphian came on for some confident and highly effective play. They remained on even terms while the score rose to 5-all, and it was only after eight more games that Johnston was able to break through and claim the match by a count of 10—8.

The summary follows:

18 DEAD IN BELFAST; BURN CATHOLICS OUT

strong forces of military are continuously patrolling the affected districts, and in York Street, as I passed, there were a platoon and an armored car on duty. The menacing crowds noticeable at this point during the day had thinned out considerably.

Competent authorities assert that belligerents among the Catholics are better armed than their rivals. Though the majority of casualties on Saturday and Sunday were among Catholics, today the Protestants have chiefly suffered.

BELFAST, Aug. 30 (Associated Press).—The Lord Mayor of Belfast, after strong pressure today, made representations to the authorities, as a result of which General Bainbridge and Commissioner Gelston have given the customary twenty-four hours' notice of the enforcement of the curfew order.

Belfast is expecting a wild night tonight before the curfew comes into force.

A proclamation issued at Unionist headquarters today says:

"Sir Edward Carson (the Ulster leader) has called on all loyal citizens to assist the authorities in quelling disturbances and restoring peace.

"Negotiations have been proceeding with the Government, and an important statement is expected to be delivered to the Ulster Unionist Council on Friday next.

"Meanwhile all loyalists are earnestly urged to exercise the utmost restraint and forbearance, however great the provocation they may be subjected to, and to comply with the orders issued by the military authorities."

ULSTER COUNCIL MOVES FOR AN IRISH PEACE

Announces That Negotiations Are on and Important Statement Will Be Made.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—That efforts are being made to reach some sort of settlement of the multiform difficulties which constitute the Irish problem is suggested in an appeal issued tonight by the Ulster Unionist Council.

The appeal begins by saying that Sir Edward Carson has called upon all loyal citizens to assist the authorities in quelling disturbances and rioting and continues:

"Peace negotiations have been going on with the Government, and an important statement is expected to be delivered at the Ulster Unionist Council on Friday next."

As to exactly what this statement implies there is no information available in London tonight, and conjecture turns chiefly on the question of whether the purely local conditions of Ulster have been under discussion, or whether there has been an attempt on the part of Ulster leaders to meet the moderate elements in the rest of Ireland.

CORK'S LORD MAYOR IS RAPIDLY SINKING

Labor Council of Action Appeals to Premier—Cork Knight Protests to King, Dropping His Title.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—No word had been received from Lucerne, Switzerland, tonight indicating that there had been any change in the policy of Premier Lloyd George with regard to Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, who is in a precarious condition in the Brixton Jail here as a result of an extended hunger strike.

"The members of organized labor composing labor's Council of Action sent a message today to Premier Lloyd George, saying:

"The whole organized British labor asks you to reconsider the Government's decision to allow the Lord Mayor of Cork to die rather than release him. His suffering is greater than lengthy imprisonment. His death would make an Irish solution more remote. We have appealed in vain to the Home Secretary. We appeal to you to do the big thing."

Today was the eighteenth day of MacSwiney's hunger strike.

Father Dominic spent more than an hour in the prison tonight. When he left at 9 o'clock he reported that Mr. MacSwiney was weaker and expressed the belief that he might die at any moment. The priest said MacSwiney was showing an indomitable will.

Mr. MacSwiney's sister spent two hours in the prison this afternoon. She said she found her brother so weak that he was unable to give her several messages he desired her to convey for him.

At midnight MacSwiney was still alive. He was conscious, but unable to speak.

The Lord Mayor's brothers have received permission to remain with him until the end in Brixton Jail.

Mayor MacSwiney is coughing a great deal, causing anxiety because of the bad condition of his lungs.

The Lord Mayor has passed the point where food now would do him any good, according to a statement by the Brixton Prison doctor to MacSwiney's wife, who visited her husband this morning.

Mrs. MacSwiney remained with her husband for three hours. She said he was conscious and recognized her, but was unable to speak. Mrs. MacSwiney was pale and bore evident signs of the terrible strain.

Sir James Long, Chairman of the Cork Harbor Commission and member of the governing body of the University College, Cork, today sent the following telegram to King George at Buckingham Palace:

"As a protest against the treatment meted out to the Lord Mayor of Cork and his fellow hunger strikers by your Majesty's Government, I would respectfully ask that your Majesty remove the title conferred on me in 1910."

Baron Stamfordham, private secretary to the King, replied that the matter was one for the attention of the Premier, to whom the question had been referred.

Four hunger strikers in the Cork jail today completed their twentieth day of fasting and were reported tonight to be at the point of death.

Priest Says It Is Not Suicide.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The Rev. D. O'Meara, Administrator of the Catholic diocese of Southwark, in asking for the prayers of the cathedral congregation for Lord Mayor MacSwiney today, said the question had been asked frequently why the last sacraments should be given by a Catholic priest to a Catholic who is committing suicide. That was the typical personal view, he said, but it was not warranted from the theological standpoint. So long as death was not directly intended, the action of the Lord Mayor could be justified, he said.

The Daily News, in an editorial entitled "The Irish Program," alleges that the Irish policy of the coalition Government has "achieved a miracle of bringing about civil war between the North and South within withdrawing the British army of occupation."

After arraigning the past policy of the Government, The Daily News continues:

"While the fanaticism of both sides was thus deliberately fanned, efforts of moderate men to get together and arrest the threatened catastrophe have been almost ostentatiously defeated by acts of the Government. The first request of a conference at Dublin, meeting by special invitation of Lloyd George, was for the release of the Lord Mayor of Cork. It was not a very great demand to make. If his complicity in serious crime had been as undoubted as it is in fact questionable, his release would have been a small price to pay for conciliation of opinion in Ireland.

"The demand was supported by practically every section of opinion in this country. It was refused. Mr. Balfour explained yesterday that the responsibility for refusal rested with the Government alone. Mr. Balfour is quite right. It does, and the carnage in Belfast is the beginning of miseries and degradations which Ireland and England will have to endure as a result."

The editorial goes on to cite a statement by one of its special correspondents in Belfast that the attitude of the British troops is favorable to Protestant Ulster men. According to The Daily News "that attitude is inevitable. The Government taught them that their business is to fight the Sinn Fein, and that in the struggle they may legitimately override practically all ordinary restrictions of law. If an Orange mob will do the fighting for them, why, then, should they interfere? Why should not Sir Edward Carson's loyalists be left to hound women and children out of their homes, to loot Catholic shops and burn Catholic houses under cover of the Union Jack? The answer, of course, is that the only result of such proceedings is to convince the southern Irish finally that the Union Jack is an emblem of tyranny."

New details are given by The Daily Chronicle regarding the offenses for which the Lord Mayor of Cork was imprisoned. Uncontradicted evidence given at the trial was that when the military raided the Cork City Hall eleven men, including the Lord Mayor, ran into a but at the back, where one of the groups of soldiers caught them. The officer leading the party set a guard at the hut door and shortly afterward one of the guard reported that three of the men were trying to destroy papers.

The officer thereupon took out the three men, one of whom was the Lord Mayor, and searched them. Secreted behind some corrugated iron were found an envelope addressed to "The commandant of the First Cork Battalion, Republican Army," and copies of a number of cipher telegrams dispatched by the police only a day before.

Simultaneously another military party was searching the Lord Mayor's own room. There, locked up in his rolltop desk, they found a copy of the key to the police cipher in which telegrams were written. Evidence of all these facts was given by the officers and men who saw and found them.

"There does not seem to be the slightest ground for doubting it," says The Chronicle, editorially, "nor was it impugned in any way. What it implies for the Lord Mayor at a time when Cork was the most active centre of the campaign of police murders, carried out through the 'Republican army,' must be obvious enough to anybody.

"Two legal charges were based on it at the trial, first, that the Lord Mayor had the police cipher code in his possession; second, that he had one under his control, as it was not in his pocket but was in his desk.

"He was acquitted on the first charge and convicted on the second. The distinction, it will be seen, is rather technical than material. To say, as some Irishmen have, that he was acquitted of possessing the police cipher and convicted of nothing more serious than being a Sinn Feiner is to mislead the public about as seriously as is possible."

The company's export business has been affected by post-war conditions and the unfavorable state of foreign exchange. SONS TO GET HANAN ESTATE

Shoe Manufacturer's Will Filed—Wealth Estimated at $1,500,000.

The will of John H. Hanan, shoe manufacturer, who died Aug. 23, was filed for probate yesterday. Mr. Hanan, who was a widower, gave $5,000 to Joseph Henry Hanan, a cousin, of 375 Eighth Street, Brooklyn, and $3,000 to Edward B. Garthwaite, a friend. The remainder of the estate was divided equally between his

SEES TRADE LOST BY SHIPPING ACT

Payne Warns of Danger if Our Commercial Treaties Are Abrogated.

FEARS RETALIATORY ACTION

Other Nations, He Thinks, Won't Renew Treaties and Will Deny Us Trade Rights.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (Associated Press).—The United States may find itself without trade rights in other countries if Section 34 of the new Merchant Marine act is carried out, according to Secretary Payne of the Interior Department, who issued a warning in a recent letter to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, a copy of which became available here today.

"And of course it may follow," the letter added, "that the business of the country will find itself very greatly embarrassed."

"I wonder," Mr. Payne wrote, "if the Chamber of Commerce of the United States or any of its committees has given consideration to Section 34 of the Merchant Marine bill and the consequences to the commerce of the United States, which would result if the President follows the direction of the Congress with respect to the abrogation of treaties with the United States which restrict the right of the United States to impose discriminating customs duties on imports, or discriminatory tonnage dues on foreign vessels and on vessels of the United States entering the United States?

"The substance is: 'The President is hereby authorized and directed within ninety days after this act becomes a law to give notice to the several Governments, respectively parties to such treaties or conventions, that so much thereof as impose any such restrictions on the United States will terminate on the expiration of such periods as may be required for the giving of such notice by the provisions of such treaties or conventions.'

"This part of the bill has not been much discussed. A treaty, as you know, is a contract between nations. The treaties here affected are the commercial treaties on which our rights to do business with the nations of the world depend. Manifestly we cannot terminate these treaties without the consent of the country affected. Since theyy are reciprocal, all that we have a right to do is to terminate the treaties according to their terms.

"Some treaties may be terminated on a fixed notice; others are to run a definite number of years and may then be terminated on a fixed notice. The countries will scarcely consent to modify the treaties giving us a right to discriminate against their commerce and at the same time permit us to enjoy the rights which the treaties secure to us. A formal notice will probably result in the entire abrogation of the treaty.

"Passing for the moment any question of international good faith, we may confront the practical difficulty that we have no right to trade with other countries, since our rights in this behalf rest on the treaties affected, and of course it may follow that the business of the country will find itself very greatly embarrassed.

"While I am not charged with this matter, it seems to me it was something that you should be glad to have called to your attention."

The ninety day period provided in Section 34 expires Friday. Government officials have not thus far given any intimation as to what steps are contemplated toward carrying out Section 34. Both at the State Department and the Shipping Board, it is known, existing commercial treaties have been under study for weeks to determine just what clauses fall within the meaning of the section, but officials have not been willing to comment on the results of this investigation.

Section 34 has also caused some agitation in diplomatic circles here and is understood to have figured in many diplomatic conferences at the State Department. Neither the diplomats nor the officials of the department have been willing, however, to talk about the matter for publication.

ELLIS ISLAND FACES STRIKE.

Employes Reject Officials' Proposals and Vote to Quit Today.

A threatened strike of engineers, firemen, electricians and other mechanical workers at Ellis Island may tie up the immigration station service completely. The workers have threatened to quit this morning unless they receive substantial wage increases on the basis of awards that have been recommended to the Government and which, the men say, the Government has shown no disposition to meet.

A vote to quit was taken at a meeting of the employes last night at 229 East Forty-seventh Street, at which the workers rejected proposals submitted by the immigration officials at a conference yesterday afternoon, at which Commissioner General Caminetti presided. The workers submitted their proposals to John K. Sague, Appraiser of the Port, who will get in touch with Washington today. Mr. Sague told the employes that he was in sympathy with their demands and that he had written forty letters to Washington in their behalf.

Immigration officials and workers' representatives, with Commissioner General Anthony Caminetti presiding, conferred at Ellis Island yesterday. Immigration Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis, Rowland B. Mahany, attorney for the Department of Labor; W. Wagner, statistician and employment agent of the Department of Labor; Hugh Reid, secretary to Louis F. Post, Assistant Secretary of Labor, and H. T. Hughes, Commissioner of Immigration at Philadelphia, also attended the conference.

WANTS Y. M. C. A. DANCES.

West Point Instructor Asks Society to Favor Restoring Wartime Rule.

Randolph W. Vizay, instructor of dancing at West Point for the last thirty-six years, in his opening address as President of the American Society of Teachers of Dancing, at the Hotel Majestic yesterday, asked the members to take up the matter of having dancing inaugurated in all the branches of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations. He said this question was discussed at the Silver Bay Conference of the Y. M. C. A. workers and many secretaries were in favor of adopting permanently the wartime rule and allowing the admission of women to the Y. M. C. A. parties and entertainments just as they were made welcome during the war.

"Dancing would make both these organizations more popular," said Mr. Vizay, "and at the same time would be affording harmless amusement for thousands of men and boys throughout the country."

Statler to Manage Pennsylvania.

E. M. Statler, President of the Hotels Statler Company, announced yesterday that he will assume personal management of the Hotel Pennsylvania, succeeding Roy Carruthers, who is to become director of the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. Statler said there would be no changes in the general policies of the hotel and no changes in its organization. He has not been active in the management of the hotels comprising the Statler system for a number of years, and has confined himself almost entirely to the consideration of general matters of the company.

Ribbon as Hat Trimming.

Ribbon is a favored trimming for the early Fall tailoring and street hats introduced by one prominent millinery house. The material is used in a variety of ways. Sometimes it is fluted to the edge of the brim and again appears in tight accordion pleats. Some designs carry it run through loops in the brim or fashioned into bows to festoon the side of the crown. The hats themselves are made of velvet in dark shades.

Yards in Tenths.

A suggestion put forward by a member of the Silk Association of America is that yards be divided into tenths instead of eighths, thus eliminating much of the detailed figuring that fractions entail. Informal inquiry in the trade has brought out the fact that many firms would be in favor of the change if generally adopted. In simplifying calculations by using tenths instead of eighths it is pointed out that the only change necessary would probably be in clock dials.

Fur-Trimmed Garments.

There is not the demand for fur-trimmed women's garments in popular price ranges this season as there was last year. Price has had something to do with this, but it is said also that women of modest means are passing up cheap fur-trimmed apparel for all-fabric goods, as they are able to get better value in that way. In the higher priced merchandise there is no such change. The better grades of apparel trimmed with fur are reported to be as popular as ever.

Sale of Plush Coats.

As indicative of the response given to desirable merchandise that is priced right, a prominent ready-to-wear manufacturer cited the case yesterday of a sale of plush coats that yielded a store $10,000 in one day. He remarked on the rather active demand that has featured the coat business this Summer and ascribed it mainly to the fact that such goods were being sold on very close margins by both the manufacturers and the retailers. With the large number of motorists, he said, the sale of coats has become almost a year-round proposition.

Doll Goes to Sleep.

Within a few weeks a well known manufacturer of novelty dolls will introduce a new model, which not only speaks and can be walked, but also goes to sleep as naturally as a real child. When taken up the new doll cries with its eyes wide open. Then it is put in a crib and rocked. It continues to cry, but gradually the eyes close and as the rocking stops the cry dies down. The doll is clothed very elaborately with everything that a year-old child would wear. In addition to this high-priced novelty, the concern in question also ha a colored doll selling for $24 a dozen.

Fancies in the Lead.

In both dress goods and men's wear fabrics fancies are expected to be the point of main strength in Spring offerings. One consideration is that values can be more easily disguised in such goods, but another important factor is that in the surplus stocks now held in the market staple and semi-staple goods predominate. Another fact not lost sight of by buyers is that the retailers of both piece goods and ready-to-wear will do a lot of purchasing of fancies to freshen up old stocks. Well-posted men in the woolen market believe that the coming Spring business will more largely consist of fancies than ever before.

Gray Goods Continue Dull.

Yesterday simply witnessed a continuation of the dullness which has pervaded the local gray goods market for some time. The break in cotton prices during the day did not tend to help matters. Transactions in printcloths included sales from first hands of 38½-inch 64-40s, for September delivery, at 14½ cents and of spot 60-48s, in the same width, at 12 cents, while 44-40s, 8.20-yard, goods went for September from second hands at 9 cents. Among the sheeting sales were 5-yard fabrics at 12½ cents and 5.50s for 11½ cents for this month and next by second hands. None of the transactions were for large quantities.

The Woolen Opening.

Most of the large buyers of piece goods have made arrangements to be in the market next week, and this fact is taken to indicate that the opening will be held then. More secrecy than usual surrounds the plans of the large woolen factors for the new season, but something in the way of a preliminary announcement is promised for this week. In the clothing trade it is felt that the opening will serve to introduce new prices not only for fabrics, but for Fall clothing as well. A good deal of quiet "discounting" is being done, but it is thought that the naming of Spring woolen prices will bring a general concession in the clothing market.

Requests for Lower Prices.

In normal times it would be considered rather unusual to interpret requests for lower prices as a sign of better business, but that is the construction put on the inquiries now being received in the clothing trade. The number of these requests and the wide character of the different "trades" suggested are construed as an indication that buyers are more anxious than formerly to get their season's arrangements settled. In other words, a short time ago buyers seemed to show no interest whatever in what the manufacturers were going to do about Fall. Now they are making the rounds of the wholesale trade trying to find out where they can get lower prices or other concessions.

Repricing Clothing Values.

The reductions made on woolen lines for next Spring are expected to bring about a repricing of clothing values. But just what concessions the clothiers will be able to offer is a matter of doubt in the trade. Even a 30 per cent. decline in woolens will not mean much of a price saving if that alone is made the basis of readjustment. The material used in a suit, for instance, might cost $10. Three dollars off this, supposing the manufacturer's profit to be 20 per cent., would give a saving of $3.60 to the retailer. His profit, computed at 50 per cent., would save the customer $5.40. The repricing of woolens, however, by putting them into a different price range, may effect larger savings because the cost of labor is usually graded on the value of the fabric.

Britain's $52,780 Judgment Paid.

The judgment for $52,780 obtained by the British Government against Ernest Harrah for breach of an agreement by which he was to sell iron scrap to the British Government during the war was paid yesterday and marked discharged on the court records. At the trial of the suit the defense was that Harrah understood he would not receive payment for the iron he delivered.

REDUCE TWINE COSTS

One of our twine experts recently called on a large manufacturer and found that he was using a twine which seemed the most economical for his purpose.

Our expert's analysis of the firm's requirements, however, enabled him to supply a twine which was not only more suitable for the purpose, because of its greater efficiency, but it also cost 3c less per pound.

The yearly saving in this instance was about $750, or 3c a pound on 25,000 pounds of twine.

Your twine costs may be more than they should be. At any rate, it won't cost you anything to find out. A letter or a telephone call will bring one of our twine experts whose business it will be to show you.

Our stocks of regular and special grades of twine are complete.

PATS WIFE ON BACK TO HIDE $5,000 GEMS

DISCLOSES BIG ROBBERIES

Pawn Tickets for Jewelry Found in Bond's Home—Pistol Figures in Fight.

After Detective Finn had arrested Edward Bond, a hotel porter, at 102d Street and Amsterdam Avenue, at 8 o'clock last night, he thought there was something unusual in the way that Bond patted the back of his wife while he kept saying: "There, there. Don't worry. Everything will be all right."

So Finn, who first had asked Bond to go to the West 100th Street Station to be questioned, then had overpowered him when he started to run, and then had arrested him when the struggle disclosed a loaded revolver in Bond's hip pocket, now patted Mrs. Bond's back himself. When he felt a lump there he asked Mrs. Bond to go to the station house too.

There a search revealed the lump was made by a cigarette box containing four rings. Two of them were signet rings. Two were diamond rings, one containing a three-carat stone, and the other a dinner ring, two-carat stones surrounded by thirty smaller ones. The detectives said the rings were worth about $5,000.

The detectives said that Bond, who was charged with grand larcency and violation of the Sullivan law, confessed to several robberies in hotels on the West Side where his employment as porter and houseman permitted him to enter the rooms of guests for tasks like window cleaning. The detectives said Bond said he got the four rings found on his wife—who was allowed to go home with the baby she was carrying in her arms—while employed in the Hotel Schuyler in West Forty-fifth Street.

It was learned later that Mrs. Julia B. McLean, wife of William J. McLean, an advertising man, had reported the loss of rings from her room.

A search of Bond's apartment at 205 West 101st Street, detectives said, resulted in the discovery of a large number of pawn tickets, one of them from a pawnshop in Scranton, Pa., showing that a diamond ring had been pledged by Bond for $650.

RAILS COST TREASURY $100,000,000 MONTHLY

Few Roads Will Not Benefit by Government Guarantee Which Expires Tonight.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (Associated Press).—Railroads of the country will begin operation on their own resources tomorrow night, after having cost the Government approximately $100,000,000 monthly for the six months in which their earnings were guaranteed by the Transportation act. The carriers will be allowed further aid from the Government only through loans from the revolving fund which the act created.

Earnings of the roads will fall about $600,000,000 below their standard return for the period since March 1, according to estimates today by the Bureau of Railway Economics. Fewer than half a score of lines have produced revenue sufficient to equal actual operating expenses, which does not include the fixed charges of interest, taxes and dividends.

Definite figures on the cost to the Government of the earnings guarantee provisions of the Transportation act will not be known for several months, or until the various systems are able to complete the mechanical task of balancing books and giving detailed figures. Nearly all of the roads, however, have indicated already to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and through it to the Treasury, that they will have money coming to them as a result of the guarantee.

The Treasury has received dozens of certifications for advances under the guarantee within the last ten days, and more are expected tomorrow, Secretary Houston said. If the roads do not ask for an advance against probable deficits before tomorrow night, they must wait for a final compilation oof the sums the Government owes them.

Of the 1,194 lines of consequence in the country 607 have accepted the Government's proposal for a division of the surplus above the standard return and a guarantee of earning should the revenues fall short. All of these accepting the proposal will be entitled to a final adjustment of accounts by the Treasury and the payment, where the revenues were low, of the guaranteed amounts.

MISSING GIRL IS FOUND.

Realty Operator Held Without Bail After Child Makes Charges.

Alice Edith Dickinson, 15 years old, who mysteriously disappeared from her home on Park Avenue, Cliffside, N. J., last Monday, and in connection with whose disappearance William Bowne, a real estate operator of Cliffside, was arrested, was found late last night in New Brunswick, N. J. She had entered the Marriage License Bureau there and asked for a license to marry William S. Dickerson, 28 years old, a sailor in the navy, whom she says she met three years ago.

The girl will be brought back to Cliffside this morning.

Bowne, who had been released in $2,500 bail, was re-arrested last night, arraigned before Judge Edward A. Kenney and held without bail for the Grand Jury, following a statement made by the girl to John McAvoy, Chief of Police of Cliffside. The girl insisted she had been attacked by Bowne last August. Bowne, a married man with three children, denied all the girl's charges.

INDICT 59, SUE 300 IN SHIPPING INQUIRY

Government Prosecutors Charge Conspiracy Between Carriers and Freight Brokers.

THIRTY-EIGHT LINES NAMED

Agreement to Keep Forwarding Business in Hands of Only Seventy-five Men Alleged.

SHERMAN LAW INVOKED

Counsel for One Defendant Admits Lines Required Membership in Produce Exchange.

Thirty-eight steamship lines touching at the Port of New York, twelve officials of the lines, four freight brokerage corporations and five individual freight brokers, making fifty-nine defendants in all, were named yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury in an indictment handed to Judge William B. Sheppard, in the United States District Court, charging the existence of a conspiracy to restrain trade in violation of the Sherman anti-Trust law. The indictment, consisting of two counts, alleges a conspiracy between the freight brokers and steamship lines to keep all the freight brokerage business in the hands of the Steamship Freight Brokers' Association.

It was alleged that seventy-five freight brokers, members of the association, handled 80 per cent. of the freight to or through the Port of New York and the steamship companies transported practically all the freight.

At the same time the Government filed a bill in equity in regard to the same operations, naming as defendants 300 individuals, freight brokers and officials of steamship lines, as well as the steamship companies and the freight brokerage concerns.

The offense charged in the criminal action is a misdemeanor punishable by $5,000 fine or a year in jail, or both, for individuals, and $5,000 fine for corporations. The actions were directed against "Walter Moore and others" and were handled for Francis G. Caffey, United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, by Henry A. Guiler and Ryland W. Joyce, Special Assistants to the United States Attorney, and Henry S. Mitchell, acting Assistant Attorney General. The indictments and civil suit are the culmination of eighteen months of work on the case.

I. M. M. and Cunard Lines Named.

The steamship companies named included the International Mercantile Marine Company, the Cunard Steamship Company, Ltd.; the United Fruit Company, Ltd.; the Atlantic Transport Company, Inc., and Compagnie Generale Transatlantique. These are members of the Transatlantic Associated Freight Conferences, 59 Pearl Street.

The indictment charged and petition in the civil suit alleged that the defendants on Jan. 1, 1917, conspired against and since continuously violated the Sherman Anti-Trust law by restraining interestate trade and foreign commerce in grain, oil, lumber, coal and other commodities and manufactured articles. The indictment charged that steamship companies and the brokers and forwarders entered into agreements not to permit any freight broker or forwarder to become a member of the association unless he would swear to and would observe, adhere to and abide by, and be subject to the constitution and bylaws of the Steamship Freight Brokers' Association, and would agree that the freight rates offered or quoted by the authorized agents of the steamship companies should be observed, adhered to and maintained.

By refusing to pay brokerage fees to any person not a member of the association, the defendants, according to the indictment, agreed to discriminate against any other freight brokers and forwarders. The indictment also charged the defendants with "agreeing to control and dominate, through the organization and rules of the New York Produce Exchange, the members of said Steamship Freight Brokers' Association by requiring all applicants for membership therein to become members of the New York Produce Exchange," "the membership of which is now and for a long time past has been closed"; agreeing to blacklist all freight brokers and forwarders not acceptable to the defendant steamship companies and the Board of Directors of the brokers' association; agreeing that all contracts for the shipment of freight should contain the name of the real shipper in whose behalf or for whose account the contracts were entered into; agreeing that all contracts for the shipment of freight be made subject to the rules of the New York Produce Exchange; agreeing that no members of the brokers' association should divide any "brokerage fee" with any person other than fellow members of the association.

Business of Freight Brokers.

The freight brokers, or forwarders, the indictment and petition in the civil suit state, receive from persons who own or control and for whose account they handle the freight compensation for transporting it from the point of origin to the point of destination, and insurance charges, and also charges for cargo space, terminal, trucking or lighterage service, and also for the preparation of bills of lading and such papers as are required by the Customs Department of the Government in connection with shipments.

Since the establishment of the alleged combination and conspiracy on Jan. 1, 1917, brokers who are members of the association and the steamship companies included in the transatlantic associated freight conferences, it was further charged, have violated the criminal and civil provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust law by those and other means and methods for the purpose of monopolizing trade and commerce in transporting, shipping and forwarding freight.

In furtherance of the alleged combination and conspiracy, the indictment and petition in the injunction and dissolution suit alleged, the defendants held meetings and conferred and commuicated by letters and otherwise acted to revive and maintain the Steamship Freight Brokers Association.

The second indictment charges conspiracy to monopolize the transport of commerce, and was couched in language similar to the first indictment.

Charles C. Burlingame, counsel for some of the transatlantic lines, said yesterday that for several years there had been a conflict between the Steamship Freight Brokers Association of the Port of New York and another association of steamship freight brokers.

"The principal objection of outside brokers to this association seems to have been that its constitution limits the membership to persons who were either members of the Produce Exchange themselves or were connected in business with a member of the Produce Exchange," he said.

"It is important not only to the steamship lines, but to shippers and merchants, that the business of freight brokerage should be in the hands of responsible persons, and the requirement of membership in or association with the Produce Exchange seems a reasonable provision."

The defendants in the criminal action are Williams & Terhune, Inc.; Munn & Jenkins, Inc.; Lambert & Barrows, Inc.; Caldwell & Co., Inc.; International Mercantile Marine Co., Atlantic Transport Company, Inc.; Anchor Line (Henderson Bros., Ltd.), Green Star Steamship Corporation, Booth American Shipping Corporation, Bristol City Line, Ltd.; Bull-Insular Line, Inc.; Cunard Steamship Company, Ltd.; Commonwealth & Dominion Line, Ltd.; Ellerman's Wilson Line, Ltd.; Compagnie Francaise de Navigation à Vapeur, Compagnié Générale Transatlantique, Funch, Edye & Co., Inc.; Furness, Withy & Co., Ltd.; Nederlandsh-Amerikaanshe Stoomvaart Maatschappij, Kerr Steamship Company, Inc.; Navigazione Italiana a Vapore, Lamport & Holt, Ltd.; Societa di Navigazione (Lloyd Italiano), Societa Anonima Per Azioni (Lloyd Sabaudo), National Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., of Greece; Navigazione Generale Italiana, Nippon Yusen Kaisha O. S. G. (Japan Mail Steamship Company), Den Noreke Amerikalinje, Inc.; New York, New Foundland & Halifax Steamship Company, Ltd.; Atlantic & Caribbean Steam Navigation Company, Societe Anonyme de Navigation Belge Americaine, Koninklijke West Indische Maildienst, Koninklijke-Hollandsche Lloyd, Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, Det Forende Dampskibi Selskab, Compania Transatlantica de Barcelona, Swedish-American Mexico Line, Ltd.; Rederiaktiebolaget Sverige-Nordamerika, Trans-Atlantica Italiana Societe di Navigazione, Transoceanica Steamship Company, Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., and United Fruit Company, corporations, which are herein indicted and hereinafter called the "corporate defendants," Walter Moore, Elliott T. Barrows, Richard L. Walker, Jr., Charles W. Jordan, Harry Fowler, Robert H. Blake, Frank A. Ryan, William J. G. Hudson, Charles H. Georgi, Oscar R. Cauchois, Leslie A. Morgan, Harry T. SARAH BERNHARDT ILL AFTER AUTO JOURNEY

Actress Suffers from a Congested Lung and Is Unable to Keep Her London Engagement.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt is ill at her home here. The news, curiously, reached Paris from London, where the famous actress was to have given a series of six performances this week.

She was to have left Paris on Saturday night, but on Sunday friends who had gone to Folkestone to meet her discovered that she was not on board the ship, and a telegram was received later stating that she was too ill to leave her home here.

Her illness is, it appears, slight in itself, and only the age and past suffering of the famous actress give it an element of danger.

Its cause was an unfortunate automobile journey to Paris from her home at Belle Isle, on the west coast of France. Owing to the bad state of the roads the tires of her car were punctured thirteen times and halts had to be made in the open country while repairs were made.

Sitting in the car, Mme. Bernhardt took cold and on Saturday morning her physicians advised her to abandon any further journey at least for some days.

One lung was said to be slightly congested and though last evening she insisted on having some friends at dinner, those attending her stated that she was really very ill.

WHALE STEALS SHIP RIDE.

Liner Shoves Monster Along While Passengers' Cameras Click.

Captain Herbert Candy of the American liner Philadelphia, which arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg with 873 passengers, said that after being thirty years at sea he had at last been on board of a ship which collided with a whale.

"It was half-past three or seven bells on Sunday afternoon, the day after we left Cherbourg and the sailors were in the fo'cle partaking of a cup of tea and cake, as sailors do in these happy days, when they heard a knocking on the plates of the bow on the port side. It was a quick knock as if something alive was there and wanted to come in. One veteran seaman said it might be old Neptune coming up from Davy Jones's locker to give them warning. Finally one of the sailors came up on the bridge and reported the matter and a junior officer went to the bow and looked over the side and saw that the Philadelphia was pushing a forty-foot whale along against his inclination. The monster was trying by flapping its huge tail to get clear of the ship's stem.

"Several whales had been sighted after lunch by the lookout, and it was evident that the one caught by the ship's bow had been trying to get the barnacles scraped off his back against steel plates and got in the way. The skin of the whale was shaved down a bit on the back, but it did not appear to be much hurt. I stopped the ship and went astern and the whale sounded and disappeared. The passengers had a fine chance to take snapshots of a rare event at sea. Personally, if I had not looked over the bow and seen the big whale jammed close round the stem, I would not have believed it.

"We had a passenger on board who was going out to China to take charge of a steamship in Hong Kong. He was asleep during the whale incident and when I related it to him at dinner that night he replied: 'Tell that to passengers and they may swallow it, but I won't.'"

TIERNAN ARRESTED ON BOOTLEG CHARGE

Surrogate's Brother Accused of Selling Whisky, Then of Falsifying Records.

HELD UNDER $2,000 BAIL

High County Official May Be Subpoenaed, with Request to Examine His Bank Account.

LeRoy W. Ross, United States Attorney for the Eastern District, yesterday began his inquiry into charges of bootlegging on Staten Island, uncovered through an investigation of the murder of Robert Eckert, chief of a band of bootleggers, by causing the arrest of William P. Tiernan, wholesale liquor dealer and brother of J. Harry Tiernan, Surrogate and Judge of Richmond County, on a charge of violating the Volstead act.

Soon after he began the inquiry Mr. Ross appeared before United States Commissioner Rasquin in Brooklyn and presented evidence obtained by prohibition agents through an examination of "Willie" Tiernan's books. He requested Commissioner Rasquin to issue warrants for Tiernan, charging him with two infractions of the prohibition law. The first charge was that Tiernan illegally sold three barrels of whisky to Henry Hugot, proprietor of a hotel at St. George, S. I. The second charge was that Tiernan falsified the record of the sale in a report to the Internal Revenue Department to make it appear that the liquor was sold to a licensed wholesaler.

Commissioner Rasquin issued two warrants for Tiernan, who was held in $1,000 bail on each charge. He pleaded not guilty to both charges.

Examination Set for Next Tuesday.

Commissioner Rasquin announced he would hold an examination in the case next Tuesday morning. District Attorney Ross later stated he would submit the evidence obtained against Tiernan to the Federal Grand Jury when it convenes next Thursday.

After Tiernan had been released on bail, District Attorney Ross examined Agents Einstein, Smith and Wittenberg concerning alleged bootlegging operations on Staten Island after District Attorney Maloy declared that prohibition agents were suspected of having had intimate relations with the slain man.

William J. McGuire and James Weldon, prohibition agents, who for six months were assigned to investigate bootlegging on Staten Island, also were ordered to appear at District Attorney Ross's office, but they were not examined. Several days ago the two agents were examined by District Attorney Maloy, and later it was announced by Mr. Shevlin that they had satisfactorily accounted for their activities.

Hugot was to have been arraigned during the day but Robert Gilmore, Assistant Federal Prosecutor, announced that an information had been filed and that Hugot could be arraigned later before Judge Garvin in the Federal Court.

Howard Tiernan, cousin of County Judge Tiernan, who, on July 8 last, was arrested by Policeman Nadler of the Amity Street station, Brooklyn, on a charge of transporting liquor in a motor truck without a Government permit, was to be arraigned today before Judge Garvin, but it was announced yesterday that an information also had been lodged against him, and he would not be arraigned until Sept. 22.

Official May Be Subpoenaed.

It was reported yesterday that District Attorney Ross may subpoena a well known Staten Island official and request permission to examine his bank books and canceled checks. Mr. Ross had closed the inquiry for the day before he could be questioned about the report.

The records of the Police Court at Stapleton yesterday revealed that County Judge Tiernan on Sunday morning lodged a complaint of criminal libel against a Manhattan morning newspaper. He charged that the paper libelled him by stating that he had been "removed" as an acting City Magistrate by Mayor Hylan when presiding in Magistrate Mullen's place in the Stapleton Police Court on Thursday last. A policeman yesterday was ordered to serve the summons in the complaint on the newspaper.

William Moloney, hotel proprietor at South Beach; Charles Kane, owner of the car in which Eckert was murdered, and Max Katz, chauffeur of a motor truck on which Eckert is alleged to have transported several thousand dollars' worth of liquor in violation of the Volstead act, will be arraigned this morning before Magistrate Simpson on a charge of participating in the murder.

District Attorney Maloy was asked if he had obtained any evidence since the beginning of the investigation of the Eckert slaying implicating the three prisoners in the charge. He asked to be excused and walked away. The police admitted that nothing had been adduced in the investigation which could establish the identity of the man or men who did the killing.

Mullen to Make Statement.

William M. Mullen, father of Magistrate Mullen, against whom Judge Tiernan made sensational charges last Saturday, said his son, who is in a sanitarium suffering from a nervous breakdown, is expected to reply to Judge Tiernan's charges today.

The elder Mullen said he had been informed by another son, William L. Mullen, that he met Magistrate Mullen a block away from the police court on the day Judge Tiernan held Moloney and Kane on the murder charge and that the Magistrate told his brother he was then on his way to open court.

"William told me," said the father, "that he informed Magistrate Mullen Judge Tiernan then was presiding in his court, and the Magistrate replied, 'Well, then I'll go home. I'm too ill to go to court anyway.'"

The Magistrate's father also told of his visit to Mayor Hylan on Thursday, when he requested that he grant his son a leave of absence for thirty days because of the latter's ill health. He said he called on the Mayor that day at the suggestion of Judge Tiernan.

He declared Judge Tiernan said: "He is a very nice man and will treat you well," and that Judge Tiernan took him in his automobile to the St. George ferry terminal, and as he left him Judge Tiernan said Mr. Mullen could tell the Mayor Judge Tiernan was willing to preside in his son's place.

Mr. Mullen said he saw the Mayor and the Mayor granted the request. The Mayor informed him, he said, that he had arranged to have Magistrate Simpson sent to the Stapleton court.

"The Mayor asked me how things were on Staten Island," Mr. Mullen declared, "and I told him I wasn't a tale carrier; that things might be better."

Suffragists Owe for Victory, Says Miss Paul; Must Pay $12,000 for Tennessee Campaign

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The woman suffrage victory is "won but not paid for," according to Alice Paul, Chairman of the National Woman's Party.

Miss Paul said tonight that the campaign of the Woman's Party in Tennessee cost $12,000 and that this debt had not yet been paid. This expenditure was for the maintenance of the large staff of organizers in Tennessee, for salaries and traveling expenses and for the general costs of the three-fold campaign for the last State.

To raise contributions to pay the deficit the Woman's Party is sending out 6,000 form letters to suffragists in all parts of the United States. Miss Paul will not leave for New York City to meet with the Executive Committee of the party to discuss the future policy until all these letters have been mailed.

"At last the suffrage battle is won—but it is not paid for."

Miss Paul writes in her plea for funds: "The final hotly contested stages were costly and have left a deficit of approximately $12,000. We are glad that the money was spent on Tennessee because we believe that without it the victory would not have been won. But now the bills must be paid.

"Will you send some contribution to help pay the price of the victory? Even if you cannot give much, please do not put this letter aside without sending at least a dollar toward the Tennessee expenses. The money is needed urgently. There are bills for telegrams, telephones, printing, presswork, traveling expenses, salaries of the large staff of organizers maintained in Tennessee and general expenses connected with State headquarters.

"If you have not already contributed to the Tennessee work, will you not take this opportunity to have some part in the victory? If you have already given, will you not give once more to help wind up the campaign?"

EUROPE'S NEW RICH ARE GAMBLING MAD

Millions of Francs Lost Nightly by Profiteers at French and Belgian Coast Resorts.

DAZZLING DISPLAY OF GEMS

Visits Made Between Evenings at Casino to Grim, War-Ruined Areas Near By.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OSTEND, Aug. 30.—At a watering place on the French side of this coast along which the war was largely fought so recently one French manufacturer who in the war made an immense fortune in manufacturing munitions, lost in one evening at the gambling tables a round million of francs. Next evening it was the turn of a young Cuban millionarie who dropped a million and a quarter francs on the green tables, and every evening the same merry game of money losing goes on along the entire coast.

Monte Carlo is no longer the only place where play is high, and two and three million francs profit to the Casino from an evening's play is now as much the rule as the exception at Deauville and, though to a lesser extent, here.

European war profiteers have gone gambling mad and their fortunes in the past holiday month have changed hands with a rapidity even greater than that with which they were made. How it will all end nobody knows and evidently nobody cares. And it is not only the very rich who are gambling. Profiteering in Europe was widespread and comparative and where a few hundreds used to spend evenings at chemin de fer, roulette and baccarat there are now thousands and the tables are not numerous enough to enable crowds to get near them. If one wants a seat at the Ostend Casino just now it is advisable to be there when play begins at 10 o'clock in the morning and in the crush to get money on the board other people's toes are of least possible consideration.

There never was, too, such a display of jewels. Profiteers have had at least some sense remaining and have turned part of their fortunes into that form of easily realizable estate. Wearing diamonds with bathing dresses is being solemnly discussed, for the parade of wealth scarcely stops at the edge of the sea. Only a two hours' automobile run distant are Dixmude and Ypres and the beginning of the great terror-stricken area of devastated Belgium and France where with infinite patience and stout-heartedness peasants are reaping crops from among shell holes and building hutments to take the place of their ruined homes. To these historic towns and to take a look at the Vindictive and the battleground of the famous raid on Zeebrugge mole the profiteers go between evenings in the Casino.

In Ostend itself they are being—and that is some comfort—fleeced by the townspeople, for this, which used to be one of the cheapest as well as the gayest seaside resorts in Europe, now rivals all others in dearness. At the hotel at which I am stopping the charges in 1914 were 15 francs a day. Now they are 100. Madame apologized for that and on remonstrance quartered the bill with the explanation that to old customers prices were made considerate, but that only a very few old customers came back. All who are here just now are new and to them the prices do not matter.

Also we were friends, because during a night and day in September six years ago we labored to hide what of value the hotel contained. When everything was stored in the cellar a porter, one of the few remaining waiters and myself built a wall from floor to roof, shutting the valuables off from view.

But the Germans found out the hiding place. They had architects' plans of the building and discovered that the cellar ought to measure 24 feet across and that it measured only 20. So they pulled down our wall and emptied not only the store but the whole hotel of everything it contained.

Now madame makes those who grew rich in the war pay, and who can blame her? She and all others who here cater for the seaside holiday makers argue: "If we don't get their money the Casino will." And also "Every one is a long time making the Germans pay, so some one else must."

WU TING-FANG ACTIVE IN CHINA CIVIL WAR

With Other Southern Leaders, He Plans Overthrow of Peking Government.

PEKING, Aug. 28.—Martial law has been declared in Canton in a move of the southwestern military Government for the overthrow of the Peking Government, according to the Asiatic News Agency.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the first President of China; Dr. Wu Ting-fang and Tang Shoa-yi, leaders of the Southwestern Military Government in Canton, today issued a proclamation lauding General Tang Chi-yao as the "George Washington of China," to whom they look for the "overthrow of the illegal Government at Peking," according to this agency.

General Tang, who holds military control over Yunnan, Kwei-Chow and Sze Chuen Provinces in opposition to the Peking Government, is one of China's youngest prominent military men, being under 40 years of age.

Military headquarters have been established in Chung Kiang, in the eastern part of Sze Chuen Province, as headquarters of the new Government.

It is reported here that General Wu Pei-Pu probably will lead an army for the Peking Government against Sze Chuen.

DE LA HUERTA HOPES FOR A NEW MEXICO

President Tells His Visions of Prosperous Farms, Good Roads, and Schools.

PLANS COASTWISE SHIPPING

Will Combat Infant Mortality of 70 Per Cent. by Sending Nurses to Mothers.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 29.—Seated on the terrace at Chapultepec Castle, whither he had gone for a week-end rest, President de la Huerta this afternoon explained some of his hopes and ideas for the regeneration of Mexico.

Past administrations, he said, had only tried to build up Mexico City. No attention was paid to the development of the small town in the farming districts. Hundreds of farmers live in small towns without schools, without railway communications; with only a series of dirty roads which are impassable the larger part of the year, and oftentimes the farmers are compelled to make trips of many miles when they wish to send a telegram or purchase a newspaper.

These farmers are the backbone of the country, he said, and the Government must assist in maintaining schools and help to improve roads. "While conditions are hard for the farmer of the interior, the farmer on both coasts of the republic suffers more, as he is without coastwise shipping and is compelled to see his crops wasted for lack of communication," the President said, adding: "I have decided that the Government of Mexico will place in service on the coasts a line of steamers. A fast line of mail and express steamers will run on the west coast to Acapulco, Manzanillo, Mazatlan and Guaymas. Another line will run from Yucatan to the Gulf ports. When possible the railway will build links between the interior and the coasts."

"Where will you get sailors?" he was asked.

"From my experience when Consul General at New York I know that enough Mexican sailors are now working on foreign ships to handle all the shipping we propose to have. They will be willing to return and work on Mexican ships.

To Curb Infant Mortality.

"Another great problem," said the President, "in which the Government is greatly interested is the reduction of infant mortality in the republic. A book written by Alberto Pani, when Secretary of Industry, states—and is almost true—that over 70 per cent. of infants die before 2 years of age. We must educate the mothers in order to save these lives. One plan which we are studying is sending a number of trained nurses to the small towns, where they will open nursing rooms where mothers can be taught modern child welfare methods. The brightest mothers in the town will be selected, trained and left in charge, while the nurses will visit other towns. We expect that, with intelligent work, we can lower the mortality rate by at least 50 per cent., which means that the native population will rapidly increase and not be drowned by the immediate immigration of foreigners."

"How about oil?" he was asked.

"Really," he answered, "I do not care to talk until Congress takes action on oil legislation. However, I wish to make clear that we will not lose time in treating with unauthorized agents. We have lost enough time in conferences with oil representatives who have no authority. If duly accredited agents of the companies who have power to keep their word are appointed, the Government will receive them."

Regarding Bolshevist activities, the President said he had invited a number of so-called leaders to the palace, where he asked what their ideas were. He told them that they must start in some other country, as a country which enjoyed as much personal liberty as Mexico was not a country which would support extreme ideas.

"I did not tell them, but I have decided, that if they continue I will send those leaders to the Marla Islands, Mexico's 'penal colony,' where they may have an opportunity to convert the criminals serving sentences there. The most of these exploiters of foreigners will be given a change of climate at Government expense if they do not change their ways.

"Mexicans who look to the welfare of their country want foreigners in Mexico for their investments, for the things they can teach us. All protection will be given to foreigners and foreign capital, but they must not ask more privileges than the natives have."

Will Pay All Debts in Time.

Referring to foreign moneys taken from banks during the Victoriano Huerta and Carranza régimes, the President said it amounted to about $40,000,000, which will eventually be repaid. All debts owed by the Mexican Government will be paid, he said, adding: "Mexico has resources which are practically unknown. Her mineral wealth is only scratched. Mexico is not trying to avoid paying her just debts, but we cannot pay at once."

Touching on general conditions in the country the President said the entire country was practically at peace.

De la Huerta is the most democratic President Mexico ever had. During a society parade at midday in Chapultepec Park the President, accompanied by his wife, took his place in a file of autos waiting their turn to enter the park. A policeman saluted and ordered another auto to give way, but the President refused to accept, ordering his chauffeur to continue behind the other cars.

The President drives alone daily, without escort or secret police following, as he refuses to have a guard. Some days he walks long distances, being stopped every few feet by office seekers and others. The President listens patiently and then continues his walk, oftentimes passing through the crowd without being recognized.

Warsaw Headquarters Admits Progress of Budenny's Drive to Sever Front North of Lemberg.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Aug. 30.—Strong armed with victory, Poland has compelled the Soviet Government to agree to go to Riga for peace negotiations, and so has ended the farce at Minsk.

The so-called debate there was wound up when the Polish delegates presented a declaration amounting really to an ultimatum. It told the Bolsheviki how, with, as they foolishly believed, Warsaw in their grasp, they had abandoned their original principles and sought to impose conditions tantamount to those of a victor on the conquered. It added that adherence to such conditions would mean war to the bitter end, as Poland would never submit. In other words, it was made clear to the Bolsheviki that they must go to Riga both with a clean slate and clean intentions.

Meanwhile there is a pause in the military operations, so far at any rate as the northern front is concerned, and Marshal Pilsudski, Chief of State, has taken advantage of this interlude to outline his intentions for the future. He has done this in an interview published here which is calculated to prompt controversy and criticism both in Poland itself and among its foreign guardians.

"Our friends wish us to halt on the eastern front and maintain a solely defensive attitude," he says. "In my opinion that cannot be done. How is it possible for a small army not technically well equipped to create a defensive line on a front of hundreds of kilometers? There are only two solutions, either to advance to complete destruction of the enemy or else to halt on our illusory frontiers to conclude peace as quickly as possible. Even if we sign peace in such circumstances we shall always be the object of Russian aggression."

Apart from military reasons, Pilsudski advanced a highly significant political objection to halt on what he called the Entente line, namely, that "it would be to affirm by deed that this illusory eastern frontier corresponds to our aspirations."

Supporting his obvious belief that it is possible for Poland to destroy the existing Bolshevist army as a fighting force Pilsudski stated that its losses amounted to 100,000, adding: "It will therefore take the Soviets a long time to reorganize their armies, and I doubt whether they will even then be of great military value."

It is only fair to point out that the idea of continued aggressive action thus advocated by Pilsudski has opponents here and that the Government as a whole may have the last word.

WARSAW, Aug. 30 (Associated Press)—An official communication issued tonight says that General Budenny's drive, designed to cut the Polish front, has made further progress. The Budenny forces are moving slowly in the direction of Zamosc, northwest of Lemberg, despite Polish resistance.

The fighting elsewhere in Galicia, according to the statement, has taken a favorable turn for the Poles, who have occupied a series of places.

"On the northeastern front," continues the communication, "the Polish vanguards on the line of Grajevo, Ossowetz, Bialystok and Brest-Litovsk have occupied Sokolka, Loginka, Orzeschovo, Czachy, Podborze and Werchowiecze. Along the Bug the local fighting has been favorable to the Poles, who have regained Horodlo and Matcze."

Bolshevist officers taken prisoner by the Poles say that the Polish Army will not meet serious resistance until it reaches the line running through the railroad points of Vilna, Lida, Baranovitchi, and Luniniets, it was learned here today.

Wireless messages have been sent broadcast to scattered units of the Bolshevist Army remaining in Polish territory asking them to try to rally at Minsk and outlining the work of reorganizing these Soviet troops, according to a wireless message of the Bolsheviki which has been intercepted by the Polish General Staff. It is urged that this reorganization be pushed at all possible speed.

This intercepted message also noted the complaint of Bolshevist division commanders because they had received unarmed soldiers as reinforcements.

The message indicated that the remnants of the Bolshevist troops operating in Poland, as well as the recruits, would be divided into two armies. A northern headquarters would be established at Minsk and a southern headquarters at Rovno. Leon Trotzky, the Soviet Minister of War, is expected to take personal command of both armies.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Russian Soviet forces engaged in a counter-offensive against the Poles east of Brest-Litovsk have occupied four villages in that vicinity. Near Lemberg there is heavy fighting going on, and in the Vlodava and Grubeshoff regions there is local fighting. This information was received here this morning in a wireless dispatch from Moscow containing an official statement issued there yesterday.

PARIS, Aug. 30 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—General Boris Savinkoff, the noted anti-Bolshevist leader, has announced his complete recognition of General Wrangel's Government in Southern Russia and his intention to give General Wrangel his support, according to advices from Warsaw today. Two Russian divisions which are fighting with the Poles will join General Wrangel's forces and be entirely under his command, the advices add.

General Savinkoff is an old Russian Revolutionary Socialist who was prominently identified with Kerensky's régime. When the Bolsheviki assumed control in Russia he came to Paris. Recently General Savinkoff left for Warsaw, where he has been aiding the Poles in their fight against the Soviet forces.

Italian Reds Riot in Florence.

FLORENCE, Italy, Aug. 30 (Havas).—During a meeting held here today in favor of immediate recognition of the Russian Soviet Government a Police Commissioner was shot and killed. Policemen returned the fire, killing two persons and wounding seven others. A twenty-four-hour protest strike has been ordered.

ARREST GREEK CONSPIRATOR

Athens Authorities Find Brother of Man Who Shot Venizelos.

ATHENS, Aug. 30.—A brother of Apostolos Iserpris, who was one of the two men who shot and wounded Premier Venizelos in Paris recently, was arrested in Athens today.

The brother is said to have been in hiding since the attack upon the Greek Premier. His wife and sisters had been imprisoned as hostages, but he did not leave his hiding place until discovered by the police.

The Premier has decided that the alleged conspirators in a reported plot to end his life and restore the Constantine government will not be tried by court-martial, but by civil courts.

Wooden Fleet of 288 Vessels To be Sold by Shipping Board

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Plans for the sale of the Government's entire wooden ship fleet of 288 vessels, aggregating more than 1,000,000 deadweight tons, have been practically completed, it was announced tonight by the Shipping Board.

Announcement of a wooden ship sales policy along the lines laid down for the disposal of the steel vessels of the board is expected shortly. As in the case of the steel ships, it is believed that a minimum price will be fixed as a basis for competing bids.

Time for submitting bids for twenty-four wooden steamers, totalling more than 100,000 deadweight tons, recently offered for sale by the board, expired tonight. The proposals received will be opened tomorrow.

ENVOYS ILLTREATED BY REDS AT MINSK

Correspondents and Relief Workers, as Well as Delegates, Virtually Interned.

AMERICAN SERIOUSLY ILL

Denver Man Stricken and His Associates Ailing Under Evil Conditions.

WARSAW, Aug. 30 (Associated Press).—A wireless message from M. Tchitcherin, Russian Soviet Foreign Minister, to Prince Sapieha, Polish Minister of Foreign Affairs, dated Sunday afternoon, says:

"Your proposal to transfer the negotiations to Riga, which reached us today, comes rather late, seeing that two days before, Aug. 27, we proposed that you transfer the negotiations to Esthonia and immediately approached the Esthonian Government with that end in view.

"It is feared that the diverging proposal coming from you two days later will involve still more delay. Simultaneously with your telegram we received another, from Premier Witos, who seem to regard Minsk as continuing to be the scene of the negotiations. These divergencies, which evidently show an absence of collective decision on the part of the Polish Government, constitute a further reason to stand by the invitation sent you to adopt Esthonia for the ulterior negotiations."

A wireless message from Minsk says that members of the Polish Peace Delegation and those who accompanied it to the conference with the Soviet emissaries are becoming ill because of the unsanitary conditions under which they are compelled to exist.

Among those who are sick is Maurice Pate, Denver, a member of the American Relief Administration. The message states that Pate is seriously ill. The Denver man accompanied the delegation, together with Herschel Walker, Philadelphia, another relief worker, to discuss with the Soviet representatives a proposal for feeding war-stricken children.

The message says that conditions grow worse each day. The delegates are permitted to walk only in certain parts of Minsk and only at certain hours. The advisory experts and the newspaper correspondents are virtually interned on the premises occupied by the delegation.

The delegates are forbidden to read the numerous Soviet placards at the street corners by which the Bolsheviki constantly endeavor to incite the population against members of the Polish party. The only newspapers allowed the delegates are Soviet Communist organs.

The message states that there has been no messenger from Warsaw, and tells of damage done to the Poles' wireless plant, which, at the time this communication was sent by way of Moscow, had not been repaired.

It is physically impossible for the delegates to continue their work owing to the conditions, according to the message.

MINSK, Aug. 22 (via Moscow) (Associated Press).—Members of the Polish peace delegation, who came to this city to arrange an armistice and negotiate a treaty ending the war between Poland and Soviet Russia, have been engaged in a continual controversy with Bolshevist officials since arriving here. Disagreements between the delegation and the Soviet Commissar in command of the quarters where the Poles are virtual prisoners have reached bewildering proportions regarding the use of a wireless plant by the Poles and the regulations to be observed in the house where the delegation is living.

Some indication of the treatment in store for the delegates was seen in the action of the Bolsheviki when the Poles reached this city. When the delegation arrived, it was escorted by a detachment of mounted Soviet troops to a residence near the centre of the city, about which guards were posted with orders to allow no one to leave without a Soviet escort. The correspondent of The Associated Press has found it difficult to obtain an exact view of the situation, owing to the fact that he is a prisoner, like the rest of the Polish party. A visit was made to a local official, the correspondent being accompanied by a guard, and the official stated that, inasmuch as the correspondent had accompanied the Warsaw delegation to Minsk, he was identified with it. "It is too bad you came with the Poles," he was told.

The Polish delegation set up a wireless plant soon after its arrival, but was forced to move it three times in an endeavor to obtain a situation from which it might communicate with Warsaw. The last location was made this morning, and prospects of sending messages to the Polish capital were good, but when an attempt was made to use the apparatus it was found the Soviet commandant had sealed it.

The Poles are impatient under the confinement, while the attitude of the Bolsheviki seems to grow more offensive as news of Polish victories filters through the lines. Members of the Polish mission said today the Soviet terms presented yesterday were not acceptable. They added they expected more favorable terms if the Polish military successes continued, and that if concessions were not made by the Soviet delegation "there would be no peace at all." This contingency would not surprise anybody here.

It has been recalled that when the Bolshevist delegation appointed to negotiate a peace with Esthonia went to Dorpat last Autumn the Bolsheviki were kept under strict guard and were not permitted to appear in the streets without an armed escort. Correspondents accompanying the Soviet mission at that time were confined in the Bolshevist headquarters for more than a week before their liberty was given them.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The Italian Government, through its Embassy in Washington, has verbally expressed to the State Department its thanks for the recent note of Aug. 10 addressed to Italy by Secretary Colby setting forth the American Government's attitude on the Russian-Polish situation, and has advised this Government that it is in sympathy with the spirit and point of view taken in the Colby communication.

The subject matter of the note has not been dealt with further, pending a formal reply by the Italian Government, which the Counselor of the Embassy today advised the State Department would be forwarded by Premier Giolitti following his conferences with the British Premier.

Strength of Rail Shares Turn Price Trend Late in Session—Gold Movement.

The last hour of business in securities yesterday contained more developments of real worth than all of the other four hours taken together. In this period the handicap of 10 per cent. call money was overcome in the railroad share group and the general price-trend was converted from flabbiness, marked by recessions of industrial shares, into moderate strength. Trading was inactive most of the day and because of a lack of speculative interest outside of the purlieus of the Street, it would be easy to attach too much importance to purchases of railroad issues. Nevertheless, there was something to be said about the quality of a market which could surmount the onus of a stiff money rate coincident with the presentations of the last week's bank statements, showing additional evidence of an increase of the crop moving strain upon credit. Shares of roads which transport coal as a major freight item were prominent, including Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Lackawanna, and Reading, and the Street read into the movement a response to the President's approval of a 17 to 22 per cent. wage increase for hard coal miners.

Labor conditions were brought sharply to the attention of the financial district by the unexpected tie-up of Brooklyn's street railways and through cabled comment on concern throughout industrial centres of England over the threatened coal strike in the British fields. Another sharp break of cotton quotations at New York followed the lead of Liverpool where the possibility of a fuel shortage appeared to add a deeper bearish tinge to unsettlement previously discernible in the market over a decline of the consumption of textile goods in Britain and on the Continent. Doubtless, the local traction strike was all the more dampening upon security market sentiment because there had been less talk of labor unrest since the railroad wage increase was announced. But labor matters of late have not disclosed signs of becoming a rival of the restricted position of credit in holding back stock market fervor. A factor offsetting strikes here and there is the assertion heard in responsible quarters that workers in many lines are showing greater efficiency than a few months ago. In respect to credit, however, the horizon remains bereft of indications of a change. The Federal Reserve system's rediscounts and outstanding circulation reached new high record totals last week and there is reason to expect some further expansion before the peak of Autumn credit requirements is passed. A 10 per cent. call money rate on Monday hardly looks encouraging for the rate of the next few days, especially as the Treasury will draw down about $13,000,000 of its local bank balances today. The high cost which borrowers of demand funds are paying, however, speaks eloquently of the sort of buying that has gradually been lifting railroad stocks and bonds this month, hinting that cash consideration is playing an important part in the purchases. And that means the presence of investors.

Evidently, the movement of gold from European centres to New York is on the increase, but the significance of transfers now under way is not altogether clear by reason of lack of information regarding plans of the French Treasury. Yesterday $1,800,000 was reported on the way for a local banking firm, making about $31,000,000 received for this account since London auctions began to direct the metal this way. France has not announced the maximum limit of her shipments in connection with the Anglo-French loan payment and it is not known whether or not a substantial part of the metal will come from reserve of the Bank of France held in London. The gold movement has not yet done anything to help the Exchanges. Sterling receded 1¾ cents yesterday and French rates, with other Continental quotations, also lost ground.

FEDERAL RESERVE CANVASS

Wide Public Distribution of United States Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness Also Reported.

More Liberty bonds are being purchased in certain New York and New Jersey localities than are being sold, according to the results of a canvass made of sixty-eight banks in representative cities, towns and villages in the two States by the Federal Reserve Bank in this district. The Reserve Bank asked the out-of-town banks for advice as to their May, June and July purchases and sales of Liberty bonds and Victory notes. The replies showed that customers of the banks had sold $2,587,000 of the bonds and notes in the period and had purchased $3,701,000. In commenting on the situation the August bulletin of the bank says, in part:

"Only twenty out of the sixty-eight banks reported that sales exceeded purchases. It is quite evident from supplementary data furnished that purchases are mainly in denominations of $1,000 and over, while sales still include large numbers of $50 and $100 bonds. It did not seem of interest to secure similar data from banks in New York City because in New York so large a proportion of the business is done directly through brokers, whereas in most out-of-town places, particularly the smaller ones, it is done through the banks."

The report also discloses the interesting and important fact that there has been a very wide public distribution of United States Treasury certificates of indebtedness. On this it says:

"The volume of Treasury certificates of indebtedness of all issues outstanding on July 31 was $2,590,000,000. A careful study of the figures of the 815 member banks which report weekly to the Federal Reserve Board justifies the estimate that on that date, of the total volume of certificates $1,940,000,000 was held by the public and only $650,000,000 was held by the banks of the country. This is a degree of distribution not generally realized, for many who write on economic and financial affairs seem to be under the impression that the great bulk of the certificates are held by the banks, as was the case while Government bonds were being offered to the public. And of the $650,000,000 estimated to be still held by the banks a considerable volume must be held by non-borrowing banks, as only $350,000,000 is now being used as a basis for loans, or credit expansion, at the Federal Reserve Banks."

Touching on the commodity price trend the report says:

"During the past thirty days prices of a number of important commodities have shown a downward tendency, such as sugar, coffee, potatoes, wheat, rye, oats, flour, cotton and tin. On the other hand, certain other important commodities including pig iron, hogs and paper have showed an upward tendency. Most of the commodities showing declines are raw or semi-manufactured goods which, before they reach the consumer, will require the application of labor; and wages are still, on the whole, increasing. The decreases shown in the raw commodities will naturally, therefore, not result in equally important decreases in the manufactured goods. Nevertheless, all our domestic price indices show further declines during the past month."

DENY HUGE PAPER MERGER.

P. T. Dodge and Lord Beaverbrook Issue Statements on Rumor.

Philip T. Dodge, President of the International Paper Company, today authorized a statement denying reports that his company was party to a "giant merger of paper and pulp interests in Canada." In his statement Mr. Dodge said further:

"The International Paper Company is not proposing to part with its mills, their control or the sale of its products. In addition to its various newsprint mills in the United States, it is now pushing to completion at Three Rivers, Canada, a mill with a capacity of 240 tons a day. It is expected that this mill will be in operation during the Summer or Fall of 1921."

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 30.—Lord Beaverbrook, proprietor of The London Daily Express, today denied knowledge of any "great pulp and paper merger" reported to be in contemplation, and with which his name was connected.

ALIMONY CLUB'S COST RISES

Sheriff Asks Increased Allowance for Food for Ludlow Street Jail.

Sheriff David H. Knott sent yesterday to the Board of Estimate an estimate of his expenditures for 1921. He asks $1,400 for coal to help keep the Alimony Club warm in Ludlow Street Jail and $3,800 for food supplies, an increase of $400. He said the increase is due to the "uncertainty of the cost of all foodstuffs and the desire, if possible, to avoid requesting in 1921 an issue of revenue bonds to purchase food for the County Jail."

The Sheriff reports a saving to the county of $300 in the cost of transporting prisoners between jails and trains through the installation of a motor van service. His salary list for 1920 foots up to $214,197.

Asks to Issue $2,000,000 Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to issue general mortgage gold bonds to the amount of $1,000,000, and refunding mortgage gold bonds for $1,000,000.

TO ALLOT GERMAN CABLES.

Communications Conference Will Act on Various Seized Lines.

The question of ownership of former German cables will be considered at a meeting in Washington on Sept. 15 of the International Conference on Communications. The American members of the conference are Postmaster General Burleson, Admiral Benson and W. S. Rogers of The Washington Herald.

"The former German cables which will be disposed of at that time," says the National Foreign Trade Council, "comprise the Yap cables connecting Guam with Shanghai, China, and Menado, Dutch East Indies; the Atlantic cables, formerly connecting New York with Emden, Germany, one of which the British have diverted so as to connect Halifax, Nova Scotia, and Penzance, England, the other of which the French have diverted so as to connect New York with Brest, France, and the German-African-Brasil cable, the northern section of which the French have diverted to Brest.

"The allocation of any of these former German cables to the United States would prove most valuable in providing direct communication with foreign markets."

DISCUSS APPLE CROP TODAY

O'Malley and Growers' Association Officials to Consider Market Plans.

Commissioner of Public Markets Edwin J. O'Malley said yesterday that Frank Bradley of Appleton and Seth J. T. Bush of Morton, President and Secretary, respectively, of the New York Federation of Agriculture, had been delayed in arriving here for a conference regarding the apple situation, scheduled for yesterday, but that the meeting would be held in his office this morning. Neil Strome, a representative of the association, arrived yesterday from Walden for the conference.

Commissioner O'Malley said that he had made all arrangements to help the apple growers dispose of their crop and that it was now up to the growers themselves as to whether they would take advantage of his plans. These include the handling of some of the apples through a local cold storage warehouse and also a campaign among merchants to buy a greater quantity of apples. The growers had represented to him, Mr. O'Malley said, that they were unable to obtain warehouse space here for their product, which was one reason why they feared that millions of bushels of apples would go to waste.

Dr. Eugene H. Porter, State Commissioner of Farms and Markets, is continuing his efforts to obtain a greater consumption of apples. Housewives all over the State are being urged to observe this as "Apple Pie Week," in which every one should use some of this fruit.

$5,000,000 Gas Notes Underwritten.

A syndicate composed of Lee, Higginson & Co., Estabrook & Co. and Richter & Co. has underwritten an issue of $5,000,000 ten-year 7 per cent. gold notes of the Hartford Electric Light Company of Hartford, Conn. Proceeds from the sale of the notes will be used for extensions and additions to the company's plants and distributing system.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Quiet Market.

No great degree of interest was evidenced in the stock market yesterday. The volume of trading was small and the price changes at the close were for the most part fractional. Apparently there are too many conflicting elements at work to make for any free purchasing of stocks and the bears, who have been so successful of late in depressing quotations, are coming, it would seem, to the opinion that extensive drives at current levels might pave the way for a trap which would prove costly. There is therefore something of a deadlock which may not be broken until such a time as there is a definite turn one way or other in the news developments. The floor traders are of course active but are limiting their operations more strictly to trading, in the old sense of the word, and under such conditions wide swings are not usual. The money market continues to demand attention and while there is a hope on the part of many that rates will ease, few are willing to make predictions along this line.

Some Sharp Declines.

Here and there issues were to be found yesterday which fell off sharply on trading involving only a few hundred shares. This was true of Atlantic Gulf and West Indies for instance, and also of General Chemical, the former declining nearly 6 points and the latter 3 points. Other instances were to be found but such breaks were far from being prevalent. It was to be inferred, however, that the market for some of the high price issues was a bit thin. As a matter of fact there were few stocks which showed anything like a normal degree of activity. The vast majority were traded in to the extent of less than 1,000 shares and even United States Steel was not dealt in to as great an extent as 20,000 shares, this making a particularly small day for this stock.

Doheny Stocks Dull.

Both Mexican Petroleum and Pan American Petroleum, the two Doheny issues of prominence, were dull and heavy. This was despite reports that something big would develop with reference to both companies next month. There is nothing to indicate any foundation for rumors of this sort, which have been flooding the financial district for some time. All that can be said is that the Mexican Petroleum Directors meet the latter part of September and it is evidently in anticipation of action then that the rumors are being circulated. One report yesterday was to the effect that another big well was expected within a short time. This would be nothing unusual. Mex Pete has some of the choicest oil land in Mexico, and after the famous Cerro Azul well, the largest in the world, there is no telling what may happen under the plan of extensive drilling which has been undertaken. It is doubtful if the oil dispute in Mexico, which has now developed into a fight between rival American companies, is being considered with reference to the stock market. The rumblings are a bit far removed.

United States Steel.

From a position of market leader Steel common has drifted back to a point where the shares are small index to the market in general. The turnover in this issue yesterday was small and the price movement so narrow as to be negligible. The shares, selling ex-dividend, lost actually ⅝ of a point, but it was not the result of anything other than drifting trading. Since the first of the year the trading in Steel common has been much below the plane that was established during the war period. Also the price has recently reached lower levels than in many months. It is probable that there is a fairly good demand for Steel from those who are ever looking for what appear to be cheap issues in the stock market. It will be interesting to see whether the next statement of United States Steel holdings by investors increases, as was the case when the last announcement came forth.

Voluntary Rail Wage Increases.

When the Railway Wage Board gave increases to railway labor, which will amount ultimately to $300,000,000 a year, no provision was made for the supervisory workers on the different railroad systems. This was considered as far from being an equitable arrangement, and several railroad managers were quick to assert that supervisory officers would receive commensurate advances. In recent weeks some of the roads have voluntarily increased the pay of such employes, and it is the general understanding in conservative quarters that similar action will be taken by a majority of the corporations.

The Anthracite Award.

President Wilson's approval of the majority report in the anthracite disputes, which gave to coal miners an increase of 17 per cent. in wages and an estimated $18,000,000 in back pay, was received with conflicting sentiments in the financial district yesterday. At the same time, some operators and dealers expressed relief as the report should serve to stabilize prices, which have been subject to fluctuations which have been particularly trying to the trade, not to mention the consumer. The increase as allowed, in the opinion of many, should at least provide a basis upon which future prices should rest.

Railroad Shares Advance.

The coal road stocks were probably the first to show marked improvement yesterday following the announcement of the wage increases to miners of 17 per cent. Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio responded easily and closed for the day with net gains of more than a full point each, while the Eries became more active and Norfolk & Western gained 2 points. But the coal roads were not alone in the advance, such issues as Rock Island, St. Paul and St. Louis Southwestern also moving forward substantially. The reception of the new rate schedules, both by passengers and shippers without serious opposition, has been considered as a hopeful sign, and sentiment regarding the rails generally was materially improved.

Call Money at 10 Per Cent.

The Stock Market ran true to recent form yesterday when most of the gains in prices were made in the last hour when call money rates advanced to 10 per cent., the high for the day. On Friday last there was a similar last-hour rally. Despite the fact that many conservative bankers have said that the credit situation was much improved, it was apparent from the Federal Reserve bank that conditions were about the same as they have been recently. The rate for call funds has become extremely sensitive and the fact that the Government will withdraw some $13,000,000 or $14,000,000 in funds today was seized upon as the reason for the sharp advance to 10 per cent. yesterday.

An Important Decision.

Public utility specialists and bankers attach a great deal of importance to a recent decision handed down by Justice Swayze in the New Jersey Supreme Court, which upholds an 8 per cent. return in a group of utility company cases, who cites the United States Supreme Court in an old case. Justice Swayze in upholding the gas companies who claimed that their properties were undervalued and that the high rate of return thereon was justified said in part: "I think it entirely clear that the failure to allow for prices at the time to which the rates apply, July 1, 1919, was an error. It is not denied that prices were very much higher in 1919 and are very much higher now than the average for the years 1911 to 1916. So notorious was this that the United States Supreme Court has referred to it in an opinion as a matter of common knowledge."

Shares Reflect Strike.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock and certificates on the New York Stock Exchange both sought lower levels yesterday and reflected the strike news, but the reflection was of no particular importance as the turnover of the stock was very light and the certificates changed hands to the extent of only a few transactions. Both closed fractionally lower.

BANKERS EXCHANGE. FRENCH LOAN VIEWS

Developments of the Day Are Confined to Further "Conversations."

GOLD PAYMENT UNLIKELY

Definite Announcement May Be Made When Jean Bloch Starts Home on Sept. 10.

Developments surrounding the approaching French Government loan which is to be floated in this country were confined yesterday to further "conversations" among bankers. It was asserted again in authoritative quarters that no details had been agreed upon but that the exchange of views was continuing.

In some quarters the report that Jean Bloch, the French banker who arranged the French Cities loans here some time ago and who has participated in some of the "conversations" regarding the forthcoming loan, would sail for France on Sept. 10, was interpreted to mean that definite arrangements for the loan would be announced by then.

While it has been repeatedly suggested that France might pay off the entire loan by shipping gold, this was discouraged yesterday in banking circles because of the big percentage of France's gold reserve required, which would be some 750,000,000 francs. The sentimental effect of paying off France's share of the Anglo-French loan with gold would be good in this country, according to bankers, but the effect of such heavy withdrawals in France would be the reverse.

While no trace of the French gold which is en route to New York to an amount of $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 was obtainable yestreday, it was reiterated that the movement had started and the gold soon would reach here. What the total to be shipped will be has not been made known, but estimates place it between $40,000,000 and $60,000,000. In authoritative quarters it was said that the $1,800,000 in gold which is en route to New York from London on the White Star liner Baltic is not French gold.

Maurice Casenave, Director of French Services in the United States, denied the cable reports from Paris to the effect that Jean Parmentier, the French loan emissary in this country, had completed arrangements for a loan of $150,000,000 with American bankers.

WOULD STANDARDIZE 'CHANGE QUOTATIONS

Foreign Exchange Club Plans to Quote Francs and Lire in Cents for Each Unit.

CAMPAIGN TO BE LAUNCHED

No Effort Will Be Made, However, to Persuade Foreign Banks to Change Their Systems.

The Foreign Exchange Club, which includes about 100 men engaged in handling foreign exchange in local banks and banking houses, is preparing a campaign for changing the long existent method of quoting Latin exchange rates. On July 15 last many of the banks and firms decided to accept a plan for quoting francs and lire in cents for each unit, instead of the number of units a dollar would buy. It was realized shortly, however, that the abrupt alteration of the quotation method had been made without sufficient discussion among local banks and their correspondents and customers in other cities. A committee is at work on a plan for canvassing the field thoroughly and making the change as nearly unanimous as possible.

The committee consists of Ralph Dawson of the Guaranty Trust Company, Charles Spitzer of Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co. and William Suydam of the Hanover National Bank. The members have been instructed to study the situation and report to North McLean, Vice President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, who is Chairman of the Foreign Exchange Club. It was said yesterday that no effort would be made to persuade foreign banks to change their system of quoting the Latin exchange to conform with the plan in the United States. What is aimed at is the uniform quotation in this country of francs at 7 cents each, say, instead of about 14 francs to the dollar.

A suggestion that difficulty might be found in convincing exporters of the value of the change, as well as some bankers who have used the old method for many years, because London quotations would not conform, was scouted by one of the leaders of the movement here. He said the British system is uniform throughout and the purpose of altering the Latin rate quotations in this country was to make uniform all quotations on this side. All exchanges except French and Belgium francs and Italian lire are quoted in cents per unit.

"Selling Canada Short"

In 1893 one of the shrewdest of American financiers warned United States investors against selling the United States short.

The warning might be repeated with equal emphasis with regard to Canada.

Rather than "sell short," you should "go long" and buy desirable Canadian securities.

The present favourable rate of exchange makes possible income-yields of from 6½% to 9% with security that is unquestioned.

Write for a copy of our current edition of Investment Recommendations. If you have funds that you would like to see safely earning high rates of interest, this booklet will give you a wide selection. Address:

$10 A BALE DECLINE IN COTTON FUTURES

Market Fails to Rally, Even When Break Is Automatically Checked.

SPOTS DROP TO 32.25 CENTS

Good Weather and Lack of Spinner Buying Aid Bears—South Sells Heavily.

The weakness of cotton market future contracts was more pronounced yesterday than in any other session of the current reactionary trading period, a decline of 200 points, or $10 per bale, being recorded in all the active options except one. And this one, March, receded 190 points. The action of quotations seemed to show that the rally of last Friday and Saturday had merely carried the market to a level where bear attacks could be pressed with little resistance.

At their lowest levels the March, May and July prices were well under 25 cents. As soon as the maximum decline of 200 points was reported in the several months, the decline was automatically checked, but the market showed no rallying power in the final dealings.

So severe a reaction as futures suffered in the fore part of the trading session had a pronounced effect on spot quotations, and the day's spot price of 32.25 cents also reflected a marking down of 200 points. Reasons for the quick reversal of last week's closing quotations were not altogether clear.

The fact that moderately good weather had been reported over Sunday from important parts of the crop belt, instead of expected rains, probably stimulated professional short selling, but there was a noticeable lack of buying demand from spinners. The South sold heavily in the afternoon, evidently hedging operations, and pressure from Liverpool orders was reported. The Liverpool market became very weak after a wave of advancing quotations had appeared in the early part of the day.

Both the local and Liverpool markets closed amid a heavy pressure of orders, which were held in abeyance, to a degree, at New York by the limit price rule. The weather map held promise of less rainfall than occurred in several days last week, which was to be interpreted as favorable to the growing plant.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

"LONDON" Credit Insurance is not a hope or a promise—it's an advance guarantee. From present indications of business, the sooner you protect your debtor accounts with a "LONDON" Credit Insurance Policy, the better. Ask for our representative to call. There's no obligation.

RECEIVERS FOR STEEL CO.

Named in Equity Suit Against Vulcan Products Concern.

The Vulcan Steel Products Company, Inc., passed into the hands of receivers yesterday in an equity suit instituted by the Hercules Powder Company, a creditor for $15,000. The obligations were stated to be $900,000 besides claims for alleged breaches of contract aggregating $1,000,000.

It was said that the company has large assets, consisting of merchandise, accounts receivable, property &c., and that its embarrassment is due to the differences in the rates of exchange and in belated settlement of accounts which left the company without sufficient money to carry on its business.

An answer to the complaint was filed by Stephen H. Velie, President, in which all of the statements made in the complaint were admitted.

The company is capitalized at $700,000. Federal Judge Mayer named as receivers William L. Ray, Treasurer of the company, and Francis L. Kohlman, a lawyer. They will continue the business.

INDUSTRIAL BOARD HERE.

Organization Serving Manufacturers Moves Offices from Boston.

The National Industrial Conference Board, composed of twenty-nine national organizations of manufacturers and representing industries employing a total of 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 workers, has moved its headquarters from Boston to this city in order to be nearer the heart of the manufacturing centre. General offices have been opened at 10 East Thirty-ninth Street and the board has brought the greater part of its research staff, said to be one of the largest for this work in the country.

Magnus W. Alexander, managing director of the board, said last night that the board found it necessary to move here in order to serve better its large clientele. The work of the board, he said, consists of the study of industrial problems, particularly those affecting industrial relations, and the issuing of research reports concerning them.

HARRIMANS INVEST $5,000,000 IN SHIPS

Acquire Huge Block of Stock in Kerr Navigation Co. and Plan to Get More.

STATEMENT ISSUED BY KERR

Says Funds Realized from Liquidation Will Be Used to Obtain New Steamers.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Harriman interests have bought from J. H. Kerr and A. C. Clegg a large part of their investments in the Kerr Navigation Co., for $5,000,000 and soon will acquire additional stock in this corporation. Funds acquired by Kerr & Clegg from their liquidations are to be invested in United States Shipping Board vessels or in steamships built in American yards on plans to be approved by Admiral Benson.

H. F. Kerr, President of the Kerr Navigation Company at 17 Battery Place, gave out the following statement yesterday:

"Kerr & Clegg are arranging to liquidate further large amounts of stock to the same interest, all sales of stock being, it is understood, on the basis of $150 per ton deadweight valuation of the steamers.

"The deal when completed will give the old Kerr fleet to W. A. Harriman and in due course the operation of these vessels by the Kerr Steamship Company will be relinquished. Kerr & Clegg, being thus able to realize on their steamship holdings, are now in a position to develop the business of the Kerr Steamship Company in accordance with their original plans and by means of their own resources.

"Inasmuch as most of this money has been made through the ownership of American steamers, every dollar of the amount, less of course any tax there may be on the present transaction, will be invested as promptly as practicable in Shipping Board steamers or in American steamers to be built in American yards on plans to be approved by Rear Admiral Benson.

"It will be remembered that when General George Goethals and Kermit Roosevelt resigned as officers from the American Ship and Commerce Corporation, Roosevelt joined the Kerr Steamship Company as Vice President, to assist in the development of the national marine."

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 30.—Replying to the demand of motormen and conductors of the West India Electric Car Company for increased pay and altered conditions of work, the manager says he has recommended to the Directors in Canada that the men should get time and a half pay on two holidays, and in lieu of an increase each man should receive a life insurance policy of £100, payable at death or when unable to earn a living by accident or disease.

WHEAT MARKET WEAK.

Closes with Prices 2⅞c to 4c Per Bushel Lower.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Weakness developed in the wheat market today owing, more or less, to bearish estimates of the Canadian crop. Demand was light. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as Saturday's finish to ⅛c lower, with December $2.36⅛ to $2.36¾ and March $2.32, were followed by a moderate setback all around.

Most of the large export interests were said to be out of the market. The close was heavy, 2⅞c to 4c net lower, with December $2.33 and March $2.29½.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE BREAKS SWISS BANKS

Several Small and One Large Institution Declare Themselves Insolvent.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug 30.—The low value of foreign money, especially the German mark, has lately caused several small banks in eastern Switzerland to declare themselves insolvent. Other banks contrived to keep going owing to the special ordinance of the Swiss Federal Council enabling Swiss banks and commercial companies to evade ruinous consequences of prolonged depreciation of foreign stocks and exchanges.

Despite Government intervention one of the principal Swiss banks in Zurich, known as the Electro Bank, because its money was entirely invested in electrical undertakings, chiefly under German management, cannot meet demands of Aug. 31 and Oct. 1, this year.

According to the balance of June 30 last after calling upon all reserve banks, it still had a debit balance exceeding 6,500,000 francs, while on the credit side is an item exceeding 45,000,000 francs for uncovered losses in exchange.

Even as recently as December, 1918, a share of this bank was still valued at 875f., but Saturday last the shares were offered at 100f.

The Electro Bank, although in Switzerland, is really a German bank, and before the war had interests in South America, Turkey and Russia.

Prairie Oil Issues Statement.

The report of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1919, shows total resources of $130,203,997, as compared with $117,953,759 in the previous year. The profit and loss surplus in the present report amounts to $79,912,531, whereas in 1918 it amounted to $70,443,441. The balance sheet, under assets, shows a big increase in the item securities. The value is placed at $26,572,500, as against $3,262,500 in the preceding year.

$5,281,562 Chemical Dividend.

The report of the American Agricultural Chemical Company for the year ended June 30 shows a net income available for dividends of $5,281,562, an increase of $1,122,892 over the $4,158,670 reported in the preceding year. The present net earnings are the equivalent of $11.32 a share on the common stock after providing for the preferred dividend. In the report for 1919 the earnings were equal to $10.34 a share on the amount of common stock on which dividends were paid during that year.

$300,000 WAREHOUSE BOUGHT BY CITY

Building on West Thirty-eighth Street Will Be Used by Board of Education

AS A SUPPLY DEPOSITORY

Property Is Now Occupied Under Lease by the International Western Electric Company.

The City of New York purchased yesterday, for the Board of Education, the eight-story warehouse building at 152 to 156 West Thirty-sixth Street, on a plot 60 by 100, for $300,000. The property, which is between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, is assessed at $230,000. It will be used as a depository for supplies. The Brett & Goode Company negotiated the transaction.

The Board of Education Supply Department, which is at present without a home, was for twenty years at 318 to 322 East Sixty-eighth Street, but this property was recently sold to Flint & Horner as a warehouse for furniture.

Lewis S. Morris, John D. Peabody and the Farmers Loan and Trust Company as trustees for the estate of Archibald D. Russell were the sellers of the Thirty-eighth Street building, which is of unusually heavy construction. It was erected by Park & Tilford for their own occupancy and sold to Mr. Russell by that firm several years ago when possession was taken of the Forty-second Street warehouse building.

Its present tenant is the International Western Electric Company, which has possession under the terms of a lease expiring Jan. 1, 1921. Subsequent to the removal of Park & Tilford from the building, it was occupied for a number of years by the State of New York as a warehouse for military supplies to take care of the overflow from the State Arsenal on the corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street, abutting.

MORE AUCTION SALES.

Total of $100,000 Is Realized for Avon, N. J., Realty.

Joseph P. Day sold at auction on Saturday at Avon-by-the-Sea, N. J., four dwellings and a large tract in one offering, and six furnished dwellings and eight plots in another. The first netted a total of $59,133 and the latter $40,750. Lots on Riverview Avenue with frontages on the Shark River went from $385 to $600 each. A house and three lots on Belle Place was purchased by Joseph Pendergast, proprietor of Scotty's, who also acquired eight lots adjoining.

A dwelling at the corner of Lincoln Avenue and Third Avenue sold for $2,600 to V. Schledmer. Lots on Sylvania Avenue, between First and Second Avenues, went to H. V. De Voe for $2,150. A plot on East End Avenue between First and Ocean Avenues was bought by James Frey for $5,900. Norman F. Wiss purchased lots in Sylvania Avenue, a block and a half from the ocean, for $800 each.

Mr. Day also sold at auction on the same day the Duryea camp in the Blue Mountain Lake section of the Adirondacks to Dennis Dillon of Racquet Lake for $28,000. The property consists of 266 acres and ten buildings.

ALIENS GET OLD RAIL RATES.

Roads to Accept Orders Issued by Ship Agents Prior to Aug. 25.

After a conference yesterday afternoon at Ellis Island presided over by Robert M. Woolley of the Interstate Commerce Commission who came from Washington, the railroad representatives agreed to accept all orders issued by steamship agents to passengers prior to Aug. 25 at the old rates. During the last week several big liners like the Olympic arrived with a large number of immigrants and on account of the congestion at Ellis Island they could not land before the new railroad rates were effective and the agents held up their ticket orders.

The agreement will be retroactive the railroad managers said and the immigrants who have paid the increase and gone on to their destinations will have such increases refunded. About 7,000 persons have been detained since Aug. 25, by the controversy between the railroads and the steamship companies and will now be able to proceed. The majority did not have sufficient funds to pay the extra fares demanded for themselves and their families.

This agreement affects all vouchers issued in this country or abroad since January, 1920.

MAY TIE UP U. S. BUILDINGS.

Engineers Postpone Strike Vote Pending Final Wage Parley.

The engineers, firemen, oilers and watertenders employed in the Federal Buildings in this port, whose demand for an increase in wages under the so-called Macey award has been turned down by the Treasury Department because of insufficient appropriation, voted last night to defer for twenty-four hours action on the question of whether they would quit their jobs.

This action was taken at the request of John K. Sague, formerly Mayor of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., now appraiser for the Port of New York, who promised to endeavor to get in touch with officials at Washington today and urge that they consider the demands again. If Mr. Sague is successful in getting the matter reopened the men agreed to remain on their jobs for two weeks while the negotiations are being carried on.

While only ninety-five men are involved, it is said that if they should decide on a "separation from work," as they term it, all of the Federal Buildings in the city would be tied up.

28 TAKEN IN RUM DRIVE.

Week-End Arrests and Seizures Net 47 Kinds of Liquor.

Twenty-eight arrests for violations of the prohibition law were made during the week-end by enforcement agents from the office of James Shevlin, Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent, it was announced yesterday by John B. Quigley, chief assistant to Mr. Shevlin.

The number of arrests is one of the largest made by the prohibition agents in a single drive, and it was intimated that a special campaign on liquor sellers in the city has been opened. Mr. Quigley had not finished a compilation of a list of the arrests nor was able to estimate the value of the liquor seized, but said it would run into thousands of dollars. Mr. Quigley said he believed there were at least forty-seven different varieties of the seized liquor.

Vanderbilts Deny Tax Charges.

Frederick W. and Reginald C. Vanderbilt filed a general denial yesterday in the Federal Court to the suits of the Government for a total of $126,782.40 alleged to be due for income taxes. It was charged that inaccurate returns were filed by the defendants concerning the amount of their incomes for 1915. It was alleged that Frederick owed the Government $92,096.83 and Reginald $34,685.57. The answer was filed by the law firm of Anderson & Anderson.

WANTS STRIKE CURB TO AID HOUSING

Charter Unions and Require Secret Vote Under Election Boards, Says E. P. Doyle.

URGES MATERIAL INQUIRY

Would Bar Deposits by State-Controlled Institutions for Call Money Loans.

A solution of the shortage housing problem will necessitate the enactment of laws compelling trade unions to incorporate and preventing the calling of a strike unless the strike vote is taken in secret under the supervision of State or City Election Commissioners, declared Edward P. Doyle, First Vice President of the Realty Notice Corporation, in a statement issued yesterday. He said:

"If the Joint Legislative Housing Committee is really seeking a solution of the housing question regardless of political fortunes, the problems can easily be solved.

"To get capital the bonds of the State Land Bank should be made State the effect of their solution on their own instrumentalities. This would enable building and loan associations to get sufficient money.

"Second—The State and cities of the State should be authorized with proper safeguards to loan the surplus moneys of their sinking fund for housing.

"Third—Legislation should be enacted preventing the deposit of moneys of institutions controlled by the State in banks which specialize in loaning money on call on Wall Street securities.

"Fourth—Legislation should be enacted compelling savings banks to loan a larger portion of their deposits and insurance companies and trust companies to loan more of their surplus on housing projects.

"In the matter of material there should be an immediate inquiry by the Legislative Committee and the Attorney General into the alleged combination of building material men controlling prices. prices.

"As to labor, I would suggest that all labor and trade organizations should be compelled to incorporate and file yearly itemized accounts of receipts and disbursements with the Secretary of State. Legislation should be enacted to provide that no strikes be called by an incorporated organization or a lock-out ordered unless the members of such organization are personally interested, and then only after a secret ballot of duly qualified members at an election properly advertised and held under the supervision and control of State or City Election Commissioners.

"When all this is done, exempt new buildings from the rent profiteering laws, and in three years New York will be overbuilt as in the years from 1907 to 1914."

Mr. Doyle cited the case of a large builder who is seriously considering suspending work on 100 houses and going out of business altogether because the bricklayers insist that the builder shall do his work by day labor rather than by contract. The union is taking a step, says Mr. Doyle, which will curtail great building projects that are now under way.

The Lockwood Joint Legislative Committee will meet on Thursday morning at 10:30. Governor Alfred E. Smith is expected to be one of the witnesses.

LYNCH NEGRO IN OKLAHOMA.

Thirty Hang Prisoner of Raid in Which Three Are Killed.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 30.—The body of Claude Chandler, negro, who last night was taken from the jail here by a group of thirty masked men, was found early today hanging from a tree near Council Grove, about eight miles west of this city, according to a message to the Sheriff's office here.

Chandler was arrested Saturday in a raid upon an alleged moonshine still near Arcadia, Okla., in which Stanton Weiss, a Federal prohibition enforcement officer; Deputy Sheriff Homer Andrean and Charles Chandler, father of Claude Chandler, were killed. The two men who took the prisoner away obtained admission to the jail, officials said, on the pretext that they were an officer and his prisoner. Once inside, they produced revolvers, those in charge of the jail said, and forcibly took possession of the negro.

"I hereby bequeath to my family... MY FINANCIAL WORRIES"

WHAT man would think of writing such a clause into his will? Yet hundreds of devoted family men do leave their dear ones financial worries.

If you doubt this, think of the hundreds of widows, struggling with complex business problems forced on them by husbands who were intending to arrange their affairs "by and by."

Will you be one of those "by and by" husbands? Will you leave your perhaps inexperienced family to face, alone and unaided, the difficult task of carrying on the estate?

Add to the inexperience of the average family, the fact that there are unscrupulous individuals ever on the alert to take advantage of unwary heirs.

You can shield your heirs from possible financial loss, and insure responsible management for your property, in your family's interest, by appointing the Mercantile Trust Company executors and trustees under your will.

From the day your property is definitely taken charge of by the Mercantile, your securities, in addition to receiving the constant supervision of our trust officers, are periodically reviewed by our permanent TRUST COMMITTEE.

The membership of this experienced Committee is recruited from the Mercantile Directorate, the President of the Company serving with the Committee ex officio.

If you have not provided for the posthumous management of your property, in your heirs' interest, an interview may prove profitable. We shall be glad to explain any details.
